Separation Of Treaties And League Now Mooted

Germany Strongly Supports British Empire Suggestion

Berlin, June 15.

The Imperial Conference suggestion to separate the League Covenant from peace treaties has been very favourably received in Germany.

An official spokesman told Reuter to-day it was gratifying to see statesmen who were further from the scene had reached this conclusion earlier than European statesmen. It was the opinion of German authorities, he said, that it would now be possible for Britain to take the initiative in this direction, which would be a first step in the reform of the League.

The separation of the two elements would mark the beginning of a move towards unity of nations.

On the other hand, it was pointed out elsewhere, the separation alone would not necessarily bring back Germany to the League immediately. One statesman told Reuter that it was "only one step forward."—Reuter.

NO PARIS COMMENT

Paris, June 15.

Government circles are too pre-occupied with the domestic crisis to express any considered view of the Imperial Conference suggestion for the separation of peace pacts from the League Covenant. But Reuter gathers that formidable opposition is unlikely.

It is pointed out that the Covenant made of integral peace treaties was so constructed to meet the desires of the late Mr. Woodrow Wilson, who feared the League idea would not live otherwise. But the League has been going on eighteen years and is still a reality, whereas treaties are crumbling. Therefore separation would not greatly matter.—Reuter.

GENEVA REACTION

Geneva, June 15.

It is recalled here that Britain has already mooted the separation for reform of the League. Nevertheless, the reaffirmation of support for this principle in the Imperial Conference report has attracted great interest, though it is felt the proposals must be much more far-reaching with regards the modification of the Covenant if Germany is to be brought back or the United States brought in.—Reuter.

Anglo-German Exchange Of Views Sought

London, June 15.

Baron von Neurath, German Foreign Minister, will visit London on June 23 as an official guest of the British Government.

It is stated that no negotiations are under contemplation, but it is hoped the visit will offer an opportunity for an exchange of views on matters of common interest to the two countries, and in particular the Spanish problem.

Talks between Baron von Neurath and Mr. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, will cover the question of a new Western Pact, but no important development is expected beyond the mutual clarification of the British and German points of view.

It is understood that no change has occurred in the outlook of the British Government, which continues to regard the conclusion of a Western Pact as the first step towards a general European settlement.

The problem of Spain will be one of the chief subjects to be discussed and it is hoped to learn the German view regarding the means of tightening up the control scheme and the possibility of evacuating foreign volunteers who are fighting in Spain.

ITALY KEPT INFORMED

Berlin, June 15.

It is pointed out that Baron von Neurath's visit to London must not be regarded as a departure from the German and Italian line of policy and Rome is to be kept fully informed of the doings of the German Foreign Office, with which Italy is in full agreement. It is hoped that the visit will lead to further alleviation of the political situation.—Reuter.

SYMPATHY FOR THE BASQUES

Mr. Lloyd George, who had sent a telegram to the President of the Basque Government saying he is shocked at the way in which the democratic countries of the world permit the Dictatorships of Europe to crush the liberties of an ancient and honoured community without even a word of protest.

LAMENTS "CRAVEN SILENCE"

Lloyd George Has Strong Sympathy For Loyalists

London, June 15.

Mr. Lloyd George, veteran Liberal statesman, has sent a telegram to the President of the Basque Government stating that he is shocked at the way in which the democratic countries of the world permit the Dictatorships of Europe to crush the liberties of an ancient and honoured community, without a gesture or even a word of protest.

"It is a black page in the history of a powerful, free nation," says Mr. Lloyd George, "when they look on in craven silence at the spectacle of children being massacred in their homes because of the loyalty of their fathers to freedom."

"May God prosper the valour of the brave defenders of Basque liberty," adds Mr. Lloyd George in conclusion.—Reuter. Special.

BUSMEN'S DEMANDS ARE MET

Agreement Concluded Tentatively

London, June 15.

An agreement between the London Passenger Board and the Transport Workers' Union in connection with the recent bus strike has been tentatively concluded whereby the maximum spread-over duties of the workers will be twelve hours, while the maximum time of work will not exceed eight hours a day.

The agreement provides that disputes shall be discussed by the two parties, and should they disagree this question shall be left in the hands of a Board of Arbitration, comprising two persons from both sides with a chairman whose election shall be mutually agreed upon by the disputants, or shall be appointed by the Minister of Labour.—Reuter.

CONGRESS PARTY STILL ADAMANT

WON'T WORK UNDER NEW INDIA ACT

Calcutta, June 15.

Jawaharlal Nehru, in a speech to-day, dealing with the Indian political situation, reiterated that Congress was not going to withdraw its declaration that it would not work under the Government of India Act.

He added that only the All-India Congress Committee could change the terms laid down regarding the acceptance of office, though it was true that without changing the conditions, certain interpretations could be put upon them by the Congress Working Committee.—Reuter.

M. de Brochere having replied favourably, M. Dimitroff has deputed five members of the Comintern to meet representatives of the Second Internationale in Geneva as soon as possible.—Reuter. Special.

Martial Law Declared

Hendaye, June 15.

The Basque Government has declared martial law in Bilbao, it is reported here to-day. It is believed the step is taken partly with a view to preventing miners dynamiting the buildings of the ancient seaport.—United Press.

Bilbao's Crisis Near

London, June 15.

An Argentine observer, on official business, has telephoned from St. Jean de Luz:

"I visited the front to-day and found the insurgent troops ready to enter Bilbao at a moment's notice."

"More than 8,000 Basques have surrendered in the seacoast areas."

It is reported that General Davila's troops will probably enter Bilbao proper Wednesday.—United Press.

Many Taken Prisoner

London, June 15.

The Spanish insurgents have captured 5,000 Basque prisoners since entering the "Iron Ring," according to a message from Vittoria.—Reuter.

Warning To Madrid

Salamanca, June 15.

Rebel planes dropped proclamations on the Guadarrama front to-day, stating: "The Nationalist army is accumulating troops on the Madrid front and is about to deliver the final assault."—United Press.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS SEAT

London, June 15.

The by-election in the Drake division of Plymouth was held to-day, polling resulting in the retention of the seat by the Conservatives.

Result: Lieut.-Col. Henry Gust (Con.) 15,778.

Mr. Garratt (Lab.) 11,044.

Con. majority 4,734.

At the last General Election, Captain F. E. Guest (Conservative) polled 21,446 votes and Mr. J. J. Moses (Labour) 15,308, giving the Conservative candidate a majority of 6,078.—Reuter.

SILVER TROPHY STOLEN

A burglar entered 115 Boundary Street, Kowloon, between 3 p.m. and 3.20 p.m. yesterday afternoon and stole a silver cup bearing the words: "1921 Swimming Inter-Port High Diving, Prize C. A. V. Hall." Presented by the Hongkong Telegraph. The thief apparently gained access to the house through an open window.

NEUSEL WHIPPED BY FARR

Welshman Needs Only 3 Rounds CHANCE FOR WORLD TITLE

London, June 15.

Tommy Farr, young Welsh hope for the heavyweight championship of the world, whipped Walter Neusel, Germany's blond second-best after Max Schmeling, in the third round of their fight at Harringay Arena to-night. He knocked the German out.

Twelve thousand watched the Welshman administer a scientific beating to his opponent, whose grit and ability have made him popular in British rings.

Farr weighed 14 stone 7-3/4 pounds, Neusel 14 stone 8 pounds.

Farr's victory proved that his win over the American ex-world champion, Max Baer, was no fluke. And he avenged the defeats of Petersen and Foor at the hands of Neusel.

The first two rounds were slow, Farr scoring with his left hand, using a long, piston-like straight arm to the head and face. Neusel came under Farr's gloves and tried to wear his opponent down by fighting, punishing him about the mid-section. Farr boxed.

KING AND QUEEN GIVEN TREMENDOUS RECEPTION BY ASCOT RACE-GOERS

London, June 15.

Dull weather and showers of rain conspired to spoil Ascot's splendour to-day. Nevertheless when Their Majesties the King and Queen drove around the course in an open carriage, they were given a tremendous reception.

Derby form was upset when Sand-sprite and Le Grand Duc failed in their races, but punters were sent home very happy as four favourites and two second favourites were among the winners.

The Aga Khan scored a double, his 20 to 1 outsider, Queen Silvia, winning the Queen Mary Stakes, and Mizra, starting at 4 to 1 winning the Coventry Stakes.

Sir Abe Bailey also had a double success, his Gold Sent at 9 to 2 scoring over Sand-sprite by a short head in the Prince of Wales Stakes, and his Valerian, a 5 to 1 favourite, taking the premier race, the Ascot Stakes.

Tempest, owned by the American, Mr. Kingsley Macomber, priced at 3 to 1, beat Draytona, a 5 to 2 favourite by a short head in the Queen Anne Stakes. Mr. Gordon Smith's Fearless Fox, a 11 to 8 favourite won the Ascot Vase, and Mr. Marcel Bousquet's French-bred Goya II, starting a 9 to 4 favourite, won the St. James' Palace Stakes.—Reuter.

CHICAGO IMPROVES POSITION

While Giants Lose To Pittsburgh

Senators Win In 15 Innings

New York, June 15.

Chicago gained in the National League race to-day, while New York slipped. The Cubs won against Boston, five to four, on 11 hits to four. Hartnett hit a home run for the winners.

Pittsburgh, meanwhile, was beating New York, seven to five. The Pirates hit 14 times to the Giants ten, but their victory was marred by three errors. Ott homered for the Cubs, Suh for the Pirates.

Cincinnati defeated Brooklyn four to three, nine hits to four.

St. Louis piled up 13 runs on 14 hits against Philadelphia's meagre four on 11.

Ruffing of New York shut out Cleveland, allowing only four hits, while his mates hit seven to score three.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia, five to one. Boston defeated Chicago by the same score.

Washington, after fifteen innings, scored three runs in quick succession to beat Detroit, eight to five.—Reuter.

STRIKE CRISIS SERIOUS

Roosevelt Shows His Sympathies

Further Motor Plants Closed

Washington, June 15.

The growing seriousness of the steel strike was indicated at to-day's Press conference at the White House, during which President Roosevelt said that if the Republic Steel Company was willing to make a verbal collective bargaining contract, it should be willing to put it in writing.

The President declined to say whether federal intervention is contemplated, but he declared that all were hopeful that the dispute was going to be straightened out.

The day's developments include the closing of the Fisher Body plant at Cleveland, employing 5,500 men, and the same concern's plant at Buffalo, which has set 700 men idle. These stoppages have tied up the Chevrolet assembly line, throwing another 800 in idleness.—Reuter.

SEEKS SUPPORT OF LOW

Washington, June 15.

The Republic Steel Corporation to-day asked for a writ of mandamus in the Federal District Court here directing Postmaster-General Farley to order the delivery of food supplies mailed to the workers in the strike-besieged plants of the company. Mr. Farley was ordered to appear on June 22 and show why the writ should not be granted.—United Press.

The company previously urged the Government to force the mail vans through the picket lines, without success.

POSITION UNCHANGED

Columbus, June 15.

There was a four-hour parley here to-day between Republic Steel and Youngstown representatives, who stated "Our position is unchanged" at a press conference after the meeting. Bethlehem Steel was not replying idleness.—Reuter.

APPEAL TO FRANCO

London, June 15.

A copy of the Basque President's appeal to Mr. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, to prevent the destruction of the centre of Bilbao before the civilians have been evacuated, has been sent to General Francisco Franco, insurgent Commander-in-Chief, with the expression of the British Government's hopes that the threat will not be put into execution.—Reuter.

CRITICAL SITUATION FOR BLUM

Government May Be Forced To Resign

Communists May Withdraw Help

Paris, June 15.

The Chamber of Deputies re-assembled at midnight after the conclusion of the Finance Committee's examination of the Government's financial proposals.

A critical situation is reflected in the division of opinion amongst members of the Committee, which voted by 22 to 16 to report favourably on the proposals.

Of six abstentions from voting five were Communists and the other a Radical Socialist.—Reuter.

CHAMBER PACKED

Paris, June 15.

The Chamber was packed just after midnight for the debate on the Government's special powers Bill, M. Schmidt moving its adoption on behalf of the Finance Committee.

The Communists, after a midnight meeting, declared their continued opposition to the indirect taxation proposals and the Government's fall is believed to be inevitable. For even if M. Blum gets a majority, its slenderness will preclude his retention of office on such an important issue.—Reuter.

BLUM WINS SKIRMISH

Paris, June 15.

The Chamber of Deputies, by 359 to 230 votes, over-ruled the proposal to postpone the debate on financial decisions, marking the Prime Minister, M. Leon Blum's first victory in the financial reform fight.

However, Communists later indicated they might refrain from voting confidence in the Government.

M. V. Auriet, Finance Minister, told the Press it was imperative to restore order from the present financial chaos. They must end speculation with the franc, he said. He denied the Government was contemplating special taxes on gasoline, and sugar, but indicated he was studying the short-term market, and may issue short term bonds.—United Press.

MAY LOSE OFFICE

Paris, June 15.

It is generally believed that the Communist group will abstain from voting on the Government's Financial Bill unless the Government changes its attitude.

The abstention of the Communists will probably lead to the Government's resignation, as the Communists are still opposed to indirect taxation, but are prepared to offer collaboration in government on a wider basis which would, strictly apply to the Popular Front programme.—Reuter.

RUSSIANS APPROVE PACIFIC PARLEYS

London, June 15.

It is understood that Russia has informally approved in principle the suggestion made by Mr. J. A. Lyons, Prime Minister of Australia, for a conference to consider a non-aggression pact among the Pacific nations.

No further Australian move is expected for the present and it is understood the next step rests with the British Government, which is expected to continue informal talks with the nations concerned with the hope of working out some concrete proposal for the conference.

This may take considerable time, but it is no secret that Mr. Lyons is determined to do everything in his power to advance his policy of "peace in the Pacific."—Reuter.

ANGLO-TURKISH FRIENDSHIP

Istanbul, June 15.

The Premier of Turkey, General Inonu, declared to the National Assembly to-day that the Turkish Government had agreed to the terms made at Geneva for the settlement of the problems at Alexandretta and Antioch.

The Premier stated that during a recent visit to London he was impressed by the very friendly feelings of the British Government, and added that the British and Turkish Governments have the same aims and aspirations for the peace of Europe.—Reuter.

You'll find this such a useful frock says SUSAN GAY, smart too with its squared shoulders and twin pockets, and

it's very simple to make

YOU are wanting a new frock? Something for everyday wear, something that will be bright and cheerful, that will not look too summery on cold May days and yet will not look too wintry if there's a sudden burst of sunshine?

The artist has drawn a frock which is very trim and neat and a grand style for office wear (if short sleeves are frowned on, in your office then you can make it with long sleeves). But it's smart, too, with beautifully square shoulders and a couple of pockets—the 1937 season hall-mark. And you can see from the dissected frock drawn here that it's quite a simple dress to make for yourself.

Let's run through the rever-and-collar version shown in the large drawing, step by step.

THE BODICE FIRST

START with the bodice. Make the three figure-fitting tucks at each side of the front waist and the dart at each side that helps throw the bust into relief.

Stitch the back and fronts together at the shoulder and side seams, leaving a short opening at the left side.

Tuck the pockets in position over the tucks, being careful to get the two straight sides at right-angles, with the corner clear and sharp. Then stitch.

Face the right and left front of bodice with matching fabric, then attach the collar. You will find that everything fits in beautifully if you have been careful to mark in all the notches when you cut out your material.

Make three buttonholes down the front, at the spots marked in the pattern.

SLEEVES AND SKIRT

NOW for the sleeves. There are five graduated darts at the arm-hole top to give the squared effect. Stitch and press these. Then stitch the inverted pleat at the edge of the sleeve that gives the smart, fitted line. Stitch the sleeve seams and bind the lower edges with a bias facing.

Tuck the sleeves into position in the armholes, again matching the notches you have marked. Then stitch. Now make a little stitched muslin shoulder pad (the pattern will tell you how and it's very easy) and fix this over the shoulder seam and half-way down each side of the armhole. And that is the secret of nicely squared shoulders. So simple when you know how.

You've finished the bodice, so start on the skirt. Tuck and stitch the inverted box pleats at the front and back, then stitch the two side seams. Attach the skirt to the bodice, bind the under-arm opening, turn up the hem. Make a fabric belt, but you can also buy a leather or suede one in a different colour and get a gay handkerchief to match and so introduce a little variety at practically no cost.

FABRICS AND COLOURS

SILK or linen or plique are good fabrics for this frock this month. (Later in the autumn it would look good in a light weight woollen). Choose a new colour—say young-leaf green with a primrose spotted hankie, or mustard yellow with verdigris green belt and gankie, or Marlborough blue with mustard yellow etceteras.

If you want to vary the colour of your accessories I suggest you have wooden buttons covered with the dress fabric. They are very accommodating to change-of-colour schemes.

It May Be Hot, But You Can Look Cool And Fresh

By Marion Morton

TO look cool is half way towards feeling cool, and a girl who appears fresh and cool on a sweltering day is certainly a public benefactor—and, what is more, she obtains all the admiration and rewards to which such a good deed entitles her.

We all know the difficulty of looking as fresh as the proverbial daisy when the temperature registers ninety or more in the shade, but such an achievement is possible for any woman, though most of us, I am afraid, give up the struggle and simply sit and complain about the heat, looking hot and bedraggled the while.

Keeping cool is, at all times, largely a matter of temperament. If you plan your day carefully, and start for every appointment five minutes before you need, instead of two minutes later than you should, you will get through your day with calmness and serenity.

No ruffled temper, clammy hands, untidy hair and crumpled clothes will be your lot.

Your morning tub should be in ly upwards and are brushed off the top (not cold) water, with plenty of forehead and temples look, as well as soap suds; massage with a rough hand

A Refreshing Powder.

A refreshing dusting powder, which also deodorises, is obviously the one to choose. It will keep you dainty during the hottest day.

Your face may need a liquid cleanser in place of a cream one if your skin is inclined to be slightly greasy. The very greasy skin requires a cleansing lotion with astringent qualities.

A liquid powder base also helps to keep your skin look cool and greaseless.

Hair should be well thinned and cut fairly short, so that shampoos and "sets" are easily manipulated.

The new collures which curl light-

Do You Know How to Walk?

IT needs a bus strike to show us how little we walk, and how out of practice we are.

Here are some rules for walking, and if you follow them you will feel fitter and look better than you have done for years. Proper walking is one of the best aids to health.

First, see to your clothes. No restricted, lung-compressing garments; no heavy flapping coats or tight skirts. Shoes are, of course, of paramount importance. Look out for old low-heeled shoes, wide at the toes. Try not to wear the same pair of shoes two days running.

CHANGE your stockings or socks every day at least. Wool is far better for walking than silk or cotton, but although men can adopt this cure for three feet, wool for most women would bring on a bad attack of inferiority complex. So take an extra pair of silk stockings out with you and change in the middle of the day.

If your feet are extra sensitive will see that there is more grace in bathe them in warm water every her long free steps than in morning, softened with vinegar or mineral salt. Skip out ladies and ammonia. Shake a little talc powder you will take an inch off your hips on them after well drying and before the end of the bus strike.

Once the legs are going fine, think of the rest of your body. Hips should not waggle. Keep them firm and still with the "tail" well forward. Throw your chest out and up, and your shoulders back. Keep your chin up and look straight ahead, not down on the ground. Swing the arms regularly and breathe deeply.

If you watch a native woman carrying her wares on her head you will see that there is more grace in bathe them in warm water every her long free steps than in morning, softened with vinegar or mineral salt. Skip out ladies and ammonia. Shake a little talc powder you will take an inch off your hips on them after well drying and before the end of the bus strike.

It is a good idea to have a small bottle of Dettol with you, especially if you are walking in a crowded place. It is a powerful antiseptic and can be used for cleansing cuts or other injuries.

Dettol is a clean, gentle, pleasant fluid, non-poisonous yet highly efficient as a germ killer. The way to prevent blood-poisoning, etc., is by killing the germs that are the cause.

Children And Fresh Fruit.

Fresh fruit is good for children. But it requires careful supervision, as little ones are prone to eat it regardless of whether it is over-ripe, unripe or even damaged, in which conditions it can be highly dangerous, causing acute stomach trouble, diarrhoea, cholera, worms.

If, by chance, your child has eaten fruit of a doubtful nature, the safest plan is to administer promptly a dose of Baby's Own Tablets. The mild yet sure laxative action of the tablets cleanses the stomach and bowels and averts harmful consequences.

As a general health corrective for infants, and children too, Baby's Own Tablets are unsurpassed. They quickly relieve constipation, indigestion, colic, wind, check diarrhoea, expel worms, allay colds and croup. And during the trying time of teething they bring almost instant relief from pain, thus inducing sound, restful sleep in a perfectly natural way. Of all Chemists.

Is this YOUR baby?

Everybody loves a healthy, smiling baby. There is no reason why your baby should not be as attractive and lovable as the one in this picture. Health and happiness should be the birthright of every child but some parents unthinkingly neglect the simple ailments of childhood which may lead to more serious disorders. Castoria is made to correct colic, diarrhoea, sour stomach, indigestion and constipation. Castoria tastes so good that your child will love to take it. Absolutely harmless, Castoria can be given safely to the smallest baby. Inexpensive, too, a bottle of Castoria contains many doses. Use only Castoria, baby's own medicine, the next time your child is ill.

DESTROYERS COMING

The Japanese destroyers Sanaye and Kuretake are expected in harbour on the 18th and 19th of this month respectively. They will probably stay until the 21st and then proceed up river on routine patrol.

The climax in the entertaining "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" showing the court room scene in which Jean Arthur pleads for Gary Cooper's fair trial. The film is being repeated, by request, at the Queen's Theatre on Thursday and Friday.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGESWAN, CULBERTSON &
FRITZ LATEST REPORTS

New York, June 15.
S. C. & F. Dow Jones Summary of yesterday's markets:—Pressure has been relaxed in anticipation of an early favourable break in the ranks of labour. Steels led the rally.
Rally partially recovered. Utilities showed substantial gains. Farm implements strengthened. Coppers gained, ranging to 1 point. The advance throughout the list ranged above 2 points, with some individual issues above 3. Trading was moderate. Mail orders and automobiles were higher. Bonds were irregular, with United States issues irregularly lower. Curb stocks were higher, but the market was quiet.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal comment:—It is indicated that grain traffic is likely for some time to sustain freight movements on the railroads. The operating revenues for May of 88 railroads are 8.3% over those for May of last year.
Retail prices are higher. It is indicated that oil profits for the second quarter will be 40 to 50 per cent. higher than for those of the second quarter of last year. The weakness of the stock market is attributed to lack of industrial vigour as well as to labour unrest.

S. C. & F. New York office cables:
Stocks: The extent of the recovery was about in line with expectations, with a late rally aided by further short-covering and an unconfirmed rumour that an Administration spokesman will warn labour leaders that they must keep better control over unruly elements in their rank. Should such a stand be taken by the Administration, the stock market undoubtedly would enjoy a broad recovery, but it seems rather doubtful that such developments will be had. Failing this, and no improvement other-wise in the labour picture, it appears that the rally will carry much further without meeting fresh resistance. Accordingly, we believe it advisable to take advantage of further strength to lighten accounts to some extent.

Business failures for the week amounted to 101. Bulk of outside for the week totalled $15,500,000.
Cotton: Favourable factors were slackening of July liquidation, covering by shorts and weevil reports from the Mississippi. The market appears to be technically strong, but needs some stimulating development.
Wheat: Hedging is increasing, but is insufficient to outweigh the increasing concern regarding the Saskatchewan drought, which is getting worse and no relief is forecast.
Rains in the South-West are delaying the harvest there. Germany is reported to be inquiring about purchases.

Corn: Chicago advises that support of September position is expected at the present discounts. Contract stocks are light.
Rubber: There was some short-covering and evidence of outside speculative interest and dealers buying. It is estimated that Malayan
June exports amounted to 48,000 tons.
Sugar: The market is very steady.
There was some further liquidation,

WALLACE HARPER LTD. IMPROVED BUSINESS REPORTED

It was revealed at the annual general meeting of Wallace Harper and Co., Ltd., yesterday that the position of the Company had improved a great deal since last year. Net profit of over $20,000 for the year was reported.

Those present were:—Mr. W. Harper (Chairman), Mr. S. Jex (Secretary), Messrs. D. L. Ballantyne, E. W. Blackmore and J. F. Shen (Directors), Mr. W. Kitley and Mr. Li Chor-chi, representing the Overseas Chinese Banking Corporation (shareholders).

Messrs. Ballantyne, Blackmore and Shea were re-elected Directors and Messrs. T. A. Martin and Co. auditors.

Mr. Harper said:—It is my sorrowful task to record the death of Mr. Colbourne Little, who was one of the founders of the Company and served on the Board of Directors continuously from the Company's inception until last year when he resigned owing to ill-health. Through his passing we have lost a valuable friend and adviser.

The position of the Company at the close of the year can be regarded as very considerably improved as compared with the previous year. The result of the year's working is a net profit of $20,307.68 earned after charging off administration and other expenses, providing generously for depreciation of buildings, machinery and tools, increasing the stock reserve and providing a reserve for bad and doubtful debts. Your Directors recommend that this profit be applied against the debit balance of $59,248.15 brought forward from last year, reducing this item to $29,940.47 to be carried forward to new account.

Economies Made

Continuous effort has been made to effect economies in every possible way commensurate with sound business policies, and the success with which these have met is evidenced by a saving in overhead expenditure this year of $6,000 compared with last year. The full significance of this saving will be better appreciated when it is recalled that last year's figures showed a similar saving of $10,800 over the previous year, thus representing a total paring down of $25,400 in overhead expense over the past two years. At this juncture I feel it is not out of place to draw your attention to the fact that your Directors have again during the past year served without fees, a gesture which I am sure you all greatly appreciate.

During the year under review we have enjoyed for the first time what has been, to all intents and purposes, a stabilised exchange and it is certainly to be hoped that the measures which were adopted to bring this about will continue in force in the future. That the interests of the majority are better served by such stabilisation there can be no doubt.

Political events of the highest importance occurred in South China during the past year as a result of which it is not unreasonable to anticipate greatly improved trading conditions in the Provinces which our territory covers. A feeling of confidence is in evidence and this cannot be other than conducive to improved business.

General recovery throughout the world, and in America in particular, is being reflected in certain sections of our territory where Chinese who have lived abroad for some time have returned to settle. During the depression years remittances to

COMMODORE'S INSPECTION NAVAL VOLUNTEERS PRAISED

"Gentlemen, I am impressed that so many of you give up your time to training for a branch of service which is of the greatest importance to the Colony's defence."

With these remarks Commodore E. B. C. Dicken, O.B.E., R.N., addressed officers of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force when he visited H.M.S. Cornflower last evening.

Commodore Dicken paid a high tribute to the efficiency of the officers and men, stating that from a perusal of the records of the Force he had been struck by its performance during the recent combined operations.

Commodore Dicken was piped aboard and met on the gangway by Cmdr. J. Petrie, R.N., Officer Commanding the H.K.N.V.F., and immediately inspected in armed guard of Chinese ratings. He then proceeded to the poop deck where cadets, sub-lieutenants and senior executive officers were in line for inspection.

Following his address to the officers, he spoke to the ratings drawn up in the waist of the ship, paid them the same high compliment he had paid to their officers, and congratulated them on their efficiency and smart appearance.

These districts from overseas were tremendously reduced. Better times abroad are now causing a steadily increasing flow of these remittances and this has played a large part in our having secured, from one particular district which I have in mind, more business in the past four months than in the previous four years.

You will no doubt be pleased to learn that the progress we have made during the first four months of the present fiscal year has been most gratifying and there is every indication that the end of this year will see us in a position to more than wipe off the remaining debit balance which we are carrying forward from the year just closed.

HELENA MAY CONCERT MISS BARRETTO AND MR. ORE ON TWO PIANOS

The long awaited re-appearance of Miss Marina Barretto and Mr. Harry Ore was greeted with much applause at their pianoforte recital last night at the Helena May Institute. Playing to a full house, which included His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, Mr. N. L. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Miss Judith Smith and Mr. A. B. Laborinho, Consul for Portugal, Miss Barretto and Mr. Ore held their audience enthralled.

The familiar air of the "Blue Danube," arranged for two pianos by Mr. Ore, acquired new beauty and received sustained applause. Rachmaninoff's Suite, Op. 17, in C major, was a triumph. In this composition their genius found outlet. Perfect synchronisation in the difficult movements of this piece, the beautiful harmony and melody of the Valse and Romance, combined to make it the outstanding item of their programme.

The individual talents of the two pianists were given scope. Mr. Ore, for an encore rendered Scherzo in E minor (Greig).

The composing genius of Mr. Ore was made apparent in his Variations and Fugue in G Major, Op. 10, on a theme of Beethoven. This was the second piece of the evening. His arrangement of the Blue Danube, further testimony of his versatility, climaxed an evening's perfect entertainment.

The Programme

- (a) Fugue in G minor Bach.
(b) Variations and Fugue in G major on a Theme of Beethoven, Op. 10, II. Ore.
- (Two Pianos)
1. Solo: (a) Dounka, Op. 59. (Russian Rustic Scene). Tchaikovsky.
(b) Jeux d'Amour Ravel.
2. Suite, Op. 17, in C major. Rachmaninoff.
(a) Introduction; (b) Valse; (c) Romance; (d) Tarantelle. (Chopin).
- (b) First Scherzo in D minor (M. Barretto).
- The Blue Danube Waltz Strauss-Schulz-Evier (Arranged by H. Ore) (Two Pianos)
God Save the King.

MOTOR MISHAP NOT SO SERIOUS AS REPORTED.

With regard to the motor accident in which a naval officer was involved, reported in our issue of yesterday, we now learn that the car was driven by Lieutenant Commander (not Lieutenant) H. G. Bowerman, and that the mishap happened on Sunday, not Monday, as stated.

The Chinese girl who was knocked down, and who was stated in a police report to have been seriously injured, was discharged from Kowloon Hospital the day following the accident. The mishap, therefore, was obviously not so serious as was at first reported.

FOREIGN SHIPPING COMPETITION

Although it is almost impossible, due to the cryptic nature of the official communiques on the
subject, to ascertain what progress has been made by the Imperial Conference on the question of maintenance of British shipping in the face of foreign subsidised competition, some comfort can be found in the fact that the matter is considered to be one of common concern to the whole Empire. It is recorded that certain forms and methods of foreign discrimination are seriously prejudicing British shipping, if they do not actually threaten its entire elimination.
Accordingly, instances of this character, it is urged, should be brought to the notice of all Empire Governments for the purpose of considering the best means of meeting the situation.
The Conference itself does not appear to have had in hand the question of increased foreign competition in Far Eastern waters, although high praise is recorded of the work of the Imperial Shipping Committee in this connection. Presumably more will be heard of this matter
in the near future. One of the knottiest problems encountered
by the Conference committee has been the competition between United States, Australian and
New Zealand ships on the Pacific, concerning which no finality has yet been reached. Meantime,
the Governments concerned
therein, as well as the United Kingdom, has the question in hand. According to one message, the Imperial Conference delegates approved of a subsidy to British shippers engaged on the Pacific route, but somewhat unexpected opposition to the ratification of any such agreement appears to have been encountered from Mr. Mackenzie
King, the Canadian Premier,
who, anxious for the conclusion
of an Anglo-American trade pact,
fears that such a move might be interpreted as being aimed against the United States. But, surely, if United States vessels
are being subsidised and are thereby enabled to cut in on British interests, there is no valid reason why subsidy should not be answered by subsidy.
Here in the Far East, British shipping is being badly hit both
by subsidies and by discrimination. The latter issue is one of special importance, and, if fair treatment cannot be secured,
there would seem to be no other alternative but to retaliate along
the same lines where it is found that British vessels are suffer-

LIFE IN TO-DAY

By Philip Jordan

Bilbao. Sometime there is no bread. That makes life very difficult to endure. There is never any coffee; and those who are lucky enough to have a friend in Bayonne who will send them some by the daily air service, are the envy of the rest.

Probably this will be finished some time this evening: it was begun long before seven in the morning, for the first siren of the day has just gone, and it's going to be difficult to go to sleep again.

Not that they've bombed that part of the town in which I've lived since last September, but there's no reason why they shouldn't. And anyway, the walls of my room, and particularly of my bathroom, already shower me with plaster whenever a heavy lorry passes down the narrow street outside.

If a bomb fell anywhere in the neighbourhood—or if a banana fell on the roof—the hotel would almost certainly collapse. But there isn't another one.

You don't get used to air raids, either. The sirens have only to go once to give the average man the "willies."

WHEN they go twice, in short, breathless whistles, it means that the enemy is right overhead, and that if you are not in one of the "refugios" it's just too bad for you. When the two blasts go the police drive everyone off the streets into shelters as malodorous as they are inadequate.

If you don't want to go, and persist in being silly, they shoot over your head. Then you take refuge too.

Lots of people in the refuges hiss you if you talk while there's an air raid on. They do this because they really think that the aviators might be able to hear you, and that your voice is an open invitation to them to come and bomb.

But there are other times of the day—times when "normality" has been restored. That means that the German bombers have gone home to Vitoria.

In those hours the city functions normally—or as normally as any beleaguered city can be expected to function in conditions such as the Basques have to endure at this hour of their greatest peril.

Their situation is more hazardous at this moment than has been that of any city except Madrid on that black day early in November when the rebel forces were stamping their feet on the threshold.

BUT, none the less, the food situation here is a great deal better than it is in Madrid. There is plenty of fish. We have grilled salmon and strawberries for lunch most days—and until you have eaten grilled salmon and strawberries seven days a week for several weeks you can't imagine how tedious they become.

ing from a policy of virtual exclusion from foreign ports. All these matters are doubtless receiving close attention in official quarters, and in due course the present veil of secrecy may be lifted. It will then be possible to judge whether the measures decided upon are likely to prove of any real value.

It doesn't last long, though. You can't go through life drinking coffee with the starting eyes of about fifty people popping in your direction. You have to hand it out.

The shops are all open, but they are getting short of supplies. There isn't a linen handkerchief in the town.

Neither love nor money can procure you a shirt in anything except the most abominable tartans—the kind of thing in which members of the P.O.U.M. or the F.A.I. swaggered about in the streets of Barcelona before they were put in their places.

If you want to buy a wrist watch—as I did yesterday—you have to accompany the shop-keeper to the bank where he stored all his goods in the pathetic belief that the rebels, should they ever get here, would respect what lies in the vaults of those who are backing them. It seemed a pity to disillusion him.

(There have been five air raids since this article was begun: the four sirens that mean "normalidad" have just finished their seemingly interminable whirr.)

Mirth Among Motorists

A MOTORIST hurried into a shop and said to the girl behind the counter, "I want something funny and grotesque to go on the front of my car."

The girl retreated to the back of the shop.

"Father," she called, "you're wanted."

A policeman, sternly approaching a pretty girl who had just passed the red light, inquired—"Look here, miss, have you read the Highway Code?"

"Why, no," beamed the pretty girl. "Is it good?"

An Irish motorist was a witness in a legal case. The Judge thundered, "And now, sir, tell the Court what you were doing in the interim."

"Sure I never went there at all," retorted the Irishman indignantly. "I stayed in my car all the time."

A motorist was giving a young lady lessons in driving.

"The hand lever," he explained, "brakes the rear wheels only, and the floor pedal brakes all four. Is that clear?"

"Yes," replied the young lady doubtfully, "but I'd rather not have any of them broken."

Two cars had collided during the holiday rush. A frowning policeman approached and said to one of the drivers, "What's your name?"

"Mick O'Brien."
"Where do you come from?"
"Cork."

"Lay it there, man," said the policeman cordially. "Me own name's O'Brien, and I come from Cork. Hold on a minute till I charge this other fellow with furious driving."

A Scotsman was in China on business. One day he stopped at an hotel for lunch, leaving a coolie in charge of his car outside. An hour later he came out and found that his car had disappeared.

"Where's my car?" he asked the coolie.

"Me no' know," replied the coolie. "Me can't tell. Me press button and it went like hell."

In the course of a judicial inquiry into the responsibility for a collision between two motors, a witness was asked if he had actually seen the accident.

"Yes," he replied. "I saw the affair from start to finish."

"That being so," said the counsel, "can you tell the Court just what you think was the cause of the accident?"

"Well," replied the witness, "I can't go so far as that, but it appeared to me that both cars were chasing the same pedestrian."

Margaret Hillman.

FOR its size, Bilbao must have more sympathisers with the ex-cinemas than any other town in general Franco. There is hardly a star of the first magnitude whom you cannot see here this week. Greta Garbo in a film that must have been called "As You Desire Me" is the biggest draw.

"The Thin Man" is a bit of a flop: it may be too flippant for these extremely serious-minded people, who look like Highlanders. "Gold Diggers of Broadway," with a simplicity hardly characteristic of this country, is being presented at the Olympia as "Vampires of Broadway." They like to get to the heart of a problem here.

On the streets outside the station and outside the "refugios" a roaring trade is done all day in one of the most delicious fishes of the world: fresh sardines. In our hotel they seem to think them rather be-neath the notice of the rebel sympathisers who live there, so we only have them in an ex-tremity.

The town is full of "facciosos" here seem to feel rather sorry for them, as they might for de-mented children, for they see to it that they have the best of everything. If they want to go to France the Government takes every possible step to facilitate their evacuation.

SINCE the beginning of the revolution only 427 people have been executed here. Of these 199 were shot in a bunch by a group of what are called "incontrolados" who went on to what was then the prison ship and shot them as reprisal for a particularly brutal air raid.

The Basque Government are very ashamed that it should have happened, and it is not considered polite to discuss the matter—although no doubt everyone knows that all 199 of the victims deserved all they got.

It seems odd to see people going to church and to see priests going about the street and still receiving the respect that in other parts of Spain they used to demand as a right. It seems odd, after a stay in Madrid and in the south, to see the streets lighted up all night, for all the world as though it was peace.

There was an air raid in the middle of the night last week. The sound of the engine woke me up, but it didn't wake up the electrician until a bomb had been dropped. Then the lights in the streets went out, but they soon came out again.

Bilbao is determined to live as normally as it can. It can't be a very normal life.

When the day's work is over men and women give up their spare time to trudge out the hills with picks and shovel, and there they work half the night to improve the famous "iron ring" with which Bilbao will defend itself to the end.

Bilbao knows, everyone here knows that this city is the key to the Spanish war. If it falls—well, democracy in Europe must be prepared for a blow from which it will take a great many years to recover. That's the long and the short of it.

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND AND WAR

VIEWS OF PACIFIST AND NON-PACIFIST GROUPS

UNABLE TO ARRIVE AT UNANIMOUS DECISION

The Church of Scotland has not been able to arrive at a unanimous opinion on the problem of peace and war.

This is revealed in the report of the Church and Nation Committee, to be presented to the General Assembly.

Both pacifist and non-pacifist points of view are expressed in the report.

The suggested abolition of religious teaching is described in the report of the Education Committee as "disastrous," and on the question of the Roman Catholic transferred schools under the 1918 Act the Committee state that no proposals could be regarded with equanimity which might adversely affect one-sixth of the population of Scotland.

That the joint conference with the Anglican Communion must now be regarded as closed is the statement made by the Inter-Church Relations Committee.

The Home Board points out that the work of Church Extension is far from complete.

VARYING VIEWS

"Christian Conscience Must Be Supreme"

REMOVING CAUSES OF WAR

The report on the question of peace and war, extending, with appendices, to 25,000 words, is one of the longest ever presented to the Assembly. It contains the findings of the Committee of Church and Nation, with ad hoc members, appointed to "consider, in the light of Christ's teaching, the whole question of peace and war and the practical means whereby the Church may lead the nation in the way of peace."

Part of the report reads: "In presenting this report to the General Assembly, the Committee is conscious of disappointment that a unanimous view of the problem has not been found possible, but the issues have been definitely stated and the members of the Church must therefore come to a decision for themselves after due consideration of both positions."

After putting on record the long divide which all Christians, pacifist and non-pacifist, can travel together, the report states:—

There is no difference between the various sections of the Committee, and there will be none in the General Assembly, in the conviction that the abolition of war is a supreme Christian duty, and that no divergence of opinion should be allowed to hinder the steady prosecution of a strenuous endeavour to establish peace on the earth.

FUNDAMENTAL DIFFERENCES

The Committee studied deeply the mind of Jesus Christ on war and the relation of the Christian and of the Church to it. The general findings represent broadly the views of the majority of the Committee, though individuals would make reservations here and there. Section II represents the views of the pacifist group. Both are reprinted as valuable contributions to the understanding of the difficulty of drawing hard-and-fast conclusions from the words and actions of our Lord. From a study of these two contributions it becomes clear that pacifist and non-pacifist differ fundamentally on several issues, notably on the method of interpreting the teaching of our Lord and on the significance of His example. While there are large areas of agreement on what our Lord said and did, and what was in His mind on the questions at issue, it would be useless to attempt to disguise the deep differences of interpretation held by the two sections with equal conviction and equal desire to be loyal to the Master.

It was not found possible, after diligent study, to base the attitude of the Church to peace and war on any one of the sayings of Jesus, or even on all of them taken together. Sayings proved capable of varying interpretation and no unambiguous guidance on the question emerged. Our judgment therefore must be based not on particular sayings alone, but on broad essential principles which can claim the authority of Jesus.

Two statements follow, giving an exposition of each view, pacifist and non-pacifist.

NON-PACIFIST VIEW

Part of the non-pacifist statement declares:—

"In the present state of the world, the denial of the right of defence under all conditions would result in the world becoming an infinitely worse place than it is; it would mean that no invader would be repelled and no aggressor met at the gates.

"It is often argued that, even in a defensive war, the most effective defence will always be offence. But for Christians ethical considerations can never become irrelevant; and, even when victory may seem at stake, the Church cannot admit that military operations, whether by bombing or otherwise, which have the civil population, including women and children, as their deliberate objective can ever be brought within the definition of legitimate defence."

"But, in spite of this, both sections of the Committee agree that the Christian conscience must be given supremacy over the demands of the State. . . . That is a question not for the Church, but for the State; and all that the Church is concerned with to-day, and all that pacifists can ask, and do ask in this concern, is that the rights of Christian conscience be respected, and that those who believe in all honesty that they cannot fight because of their conscientious scruples should not be branded by the State as cowards or as traitors to their country. Beyond that the Church is not asked even by pacifists to go."

"There is an unanswerable case in logic for the international police force."

"Some form of the idea of collective security, however, seems to non-pacifists to be the only alternative to a system of agreements which ends in a balance of power, and he would be a bold man who would say that the latter is a safe basis for peace. In the end either the idea of collective security will prevail or each nation must set itself to achieve its own security by agreement with others of like mind and interests."

OVERCOMING EVIL

The statement of the pacifist position includes the following passages:—

"By pacifism we mean the overcoming of evil with good. We are pacifists because the total impression which Jesus Christ makes on us leaves us with no other choice. It is not because of a literal interpretation of any isolated texts that we occupy this position."

"If in this we are in error, we have misunderstood the Gospel of Christ, our preaching, not on war merely, but on life as a whole, is gravely misleading, and the Faith by which we live is vain. We believe that the issue which is before the Church is not merely the rightness or wrongness of war, but the meaning of the Gospel."

"Moreover, it seems necessary to point out that if the Church decides to support only genuinely defensive wars, it will prove to be impracticable for the Church in any actual situation to distinguish between a war which may be justified and one which must be condemned."

LEAGUE OF CHURCHES

Fortunately, the report proceeds, after we have recognised the different points of view of pacifist and non-pacifist, and with regret have found that our ways diverge, pacifist and non-pacifist can unite in working for the preservation of peace, or if it is broken, for the restoration of peace, and may give themselves as a united body to some at least of the activities by which men of goodwill are seeking to avoid war. Along these lines certain things must be attempted, however difficult and however disappointing their past history has been.

It was borne in upon the Committee that the Church, by reason of her divisions, is greatly handicapped in her endeavours to achieve war as a method of settling disputes between nations. This is a task which only a confederated, if not united Church can attempt.

The formation of some league of the Churches corresponding to the League of Nations would enable the Churches to influence all nations, and would educate not only the members of the Church but statesmen and rulers and peoples of the world as to the need for peace and methods of attaining it.

So long as the Churches remain national in their outlook and in their expression they will make little impact on the intricate difficulties that arise between nations.

The report refers to the need to remove the causes of war, economic and political, and says that all like peace combine in seeking a solution to the twin problems of colonial expansion and access to raw materials. These are difficult problems, but they must be faced if a peaceful atmosphere is to reign over Europe. It is not enough to say that Germany had colonies; there were more Germans in Paris than in these colonies, or that colonies are a source of expense, or that any person can enter a British colony and obtain permission to work its minerals or to farm its fields.

All these things may be true; but the problem is largely psychological, and it is national prestige that is at stake.

INCOME TAX BILL?—May look like it, but it's natural to this toman that Captain Eric Erskine Loch brought to New York from an expedition to Ecuador. Sent by the Museum of the American Indian, Captain Loch and party were absent 10 months.

GOLF-& HATS CAN WRECK MARRIAGES

Harrogate, June 1.

Little things bring marriage to shipwreck. It may be that you talk about your golf game or the size of the hat of the woman next door. Small habits people do not realise they possess cause full bids at the Divorce Court.

DJIBUTI'S FUTURE AS A PORT

Rome, June 1.

Djibuti's future as a port is very uncertain while the prospects of the railway line connecting Djibuti with Addis Ababa are just as dark owing to Italy's plans to create a port and a railroad line of her own in direct competition with the former two, both in possession of France.

Since Italy conquered Ethiopia she has been complaining that France was charging exorbitant rates for unloading Italian steamers at Djibuti and warehousing Italian merchandise bound for the inland of Ethiopia. She also complained about the high freight rates on the Djibuti-Addis Ababa railway, which is the only rail communication between Ethiopia and the sea.

Italians also have been complaining that the port of Djibuti is insufficiently equipped. Goods moved slowly toward Ethiopia, the perishable ones rotting under Djibuti's torrid climate.

The main cause of this dissatisfaction, however, is to be found in the nationalist sentiment now prevailing in Italy. The Italians, traditionally inclined to resort to foreign services, generally or buy foreign instead of national goods, now are rabid supporters of complete economic independence, refusing foreign things whenever possible under the watchword "L'Italia farà da sé" (Italy will do by herself).

It was for these considerations that Mussolini decided recently to make Assab a great and modern port. It will be built in four years and serve as an outlet for central Ethiopia and at the same time as a formidable naval base, to counterbalance the British naval bases of Perim and Aden.

Both Djibuti's port and railway will suffer still greater damage if, as it seems sure, the Italians abandon Addis Ababa as a capital and build another capital at a lower altitude than the present city, far from the French owned railroad. Addis Ababa, in consequence, will lose much of its importance as terminal of the line.

It was originally planned to link Assab to Dessie, the major centre of central Ethiopia, by motor road. However, the idea now prevailing is to construct a railroad instead. In the meantime work to improve the port of Assab is already under way. It provides for the construction of an outlying dam 800 metres long, distant 700 metres from shore, and also several quays totalling about three kilometres. These quays will allow six big vessels to moor simultaneously, not counting smaller boats. One of these quays will be ready inside a year.

THESE views on marriage were expressed by delegates to the British Board of Practical Psychologists which met in conference here to-day.

Psychology can make happier marriages, they said. It should be able to teach husband and wife how to modify characteristics which do not blend with those of the other partner.

If the problems which lead to divorce could be discussed with a psychologist, husbands and wives might be made to see how their marriages could be made happy again.

HOLIDAYS APART
Young fair-haired Miss C. Colledge, of London, said that before marriage it should be a good idea for couples to try to visualise how they would react to their life partner.

"They should study temperament and heredity," she said, "to see if there are characteristics, perhaps not predominant, but which they should submerge to prevent a clash."

"Holidays apart for married couples are sometimes good. Distance lends enchantment—and happy couples would return to each other more in love than ever," she said.

"Tolerance towards recreation and some activities apart, so there could be expression on individual lines, is also excellent."

SAFETY VALVE QUARRELS
"A quarrel is a safety valve providing the matter ends there and is not sulked over, while holiday romances and those of the ballroom often, end unhappily because couples are led away by an atmosphere to which physical attraction is the background," she added.

"Lack of success in film-stars' marriages," said Dr. Elsie Port, of California, "is due to the fact that although both are interested in the subject of films each wants to achieve success and subjugates all to this."

"Film stars have to be full of character and it is a sad feature that those whose characters do not blend are the ones who marry."

Corner For Naughty Children
Naughty children were one of the principal subjects of debate by 400 head teachers at a four-day conference which took place at Cardiff.

Covenry teachers are supporting a resolution asking for the aid of skilled psychologists in dealing with the problem of children.

Liverpool teachers will ask for a reorganisation of the system of judicature in children's courts, and the inclusion of a rota of head teachers to assist the present day magistrates.

Four big storehouses as well as electric cranes, railroad track and other equipment also will be constructed. All these works will involve an expenditure of between fifty and sixty million lire, while several millions will be spent to create the projected naval base.—United Press.

RECREIO WIN FIVE SETS AGAINST THE I. R. C.

Promising Start To League Tennis Programme

FOUR TEAMS WIN AS EXPECTED

After being thwarted for two successive weeks by rain, the "A" Division teams in the tennis league were able to play their matches of the season yesterday. Results were as expected, though the University's defeat of South China was somewhat more decisive than anticipated.

Rain prevented the I.R.C. v. Recreio match from being completed, but Recreio succeeded in winning five sets before the stoppage. Every set was hotly contested, three of them going to twelve games and two to ten games. Against H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar, the Recreio pair, Barretto and Remedios had to break through service twice in order to win after being in arrears. Recreio however, gave evidence of being a nicely-balanced side.

When Lee Wai-tong left on a football tour yesterday morning things did not look at all bright for the C.R.C. against United Services Recreation Club. The Chinese had to bring in two former "B" Division players to make up the team. But they played creditably and only Goldman and Sullivan presented any opposition.

K.C.C. won at the Cricket Club, dropping but two sets. University did very well to overcome South China A.A. by a similar score. Detailed results follow:

U.S.R.C. v. C.R.C.

United Services Recreation Club lost to Chinese Recreation Club three sets to six in the "A" division of the tennis league yesterday.

Scores:

L. Goldman and A. L. Sullivan (U.S.R.C.) beat Wong Shui-wing and Luk Ding-cheuk 6-4; beat W. C. Hung and Lu Tak-cheuk 6-4; beat Lee Yui-wing and Tsai Ping-fan 6-2.

Capt. Lee and G. E. R. Divett (U.S.R.C.) lost to Wong and Luk 4-6; lost to Hung and Lu 2-6; lost to Lee and Tsai 2-6.

I.R.C. v. RECREIO

Indian Recreation Club lost to Club de Recreio five sets to one. The third round was not played owing to rain.

H. D. Rumjahn and A. H. Madar (I.R.C.) lost to A. V. Remedios and J. Goncalves 4-6; lost to A. Barros and C. A. Barretto 5-7.

M. A. Hatzek and A. R. Mimi (I.R.C.) lost to A. V. Remedios and J. Goncalves 3-6; beat Barros and Barretto 6-4; lost to Remedios and Goncalves 5-7; lost to Goncalves and Remedios 6-7.

H.K.C.C. v. K.C.C.

Kowloon Cricket Club beat H.K.C.C. seven to two.

E. C. Fincher and G. Bowdler (K.C.C.) beat H. Owen-Hughes and G. W. Sevell 6-3; beat F. V. Harrison and J. F. Leys 6-3; beat R. K. Valentine and A. C. F. Bowler 6-1.

A. E. P. Guest and A. Crawford (K.C.C.) beat Owen-Hughes and Sevell 6-4; lost to Harrison and Leys 1-6; beat Valentine and Bowler 7-5.

E. C. Fincher and S. A. Gray (K.C.C.) lost to Owen-Hughes and Sevell 2-6; beat Harrison and Leys 6-3; beat Valentine and Bowler 6-3.

UNIVERSITY v. SOUTH CHINA

University beat South China seven to two.

P. C. Lee and H. N. Lee (University) beat K. N. Chiu and C. T. Yip 7-5; beat K. S. Lee and H. K. Ho 7-5; lost to S. N. Wong and L. H. Ho 2-6.

S. Wong and Y. N. Tan beat Chiu and Yip 7-5; beat Lee and Ho 7-5; beat Wong and Ho 6-2.

C. C. Ma and Y. C. Lau draw with Chiu and Yip 6-6; draw with Lee and Ho 6-6; beat Wong and Ho 6-4.

Result Can Be Ignored

(By Frank Poxon)

With no desire at all to detract from the merit of Miss Freda James's victory over Miss Alice Marble in the Surrey lawn tennis championships at Surbiton, I think the result can be ignored from the point of view of appraising Miss Marble's ability.

Hours of rain had left the court "dead" and very slippery, and the player of superior class had no chance of asserting her superiority. A muddy court is a great leveller.

From the start Miss Marble was in trouble. She slipped and dithered and there can be no doubt that, on the day, Miss James well deserved her victory by 6-4, 6-3.

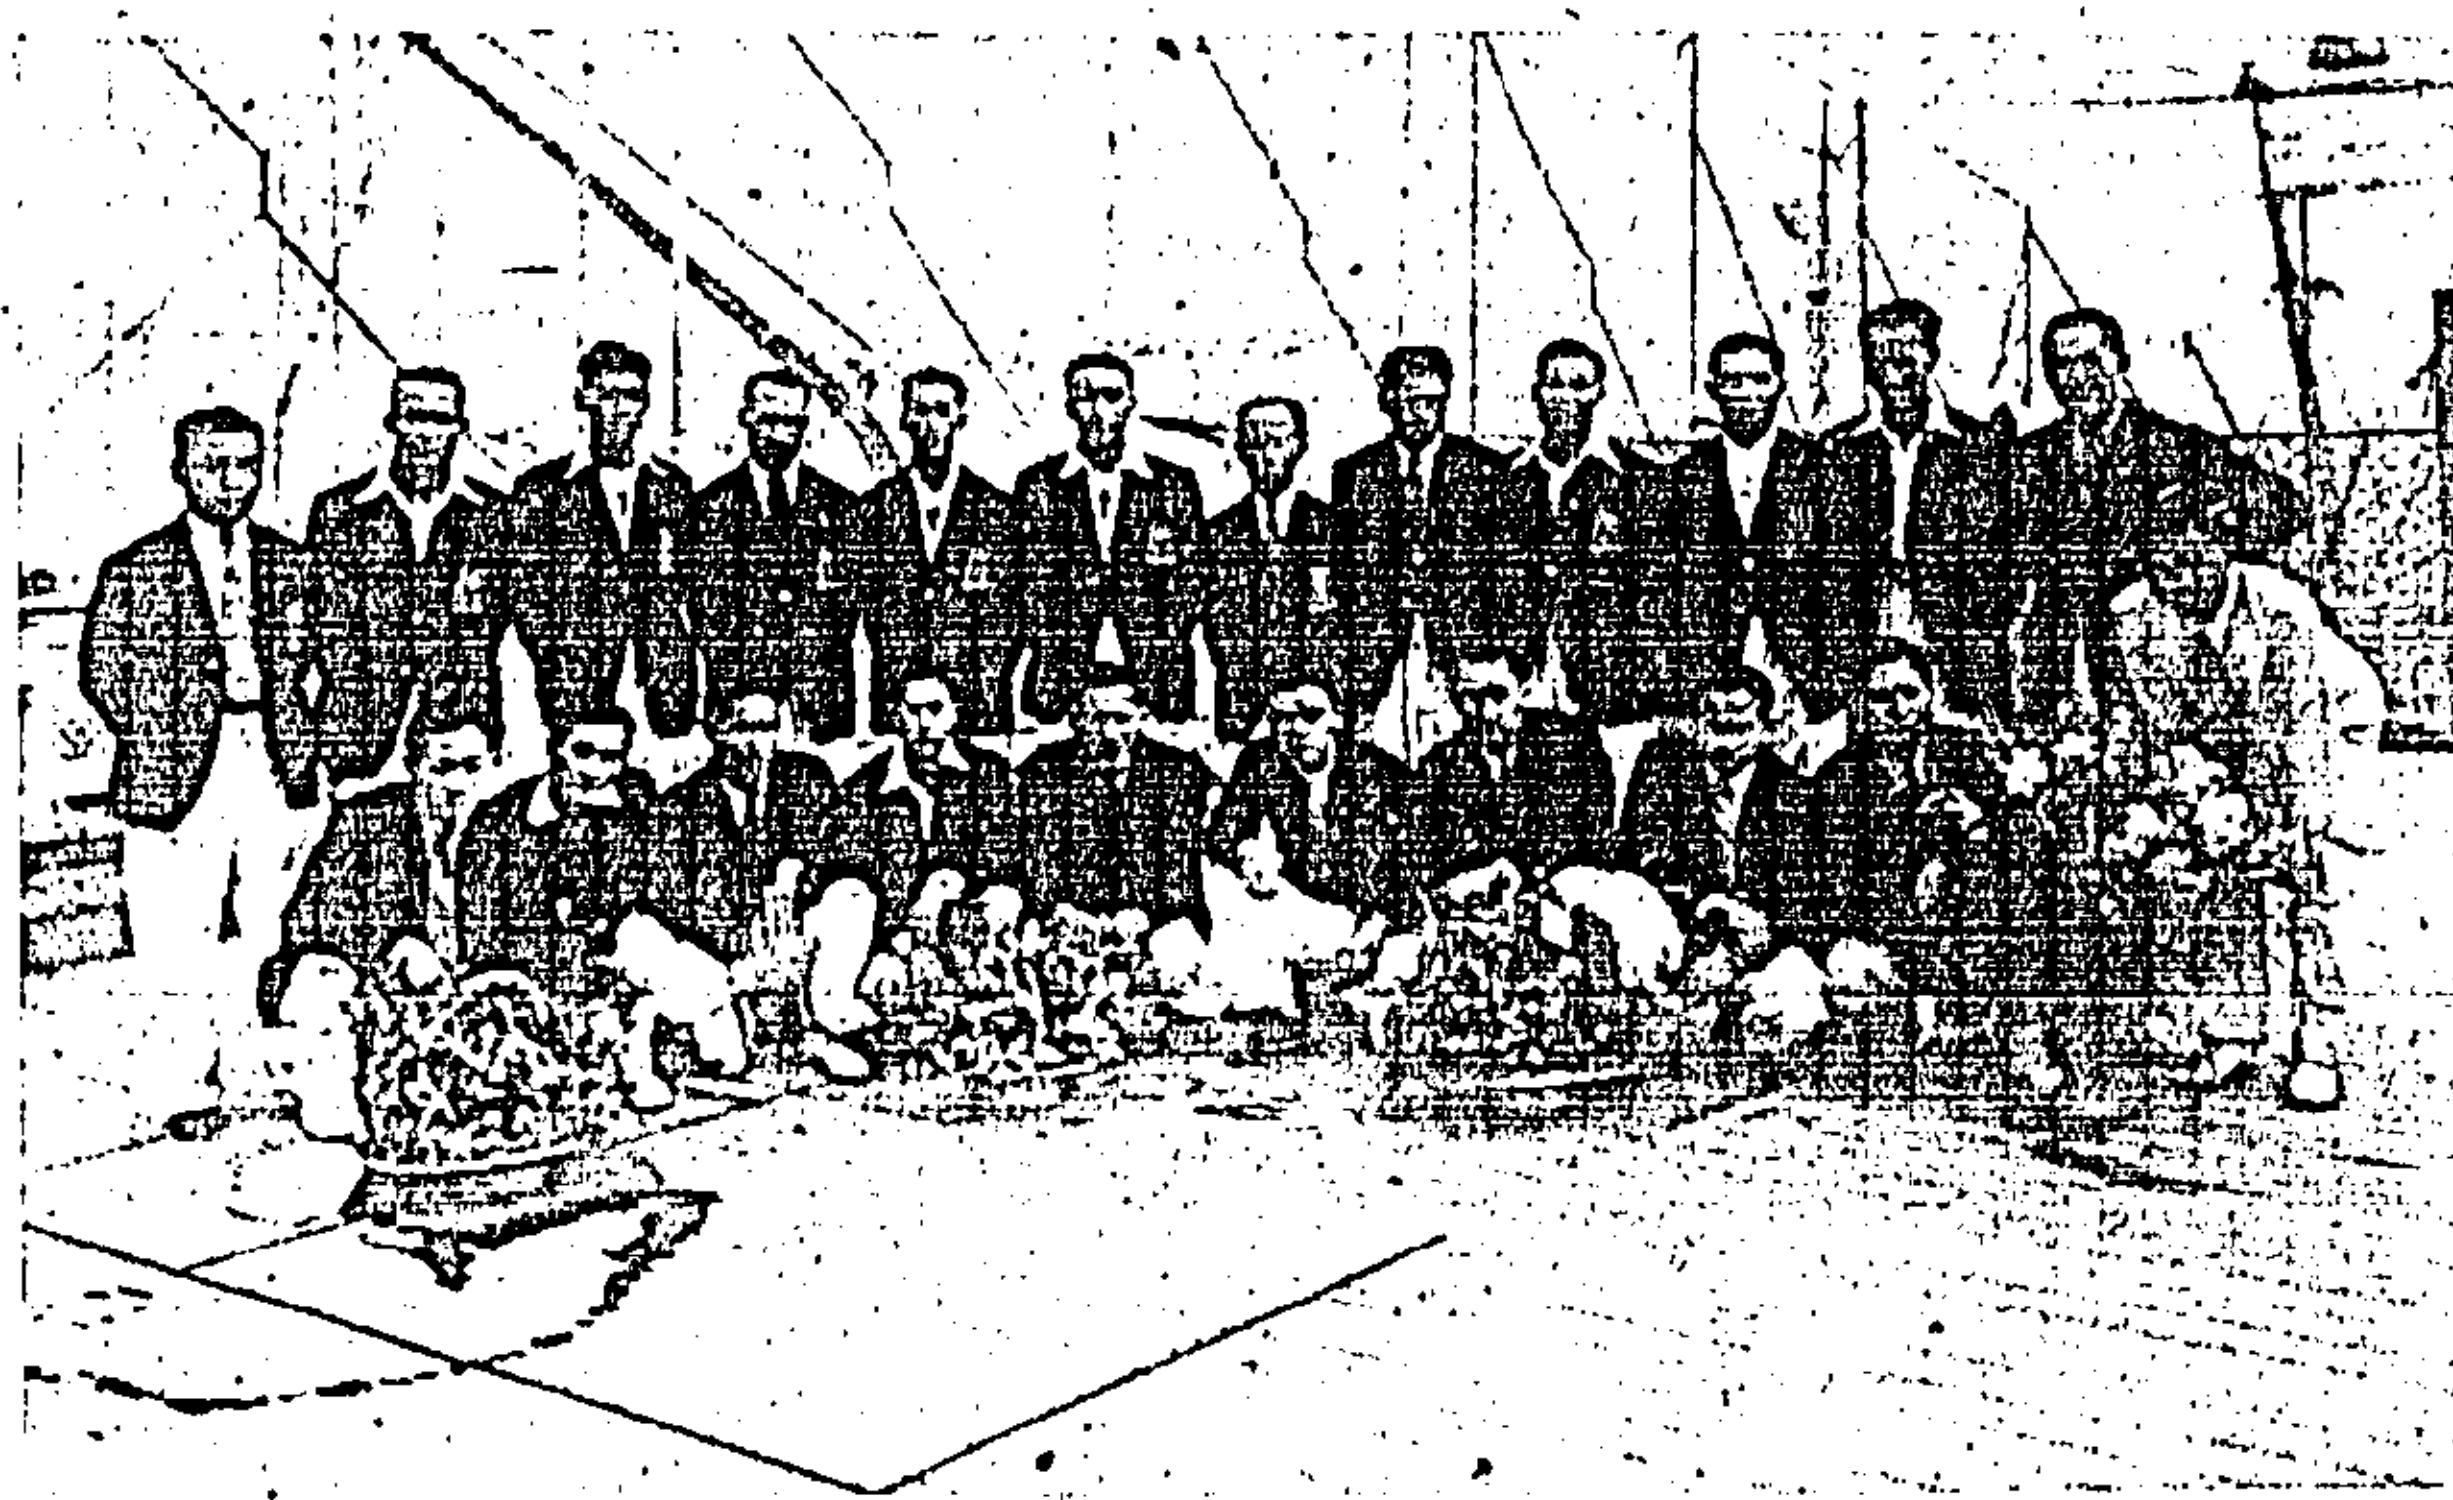

The Nottingham girl reeled off the first four games in a row and then Miss Marble rallied in fine style to square at four-all. During this square she volleyed very well, putting the ball away incisively. Miss James then took the next two games for the set; the last of Miss Marble's service.

In the second set Miss James quickly clinched the issue and she certainly enhanced her reputation.

The men's singles final was won by R. K. Tinkler, who beat P. Sherwood at 9-7, 6-5 after a close struggle in which both players strove hard to surmount the conditions. Tinkler just deserved to win.

In the men's doubles final D. Cook and E. Filby beat H. Cooper and H. G. N. Lee 7-5, 2-0, 6-0. This was the best match of the day, Filby being specially good.

The finals of the women's doubles and the mixed doubles were not played.

FOOTBALL TOUR

Strong South China A.A. Team Embark BOUND FOR JAVA

A heavy programme of approximately 30 matches has been prepared for the South China A.A. footballers who left Hongkong yesterday morning by the French liner Felix Roussel to commence their tour of Indo-China, Siam, Malaya and Java.

The team consists of 20 players, with Mr. Lum Chung-ho as manager and Mr. Chau Yun-nin as his assistant. Lee Wai-tong, who led the Chinese footballers to the Berlin Olympic Games last August, is captain of the team.

The players, besides Lee Wai-tong, are Wong Wah-gay and Tam Kwang-on (goal-keepers), Li Tin-sang, Lau Mau, Mak So and Leung In-chun (full-backs), Wong Mee-shun, Leung Wing-chiu, Lee Kwok-wai, Lim Tak-po and Lau Hing-chol (half-backs), and Fung King-cheung, Tso Kwai-shing, Yeung Shui-yick, Lai Shui-wing, Tay Quel-jiang, Lee Shek-yau, Ho Ka-keung and Chan Tak-fai (forwards).

All are members of either the South China "A" or the South China "B" teams, and the squad is regarded as the strongest Chinese team ever to have been sent down to Java from Hongkong. They will be away for just over two months, and will be back about the middle of August.

The team will play four matches in Saigon and four more in Bangkok, apart from a charity engagement at the latter port. Thence they will proceed to Penang, Medan, Kuala Lumpur and Java. Many of their matches are for charity.

A large gathering of friends, relatives, and officials of the South China Athletic Association saw the players off yesterday. Among the present were Dr. S. T. Wong, representative of the South China A.A. on the Council of the Hongkong Football Association.

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE TENNIS

Four matches will be played in the "B" Division of the tennis league today.

Victories are anticipated for Craggengower, K.I.T.C., K.C.C., and Recreio. The programme is—

"B" DIVISION

C.C.C.	v.	H.K.U.T.C.
S.C.A.A.	v.	K.I.T.C.
K.C.C.	v.	H.K.C.C.
Recreio	v.	C.S.C.C.

BOWLS TOURNNEY

Howard And Zimmern In Third Round

In the continuation of their pairs-championship lawn bowls match yesterday W. J. Howard and E. Zimmern beat S. A. Bright and J. E. Henson 21 to 18. Only five heads were played as the others were played on Monday.

At the K.C.C. M. A. R. Souza and C. E. Rossetto beat L. A. Collyer and J. P. MacGowan 22-13.

The match between G. Perkins and F. Cullen and C. M. S. Alves and H. A. de Botelho was played at the Kowloon C.C. on Sunday instead of Monday and resulted in a one-sided victory for Perkins and Cullen 37-5.

Ex-H.K. Players In Tientsin Interport Tennis Team

Gordon Lum, former Chinese Davis Cup player, who was recently transferred to Tientsin, has agreed to take an official Interport tennis team to Shanghai in August next.

He will be captain of the team which includes Omar Rumjahn, one-time doubles champion of Hongkong, A. A. Rumjahn, who used to be known in the Colony as a promising cricketer in the Junior League, Harada, long one of Tientsin's leading players and Tony Llane.

It is surprising to find that the name of C. A. L. Rumjahn, former Hongkong champion, is not included, but this is probably due to business reasons.

Shanghai is due to send an Interport team to Hongkong this year, but so far nothing is known of the northern port's intentions. Shanghai should have come here last year, but refrained because the Association felt it could not send its best team.

RECORD "TOTE" TAKINGS AT ASCOT

London, June 15. The Totalisator takings at Ascot today amounted to no less than £27,290, which is a record for the first day at this historic and fashionable race meeting.

An amended list of probable starters and jockeys for the Hunt Cup was announced today.

Perry rides Commander Third, Sam Wragg is on Hocus Pocus, Rickaby rides Midstream, Foster mounts Flying Thoughts, Sharpe has been given Piskin, Sprague rides Bold Encounter.

Horses which have been withdrawn are Tempest, Hypothesis, Sun-track, Royal Salute, Pikebarn, Mannlicher and Inchkeith.—Reuter.

BELGIAN WINS FINAL SPRINT

(By Stanley Baron)

Wembley's six-days cycling race-to-nowhere ended with three teams tying, each having ridden 1,910.1 miles.

This is some 800 miles below record and 28 miles below the distance covered in a similar event last year. The final sprint was won by Albert Buysse. This young Belgian sprinter was easily the star of the week and made a record for the race by riding one mile unpaced in one minute, 55 seconds.

HE WON £125

Out of nearly £600 put up in special prize money, Buysse won £125. His partner, Piet van Kempen, won £60, and Merckens, the German, £20. Only one Englishman, Cozens, finished out of five who started. Grant, who was troubled throughout the week by a shoulder injury received early on, retired on the last day.

Final positions: 1, Van Kempen-Buysse, 1,280 points; 2, Dlot-Ignat, 704; 3, Walthour-Crossley, 302; one lap behind, fourth, Feden brothers, 443.

At the end of the race Sir Harold Bowden presented the special prize of £50 he had offered for the best performance on a Raleigh machine to Van Kempen and Buysse. The first, second and third teams in the race all rode Raleighs.

Arsenal Bid £10,000 For Norwegian Policeman

There is a point-duty policeman in Oslo, for whom Arsenal have offered £10,000, but this 23-year-old inside-right prefers the humdrum job of directing the traffic in his native capital to being an English star player.

His name says Reuter, is Reidar Kvammen, and in the opinion of both Mr. George Allison and Mr. S. P. Ross, he was the best player on the field in the England-Norway match last month.

Had Kvammen accepted, the difficulty of obtaining a Ministry of Labour permit for him to come to England would have confronted Mr. Allison.

In any case, Arsenal's offer places Kvammen as one of the world's best players. According to available records only four English players have been transferred at £10,000 or more. Arsenal recently offered larger sums than this for Bryn Jones, of Wolverhampton, and Tommy Walker, of Heart of Midlothian.

The Two Referee Plan To Go

(By Charles Buchan)

For the first time in English football history, there will be co-operation between the F.A. and the League next season in the control of Cup and League games.

The secretary of the League has written to the F.A. for its list of referees specially selected from recommendations by the county F.A.s, and the list is now in the hands of the League.

This co-operation practically means the death-knell of the two-referee plan; when it comes up at the F.A. annual meeting it will probably be talked out and nothing more heard of it.

But more important is the fact that this is also a big step for improving the standard of control. I know there is a practical scheme ready to be brought into force.

Briefly, the aim is to have as line-men only competent officials, who, when they are not running the line, will be gaining valuable experience by refereeing in the London Combination, Central League and other competitions of equal calibre.

DERBYSHIRE BEATS SUSSEX

EXCELLENT BATTING BY WORTHINGTON

WARWICKSHIRE WIN IN AN EXCITING FINISH

London, June 15.

Sussex, who have been sweeping all before them in the county cricket championship, were sharply checked to-day by Derbyshire, the champions. Derbyshire beat Sussex by 281 runs.

In both innings Derbyshire made the Sussex attack look very innocuous, Worthington being in particularly happy mood, scoring 60 in his first knock and 132 not out in the second.

Derbyshire's first innings realised 342 and they were able to declare at 311 for 3 in the second innings thanks to the contributions of 103 by Alderman and 133 by Worthington. Sussex never looked capable of avoiding defeat. They were sent back in the first attempt for 243, despite a brilliant innings of 102 by John Langridge, and in the second innings they collapsed and were out for 129.

Although Hill of Hampshire bowled so effectively that he took 13 Warwickshire wickets for 160 in the course of two innings, Warwick won an exciting match by 21 runs. Pain (5 for 50) and Hollies (6 for 36) hit back for Warwickshire and turned the game in their favour.

After Surrey's start on Saturday against Glamorgan their ultimate victory by an innings and 155 runs came as no surprise. Gover bowled splendidly in Glamorgan's first innings and secured 6 wickets for 51 runs. The Welshmen, 303 behind, had to follow-on, and although Smart scored a fine 120 not out, they were all out for 228 in the second innings.

The results and individual performances as cabled by Reuter follow.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Lancashire (388 for 7 dec. and 149/6 dec.) beat Somerset (256 and 131/3) on first innings.

Surrey (548/7 dec.) beat Glamorgan (165 and 228) by an innings and 155 runs.

Derbyshire (342 and 311/3 dec.) beat Sussex 243 and 129) by 281 runs.

IDEA FOR INSURANCE OF PUGILISTS

Likely To Be Salvation Of Boxers

London. One of the things the National Union Boxers has been striving to devise for a year or two is a scheme for the insurance of boxers.

It is one of the burdens of the game that a cut eye or a damaged hand can put a fighter out of action for several months, and though physically fit in all other respects he is deprived of a chance of earning his living.

To the leading lights in the big money an enforced rest now and then is not serious, but to the smaller fry two months of inactivity can sometimes complete poverty.

It is therefore good to learn that the N.U.B. has collaborated with a firm of insurance brokers, and the outcome is the formation of a body known as the National Boxers' Insurance Association.

All boxers in membership with the N.U.B. are being circularised, and special attractive rates of insurance will be offered.

Professional footballers have their own insurance scheme, backed by the Football League, and that boxers are to be similarly served is a big step forward for which the N.U.B. are to be complimented.

JACK LONDON'S GREAT FIGHTING SPIRIT

Plucky Display Against Buddy Baer

London, May 25. In a thrilling ten rounds fight Buddy Baer, the American heavy weight, and brother of Max, out-pointed Jack London, of West Hartlepool, at Swansea last night.

Baer, who weighed 17st. 2lb. and had an advantage of a foot in height, was the stronger puncher, but London gave a magnificent display of gameness. His refusal to accept defeat earned him a warm ovation at the end.

The Englishman was twice sent to the boards. In the first round he took a count of eight, and in the second he was down for six, the going saving him on each occasion. London, however, recovered and went after his huge opponent, making

"BUD" WHELAN

BOXERS ARE ALL SET

Local Titles At Stake Friday

With the leading contestants reporting themselves trained to the minute and eager for their scraps, everything points to a good evening's sport at the Po Hing Theatre on Friday when two Colony boxing championship bouts will be staged.

"Young" Aromin, holder of the bantamweight title, says he has been training very earnestly for his match with Fusiller Fisher, local Army champion, and he is hoping to stop the soldier. Fisher is confident, predicting a win for himself.

"Bud" Whelan and Fusiller Owens who are meeting for the Hongkong featherweight title, are both in the pink of condition. Whelan, having already beaten Fisher in Army championships bouts, feels he can and will repeat the trick on Friday, but Owens believes he will have a slight edge on his opponent by the time they clamber into the ring.

Here is the programme for Friday night which starts at 9 o'clock.

Flyweights - (three rounds):— Reggie Ewart v. "Little Rio". Four Rounds:— Dantes Manders v. S. A. Lazar. Six rounds:—"Iron" Bux, jr. v. "Little" Bertie.

Bantamweight (four rounds):—"Wild" Denny v. "Bud" Goldin. Lightweight (six rounds):—"Battling" Rio v. "Bill" Bassem.

CHAMPIONSHIPS OF THE COLONY

Bantamweight (12 rounds):—"Young" Aromin (holder) v. Fus. Fisher. Featherweight (15 rounds):—"Bud" Whelan v. Fus. Owens.

A weight-lifting exhibition will also be given during the evening by Mr. Clement Affoyne.

In the sixth round Baer went all out for a finishing punch. He rushed home hard rights and lefts to the body. But the Northerner covered up well, and towards the end of the round made a spirited rally. In the last round, however, London had obviously tired and Baer did all the scoring.

TESTS AND TIME LIMITS

LONG-DRAWN DREARINESS AN INFLUENCE FOR AND AGAINST

(By a Special Correspondent)

Whether cricket matches which last only three days are preferable to matches which last longer, or matches which are played to a finish, is a subject which has often been discussed in the past, and is now being discussed again. Most of us are familiar with the arguments for either arrangement.

The process of beating your adversary within a given time, or of avoiding being beaten by him, offers opportunities for the strategy of captains, and for timely daring or prudence on the part of the rank and file. How much better, advocates of the three-day match tell us, are these brisk encounters than the dreary fortnight's affair, which drags along with one side 500 or 600 runs ahead, and all the interest of competition entirely crushed out. The reply to this is that such a comparison is all very well, but if the object of a game be, as it is supposed to be, to ascertain whether one party plays that game better than another, there is something equally tedious in contemplating a series of cricket matches of which many, owing to an inadequate allowance of time, do nothing whatever to assist that enquiry—the story is merely one of wasted ability and futile effort.

Perhaps, after all, there is no general principle involved, and the matter is really one of conditions and circumstances. Our own season's programme in England, with its multitude of engagements, obliges us to play two matches a week from the beginning of May to the end of August, for the sufficient reason that we could not get through it unless we did. We accept drawn games as an inevitable feature of our domestic cricket, and console ourselves by thinking that they are due quite as much to our uncertain climate as to a time limit. But outside our ordinary programme our cricket authorities have already shown that they are not wedded to any cast-iron system of three-day matches, and that they are prepared to make exceptions when they consider it desirable.

The Test matches played in England and Australia, round which it need hardly be said, the discussion centres, have four days allotted to each, and the last match of the rubber is, if necessary, played out with no time limit at all. If these innovations are to be regarded as the thing end of the wedge, then, in view of the Australian tour in England in 1938, we do well to consider whether further steps should be taken in order to obtain more definite results. The Tests that we have been able hitherto to obtain, in five or six days, shall we devote five or six days to each? Or is it better to disregard the drawn games and to let the present arrangements stand?

ALTERED CIRCUMSTANCES Australian tours in this country have altered very much in character since the days when they first met their cricketers over to try conclusions with ours. This is not only because the standard of their cricket has improved, for it has been high enough for many years to challenge us with success, but because their campaign is not what it used to be. In the last century our visitors, in addition to their matches with England, were constantly meeting sides representative of the North or South, or Players or Gentlemen, against whom they had to exert all their skill if they wanted to hold their own. Nowadays, with the first-class counties intent upon the County Championship, and naturally unwilling to spare their best men for anything but Test matches, there is great difficulty in collecting strong elevens for additional fixtures of the kind mentioned. The M.C.C. can sometimes put into the field a good side, and at Scarborough, in the beginning of September, there is usually a worthy opposition. But with these exceptions a modern Australian team in the intervals between the Tests never plays what can be called a match at all, assuming that word to mean a game of cricket. They travel up and down, resting some of their men, and giving practice to others, and give exhibitions of their skill against adversaries who have about as much chance against them as a county side. Since the War the Australians have only lost five out of 142 matches in England, three of these Test matches, and two against scratch teams. Gloucestershire distinguished themselves by playing a tie regarding the 1912 results when they were not at full strength, we find that no county has beaten them since Surrey won by five runs in 1909, or nearly thirty years ago.

ENTICING PLAYERS The objection most often heard against giving more time to cricket matches is that the extension produces cautious and dull batting, and slows up the game generally. Statistics of the pace of run-getting in Test matches in Australia as compared with that in Test matches played in England bear out this theory to some extent. The figures are given for what they are worth, and they may not be worth very much, for the rate of scoring depends upon so many and such varied conditions. The length of the over, the presence of a left-hand batsman, the fall of wickets, all these things and many others mean loss of time, and consequent loss of opportunity. Runs, of course, come much quicker when there is a long partnership than when new men are coming in every minute, and it is equally obvious that when the outfield is heavy, the singles that are cut off before they become fours make all the difference.

Roughly speaking, the normal rate of progress in first-class cricket is from forty-five to sixty runs an hour; but in the range between the lively and the sedate. Matches between England and Australia, for all their importance, conform pretty well to these figures. The average pace of scoring in the 1930 Tests works out at fifty-three runs an hour, and in the Tests at fifty runs an hour. In both these rubbers the Australians scored considerably faster than we did, owing no doubt, to the activities of Bradman, who upsets a good many records and calculations.

There is one point which can be urged in favour of giving more days to Test matches or playing them to a finish. The more chance there is of getting a result, the less chance there is of one side or the other deliberately playing for a draw. In the time when Tests only lasted three days, if you were in the position of being one up when you began the fifth match, all you had to do was to sit on the spig, as they say, and never mind about the runs. The sole idea was not to be beaten, and though you have to last out for four days instead of three, still on a good Oval-wicket that feat is not impossible. Drawn matches are unsatisfactory at the best, but the worst are those that are drawn before you begin to play them.

ENTRIES FOR HENLEY

GERMAN OLYMPIC CREW AFTER THE GRAND

Although foreign competitors have until the beginning of June to enter for Henley Regatta, their plans have in most cases already been made. It is regarded as certain for instance that the Vikings' crew from Berlin will compete for the Grand Challenge Cup. This is the crew which represented Germany in the Olympic Games and took third place in the final. Though the Vikings are in no way world beaters, the standard of British rowing is rather low at present, and there seems to be a distinct possibility that the Grand may go to the Continent for yet another year.

At the moment it seems unlikely that Germany will send a four for the Stewards Cup, though, remembering their fine form in the Olympic Games, it is surprising that they do not consider it worth while to enter.

It had been generally assumed that Von Opel of the Rusehelheim Club would represent Germany in the Diamond Sculls, but after his rather inglorious efforts at Ostend there may be a change of plan. It is considered more likely now that the German representative will be Willi Keidel of Schweinfurt. He was the bow man of the double sculling pair which was beaten by Bedford and Southwood. He is a good sculler, but is not always seen at his best in a close finish.

It is reported that Tabor Academy will come from America to defend the Thames Cup. They were lengths faster than any of our crews in that event last year, and if they are anywhere near as good this time they must stand a fine chance of winning again.

CRITIC OF WOMEN ATHLETES

BRITISH GIRLS' REPLY

London. By his criticism of athletics for women, Dr. J. F. Williams, of Columbia University, U.S.A., has incurred the wrath of British women athletes for girls.

"For the past three years our best women athletes have been subjected to medical examination," said Mrs. M. A. Cornell, secretary of the Women's Athletic Association, "and doctors say that recreative athletics for girls give no cause for alarm."

"I have had many hundreds of letters asking about the suitability of high or long jumping and other activities mentioned by Doctor Williams, and have no reason to believe that any one sport is more harmful than another."

Doctors will not go so far as to say that international athletics are harmless. Unfortunately it has been impossible to eliminate certain types of "super-women" from world events, and these women set a false standard for the normal girls.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed Feeling You Could Push a Bus Over

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You feel constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the bowels look pink.

Bile, fatty drinks, palatable laxatives and harsh purgatives are makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. The liver Pills to act these two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel top and bottom. Look for the name Carter's on every package.

ELIZABETH
5 3 9 8 1 2 5 2 8
=43

THE name number of King George VI. works out to the number 9. This fits the ruler of England, for 9 is the number of the planet Mars, and this planet is the ruling planet of England. Number 9 has for its occult symbol "The Hermit," indicating rulership, power, and success; protection, honours; fortunate journeys. The King's birth number works out to be 4, symbolised as "The Emperor," or "The Door of the East," these symbols in themselves pointing to kingship and the Empire's Eastern possessions. The number 4 is classed as being neither fortunate nor unfortunate. One side gives the realisation of hopes, accomplishment, endurance, and protection; the other side gives sudden changes; warns against the unknown.

These numbers of name and birth show the King as having a cheerful disposition, sincere and loyal, with a desire for peace and a dislike of discord. His mind is alert and observant, and he has a decisive way of expressing himself. A love of sport and outdoor affairs is indicated. He has the ability to weigh up people and the happy knack of being able to see both sides of a thing.

QUEEN Elizabeth has for her name number 7, with its symbol "The Chariot of Osiris." It is a fortunate number, indicating fame and honour, popularity and public favour; many changes; successful travel and voyages. A happy marriage; children. The birth number works out to 4. This with the name number 7 makes 11, symbolised as "The Clenched Hand." Its fortunate side gives energy and decision, courage; success in bold enterprises; the overcoming of obstacles. The unfortunate side indicates trials and many difficulties to contend against.

These numbers of the Queen's name and birth date denote one ambitious and persevering, with pride and dignity, and much natural independence. The Queen will have faith in herself, and be ardent and enthusiastic, many of her actions coming largely from impulse and emotion. There is a naturally kind, sympathetic, and affectionate side, and ability to adapt herself to people and circumstances. Some artistic or musical ability is indicated. The mind is original, and has organising and executive ability. A strong love of home and children.

YOUNG men, stop, look, listen! Before summer leaves you pleasantly incoherent and sends you altarward with guileless steps, view your married future through the practical eyes of a non-partisan.

The woman of your aspirations, however marvellous, is not unique. She slips inevitably into one of five classifications. We will pin the butterflies to the wall. Take your choice, but take it with your eyes open.

"A" STANDS for athletic. This girl plays every game from badminton to billiards, polo to poker. Life has no qualms for her. She reduces it to the simple rules of sportsmanship, and there you are—husband and wife, a team against the world.

Everything you do, you do together: crossword puzzles, golf, washing the dishes. She takes turns driving the car. She shares your life—from razor blades to political views.

She abhors red fingernails, ruffles, little dogs. She wears tweeds in town. She walks in the rain. She doesn't mind snakes. She is proud of her ability to lift a trunk, change a tyre, dress in five minutes.

She likes to "rough it." She always accompanies you on your holiday and maintains an obvious silence when she catches more fish than you do.

At a party she has a frank, scrubbed look. She addresses people with a crisp friendliness, and adores to give "straight-from-the-shoulder" advice.

The sum up: You assume the personality of a Siamese twin. People envy your compatibility; they are completely stunned when you run away with the frivolous wife of a next-door neighbour.

"B" STANDS for bluestocking. When you marry this charming intellectual you have a pleasant opinion of your own mental prowess.

She is responsible for this. By her flattering acceptance of you, she leads you to believe you have penetrated her remote and exclusive realm of thought.

But once matrimony hits a routine stride you discover you are just an outsider. You are a business man; as such you can never hope to commune on the lofty plateau of Art.

While you are writing bank reports, she is attending concerts, exhibitions, lectures. She writes short stories. She accepts rejection slips as proof that her offerings are far above the public level.

She deplores the lost art of conversation. She rubs in Hazlitt, Proust, Nietzsche, Goethe, to a helpless silence. She discusses impressionism, futurism, purism. Your opinions, if any, are silently discarded before they are expounded.

When your parties grow merry, your guests blubbery, she develops a "slight headache" and disappears. You stumble in an hour later to find her in bed, reading Gertrude Stein.

She longs for the fascinating Bohemia of a Maugham novel. She deploring the trivialities that chain souls to the material. She grows restless, she grows fearful. You are apt to lose this damsel to the first long-haired cut who wanders your way.

An ABC of WOMEN for the benefit of MEN

"C" STANDS for clubs, charities, children. This little girl will win you a "place" in your set. You'll live in the right street, see the right people, join the right clubs. You'll produce first a boy, then a girl.

Your social life will fit a pattern—accepting, returning, flowers for the sick, teas for mother's friends. At proper intervals your wife's photograph will appear in the papers.

She is a tireless charity worker. The telephone will reverberate to heated discussions whether the ball-room should be hung in salad-green or stop-light red; breathless ponderings on the merits of Chicken a la King as compared with Lobster Newburg.

You are the recipient of her day's tribulations, her low opinion of her fellow workers. You are the buttress for the inevitable Big Scene which punctuates each drive—on this, for Mrs. Smith, who has snatched away the leading part in the pageant (for the crippled and the blind) and "Don't you dare ever to speak to Mr. Smith again, either!"

"D" STANDS for darling. You snatch this wisp of femininity from the clutches of dozens of hungry admirers. You are proud but frightened to think you have won this most desirable, alluring creature.

You live in a breakable dream of white rugs, mirror-topped tables, pastel water-colours. You learn that cosmetics and French gowns bound a world just as important as yours. Your bride eats practically nothing at all. She can't understand how any one can devour a big breakfast. She takes only orange juice, but she takes it at twelve-thirty, half an hour before she's headed restaurant-way for luncheon.

She dedicates her afternoons to fittings, facials, movies, cocktail parties. She comes home exhausted. She dons a negligee, chaste in colour, sheer in weight. You find her reclining on a pink-sheeted bed, telephone in hand, planning your evening.

She is helpless when it comes to the rougher side of life. She needs you to make the decision. She invariably discards. Thunderstorms, cats, cooks leave her prostrate. Beneath her long, mascaraed lashes, her eyes play an indiscriminate "come-on" game. When the challenge is followed by the ring of the telephone, a sly box of flowers, you object.

"But, darling, can I help it?" she asks in innocence. "You ought to be glad to have the kind of wife men look at." Now, of course, if you'd married Jane...

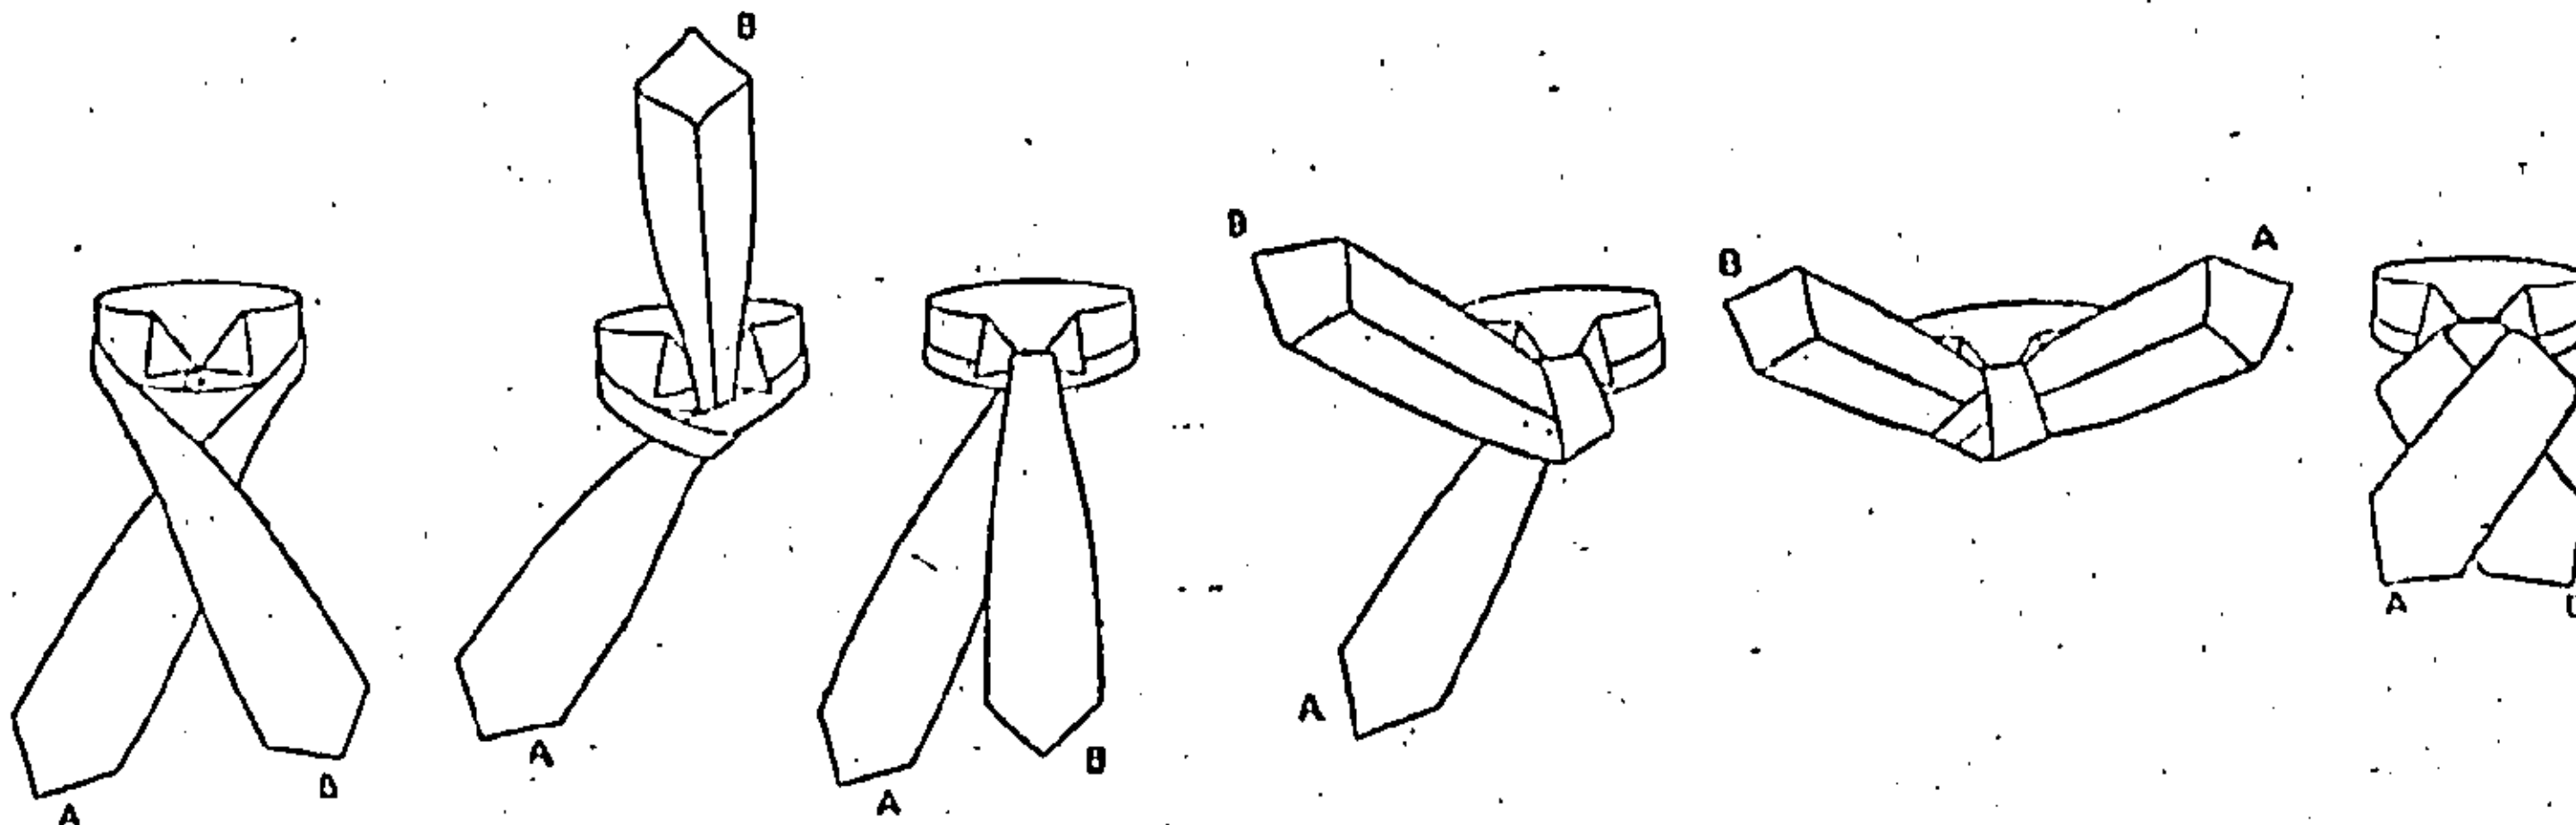

"E" STANDS for energetic.

Welcome the working girl. She loves you very much, but you can hardly expect marriage to interfere with her career. To you alone she is "Mrs." To the rest of the world she is still Miss Jones of the Staff.

She is smart, efficient, well-informed. She knows all the professional gossip, the "inside" dope, the current quips, the new dishes at the Gloucester. She recoils from domesticity like an amah from the whisky decanter.

The diagrams below are self-explanatory.

What Is Personality?

THERE are few problems connected with human character which are more fascinating than the analysis of personality. What is this mysterious and much-valued quality?

Someone once said that personality was the result of feeling that you can do things better than anyone else. As a matter of fact, this is quite a prevalent idea, but to me it seems a complete fallacy. I know people who are crammed with conceit yet have not a shred of personality; on the other hand, some of the humblest people can give them many points on the trail. No, personality is not as obvious as that.

If I were asked for one thing which, more than any other, creates personality, I should put forward what I call a sort of quality of "don't care-hangness." In appearance, this looks like nonchalance; what it actually is, is independence of what we call "public opinion." To explain it further, we know that there are people who absolutely hang on the approval, or attention, or opinion of others; and there are people who, although giving right-of-way to others, appear, to a certain extent, indifferent to their reactions to themselves.

It is the latter type who possess personality. People instinctively accord them respect. Personality means absence of self-consciousness too. People who feel uneasy and always aware and uncomfortable of the fact that someone is watching and either appraising or criticising never carry that quality. Don't be Fussy. Two great enemies of personality are fussiness and officiousness. Nothing so detracts from dignity, without which, again, personality cannot exist, as useless movements or unnecessary speech. Fidgeting with watch or ring, constantly handling a handkerchief, fussing over people, or trying to be "helpful" when it is not called for, are all proceedings which make one look insignificant rather than impressive.

Some people associate personality with size, assuming that it runs in proportion to inches. This is also a fallacy. Some outside humans may be perfect nonentities, while the smallest of the species may be positively dynamic. If there is anything physical which helps personality, size is not that thing; appearance, in the shape or grooming, is much more of a help. But the most powerful aid comes from the character.

Alertness, in the form of a ready wit and ability to meet awkward situations, is indispensable from personality. No one who is caught napping or made to look foolish can be said to be forceful. Firstly, it upsets one's own poise and makes one feel and behave in an ineffectual way, and, secondly, it destroys other people's respect for one, so that the last thing they will then see is personality.

Be a Good Conversationalist. I do not necessarily mean that one must be a post-master in the art of repartee, though that may assist, but one should be alert enough always to see the point of a joke or a "leg-pull," to be able to answer arguments and questions with a certain amount of speed, and to be quick enough to be able to bring tact into play when one is asked questions which cannot conveniently be answered, or when one is being "pumped," or told something confidential.

The ability to carry off awkward situations successfully, and with dignity is a very important ingredient of personality. To give an example, if a visitor arrives at an extremely difficult moment, the forceful character will keep her head and act in the most suitable manner, whereas the lesser character will become painfully flustered, look foolish, and most certainly do the wrong thing. Alertness, poise, and independence of character are the things which mostly go to make up personality.

LORD SNOWDEN DIED A POOR MAN, SAYS WIFE

How They Shared Long Struggle

PHILIP SNOWDEN died as he lived, a poor man. "Probably a few hundred pounds will be all there is," Lady Snowden said.

When he retired, as Viscount Snowden of Ickernshaw, he had not been a Cabinet Minister long enough to qualify for a pension, and his terms as Chancellor of the Exchequer had eaten into his meagre savings.

£1,200 TAX

"When income tax and surtax had been paid on his salary of £5,000 there was about £3,800 left," Lady Snowden said recently as she sat in the drawing-room of Eden Lodge, where Lord Snowden died.

"Out of that he had to keep that big house in Downing-street. Eight servants is the minimum you can have just to keep it clean and tidy."

"A Chancellor, too, is expected to entertain. Though we were a good deal and to go about as careful as possible we had to draw on our savings."

While my husband was a Minister even his writing, the principal source of his income, had to be given up. With his brain, he might have left thousands of pounds had he gone into business or one of the professions."

For years Lord Snowden, when he was a member of Parliament, refused to take a penny from Socialist Party funds. "Though my husband didn't care for money, the lack of it was worrying sometimes," said Lady Snowden. "But together we have always managed."

"OUR HOUSE"

"I made ten lecture tours in America, and I got good fees. I have lectured in England too, and been well paid."

"When I brought my husband to this house and told him 'It is ours,' it was one of the moments I have loved most in life. I earned it, and here my husband was able to spend his last days happily."

Much has been said of Lord Snowden's "bitterness," Lady Snowden regrets that.

"It was only skin-deep, in the heat of the political fight," she said. "I think I can say that he never lost a friend by this bitterness."

"What made him so lovable was his sense of humour. Strube's cartoons delighted him. He collected the originals. The more malicious the satire, the more he liked it."

"He was called a man of iron, but that was such a small part of him. When Spot, his terrier, was killed by a car outside the gate he grieved as if he had lost a child. Men of iron are not like that."

Lord Snowden was cremated at Woking one day last month. The ceremony was private. His ashes were scattered on the moors at Ickernshaw, near Cowling, West Riding. Children from the school he attended strewed the ground with flowers.

New Drug That Gives Confidence

THE effects of a new drug which gives confidence, increases initiative and promptness in making decisions are described in the British Medical Journal by Dr. Erich Guttman, Rockefeller Research Fellow, and Dr. William Sargent, of the Maudsley Hospital, London.

"Medical colleagues and others who have themselves taken the drug," the article states, "have found it of definite value in such tasks as lecturing or taking an examination. It also helps to remove mental fatigue brought on by excessive work or worry."

"Important interviews of various kinds have been tackled more confidently than usual under its especially those requiring quick thought and ability to talk convincingly and fluently."

The possibility of addiction needed to be guarded against though, none of their patients had shown that tendency.

"At present," they add, "it can be purchased at any chemist's shop without prescription, and this seems inadequate with a full drug, all the properties of which have yet to be fully investigated."

Tragic Baby May Go Into Home

ONLY five days old, Shirley Flynn is England's most tragic baby.

Shirley was born in prison. Her mother, 20-year-old Mary Flynn, was serving a sentence of eight years for manslaughter. Thirty-eight hours after her birth Shirley's mother died.

When I called at her grandparent's home in Bethnal Green, London, yesterday (writes a reporter), Mary Flynn's bereaved mother sat with her head between her hands, grey-haired Mr. Flynn with bowed head.

"We had a family consultation yesterday about Shirley," said Mary's grown-up sister, "but we still don't know what we are going to do with her. We're poor, you see."

These are the alternatives—Shirley can be cared for by her relatives or she can be sent to an orphanage.

At the lowest on Mary Flynn at Holloway Prison it was revealed that before she died she saw her baby and was happy.

A verdict of "Death from natural causes" was returned and the governor reported that the child was making good progress.

Pavement Artist Aided By Millionaire

London, June 1.

William Stubbs, one of London's many pavement artists, is well on the road to fame and fortune, thanks to an American millionaire who admired his work at the corner of fashionable Carlton House Terrace.

"Your work is good," he told the artist. "Ever had an exhibition?"

Stubbs shook his head. "I haven't any canvas or frames."

The millionaire smiled, then gave the artist a cheque, told him to get the materials he needed.

He did even better. He gave Stubbs an introduction to Society.

Now—in addition to work on his exhibition—the artist is busy on two commissioned paintings.

One is for Thelma Lady Furness. The other for her sister Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt.

Till this wonderful turn came, W. J. Stubbs has had a hundred per cent. bad-luck life.

"I was trained as an artist at the Birmingham Art School," he said. "Though I shouldn't say it, I was their star pupil."

"Commissions were rolling in when the War came along. I joined up, was blown up and buried at Vimy Ridge, and was in hospital until three years after the war."

Stubbs is cheerful—but his war services left him with a ghastly disease of the heart.

Over him and his dark-eyed, pale-faced wife hangs the shadow of his illness. In Stubbs' pocket there stays permanently a doctor's card admitting him to hospital at any time.

Now—not long out of hospital—Stubbs is making a fresh start.

Leaving Downing Street to present his first budget. The despatch case he carried was Gladstone's.

NAVAL PATROL OFF SPAIN

THE FOUR POWERS' AGREEMENT

London, June 15.

The British Government has now transmitted to the two parties in Spain the communication agreed upon at the week-end by the Foreign Secretary and the French, German and Italian Ambassadors. The text is as follows:

"First, that the two parties should be asked to give a specific assurance they will respect foreign warships on the high seas and elsewhere and will take steps to see that their naval and air forces give effect to this assurance."

"Secondly, that in order to avoid accidental attacks on or damage to foreign warships participating in the patrol when lying in the ports of either party, the two parties should be asked to come to an agreement with the four Powers upon the list of Spanish ports to be made available for use as bases for their patrol ships, and upon the definition of safety zones which should be established in those ports."

"Thirdly, that the two parties should be informed of any infraction of the aforesaid assurances, or any attack upon foreign warships responsible for the naval patrol will be regarded by the four Powers participating in control as a matter of common concern, and that the four Powers, irrespective of any immediate measures of self-defence considered necessary by the forces of the Power actually attacked, will immediately seek an agreement among themselves concerning the steps to be taken in common, taking into consideration the views which the Government concerned is naturally entitled to express as to further appropriate measures." — British Wireless.

the impact of the finishing blow to the head.

Neusel sat up at the count of four and appeared to be resting. But he was out. He rose unsteadily after ten had been counted.

It is understood Neusel had cartilage trouble with his right leg. Farr now has excellent prospects of a fight with Schmeling for a world title elimination contest.

If he can beat Max, another ex-world champion and the conqueror of Detroit's Joe Louis, he stands a splendid chance of fighting a world championship bout with the winner of the Louis-Braddock fight in Chicago, June 22. And a victory over Schmeling would make Farr a favourite in a battle with either of the chief American contenders.—Reuter.

WOMAN FOUND HANGED

Tragedy Discovered At Causeway Bay
Popular Among H. K. Indians

News of the discovery of the body of Mrs. M. S. Dillon, 24 year-old wife of Mr. Dillon, employed in the store-keepers' office, Police Headquarters, who was found hanging from the banisters of the house adjoining her home in Causeway Bay this morning, will come as a great shock to the local Indian community, amongst whom she was extremely popular.

A talented and cultured young lady, deceased was a member of the Victoria Nursing Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

First news of the tragedy was received at about 10 a.m. by Mrs. Dillon's brother-in-law, who was informed by an amah who lived opposite to the deceased that the body was hanging from the staircase banisters of No. 17 Ngan Mok Street, Causeway Bay. The deceased and her husband resided at No. 19, and as the door to the roof of the next house was found open, it is presumed that Mrs. Dillon made her entrance to No. 17 from this point. When found, Mrs. Dillon was already dead. The deceased lady, who was formerly Miss Kallwant Kour, was born in the United States, whilst her husband was partially educated there. They were married in that country and came to Hongkong in 1932. Apparently Mrs. Dillon was in her usual health and spirits at breakfast-time this morning. She leaves, in addition to her husband, a young son with whom, with whom much sympathy is felt.

The police are at present investigating the circumstances surrounding the tragedy.

IMPERIAL PARLEY REPORT

Summary Of Labours Of Statesmen

London, June 15.
A summary of the proceedings of the Imperial Conference has now been issued.

In the section devoted to foreign affairs, the Conference records the results of the deliberations. While no attempt was made to formulate commitments which, in any event, could not be made effective until approved and confirmed by the respective Parliaments, the representatives of the Governments concerned found themselves in close agreement upon a number of general propositions. Thus, they agreed that for each member of the Commonwealth the first objective is the preservation of peace. In their view, the settlement of differences between nations and the adjustment of national needs should be sought by methods of co-operation, joint enquiry and conciliation. In such methods, and not in recourse to the use of force between nation and nation, the surest guarantee will be found for the improvement of international relations and respect for mutual engagements.

NO AGGRESSION

Holding these views, and desiring to base their policies upon the aims and ideals of the League of Nations, the delegates found themselves unanimous in declaring that their respective armaments will never be used for purposes of aggression or for any purpose inconsistent with the Covenant of the League or the Pact of Paris. At the same time, impressed with the desirability of strengthening the influence of the League by enlargement of its membership, they united in expressing the view that this object would be facilitated by the separation of the Covenant from the Treaties of Peace.

Observing that in respect of certain regions in which a number of states have special interests, regional agreements of friendship and collaboration between individual members of the British Commonwealth and other States so interested have been entered upon, or may be contemplated, they welcomed all such agreements, insofar as they can be made to contribute to the cause of peace and do not conflict with the Covenant of the League of Nations.

The Australian proposal for a pact of non-aggression in the Pacific is to be the subject of further consultation between the Governments. They all desired earnestly to see as wide a measure of disarmament as possible.

Lloyd George Has Strong Sympathy For Loyalists

London, June 15.

Mr. Lloyd George, veteran Liberal statesman, has sent a telegram to the President of the Basque Government stating that he is shocked at the way in which the democratic countries of the world permit the dictatorships of Europe to crush the liberties of an ancient and honoured community without a gesture or even a word of protest.

"It is a black page in the history of a powerful, free nation," says Mr. Lloyd George, "when they look on in craven silence at the spectacle of children being massacred in their homes because of the loyalty of their fathers to freedom."

"May God prosper the valour of the brave defenders of Basque liberty," adds Mr. Lloyd George in conclusion.—Reuter Special.

Separation Of Treaties And League Now Mooted

Germany Strongly Supports British Empire Suggestion

Berlin, June 15.

The Imperial Conference suggestion to separate the League Covenant from peace treaties has been very favourably received in Germany.

An official spokesman told Reuter to-day it was gratifying to see statesmen who were further from the scene had reached this conclusion earlier than European statesmen. It was the opinion of German authorities, he said, that it would now be possible for Britain to take the initiative in this direction, which would be a first step in the reform of the League.

The separation of the two elements would mark the beginning of a move towards unity of nations. On the other hand, it was pointed out elsewhere the separation alone would not necessarily bring back Germany to the League immediately. One statesman told Reuter that it was "only one step forward."—Reuter.

NO PARIS COMMENT

Paris, June 16.
Government circles are too preoccupied with the domestic crisis to express any considered view of the Imperial Conference suggestion for the separation of peace pacts from the League Covenant. But Reuter gathers that formidable opposition is unlikely.

It is pointed out that the Covenant made of integral peace treaties was constructed to meet the desires of the late Mr. Woodrow Wilson, who feared the League idea would not live otherwise. But the League has been going on eighteen years and is still a reality, whereas treaties are still a reality.—Reuter.

REBELS WARN MADRID OF PREPARATION FOR ATTACK

Moscow, June 15.

A movement is progressing here to form a United Front of the Second and Third Socialist Internationales to assist the Spanish Government.

Following the bombardment of Almeria, M. Dimitroff, Secretary of the Moscow Internationale, approached M. de Brouchere, Secretary of the Second Internationale, suggesting that a joint committee evolve a plan of action.

M. de Brouchere having replied favourably, M. Dimitroff has deputed five members of the Comintern to meet representatives of the Second Internationale in Geneva as soon as possible.—Reuter Special.

Martial Law Declared

The Basque Government has declared martial law in Bilbao. It is reported here to-day. It is believed the step is taken partly with a view to preventing miners dynamiting the buildings of the ancient seaport.—United Press.

Bilbao's Crisis Near

London, June 15.
An Argentine observer, on official business, has telephoned from St. Jean de Luz:

"I visited the front to-day and found the insurgent troops ready to enter Bilbao at a moment's notice."

"More than 8,000 Basques have surrendered in the seacoast areas."

It is reported that General Davila's troops will probably enter Bilbao proper Wednesday.—United Press.

All Over In 24 Hours?

Lisbon, June 16.
General Francisco Franco, insurgent commander-in-chief, expects the occupation of Bilbao to have been completed within twenty-four hours, states a Salamanca broadcast which was received here to-day.

It is indicated by reports from General Francisco Franco's headquarters that the insurgent commander-in-chief will assume with victory in the civil war, a position roughly analogous with that of Herr Adolf Hitler, with a subordinate Cabinet.

It is reported that Bilbao officials have been in all-night communication with Valencia and that the Loyalist Government may offer to surrender Bilbao in exchange for a political amnesty.

NEUSEL WHIPPED BY FARR

Welshman Needs Only 3 Rounds

CHANCE FOR WORLD TITLE

London, June 15.

Tommy Farr, young Welsh hope for the heavy-weight championship of the world, whipped Walter Neusel, Germany's blond second-best after Max Schmeling, in the third round of their fight at Harringay Arena to-night. He knocked the German out.

Twelve thousand watched the Welshman administer a scientific beating to his opponent, whose grit and ability have made him popular in British rings.

Farr weighed 14 stone 7-3/4 pounds, Neusel 14 stone 8 pounds.

Farr's victory proved that his win over the American, David Greb, was no fluke. And he avenged the defeat of Peterson and Ford at the hands of Neusel.

The first two rounds were slow, Farr scoring with his left hand, using a long, piston-like straight arm to the head and face. Neusel came under Farr's gloves and tried to wear his opponent down by infighting, punishing him about the mid-section. Farr boxed.

KING AND QUEEN GIVEN TREMENDOUS RECEPTION BY ASCOT RACE-GOERS

London, June 15.

Dull weather and showers of rain conspired to spoil Ascot's splendour to-day. Nevertheless when Their Majesties the King and Queen drove around the course in an open carriage, they were given a tremendous reception.

Derby form was upset when Sandspite and Le Grand Duc failed in their races but punters were sent home very happy as four favourites and two second favourites were among the winners.

The Aga Khan scored a double, his 20 to 1 outsider, Queen Silvia, winning the Queen Mary Stakes, and Mizra, starting at 4 to 1 winning the Coventry Stakes.

Sir Abe Bailey also had a double success, his Gold Scent at 9 to 2 scoring over Sandspite by a short head in the Prince of Wales Stakes, and his Valerian, a 5 to 1 favourite, taking the premier race, the Ascot Stakes.

Tempest, owned by the American, Mr. Kingsley Macomber, priced at 3 to 1, beat Draytona, a 5 to 2 favourite by a short head in the Queen Anne Stakes. Mr. Gordon Smith's Fearless Fox, a 11 to 8 favourite won the Ascot Vase, and Mr. Marcel Bousnac's French-bred Goya II, starting at 9 to 4 favourite, won the St. James' Palace Stakes.—Reuter.

BUSMEN'S DEMANDS ARE MET

Agreement Concluded Tentatively

London, June 15.

An agreement between the London Passenger Board and the Transport Workers' Union in connection with the recent bus strike has been tentatively concluded whereby the maximum spread-over duties of the workers will be twelve hours, while the maximum time of work will not exceed eight hours a day.

The agreement provides that disputes shall be discussed by the two parties, and should they disagree the question shall be left in the hands of a Board of Arbitration, comprising two persons from both sides with a chairman whose election shall be mutually agreed upon by the disputants, or shall be appointed by the Minister of Labour.—Reuter.

FRENCH CABINET IS SAFE

Deputies Give Blum Vote Of Confidence
AURIOL'S APPEAL

Paris, June 16.

The French Chamber of Deputies has passed a vote of confidence in the Government of M. Leon Blum, thus making the way clear for his Finance Minister, M. Vincent Auriol, to introduce certain vital financial legislation designed to protect the French franc and credit.—United Press.

Paris, June 16.

"Over 50,000,000,000 francs have gone abroad. We are faced with the same attacks as those which were directed against us in 1924, 1925 and 1936," said M. Vincent Auriol, French Finance Minister, in asking the Chamber of Deputies' confidence in the Government's proposals to defend public credit.

M. Auriol, presenting the balance sheet for the first year of the Popular Front's term of office in Government, stated that revenue from taxation of industrial profits had risen from 695,000,000 francs to 863,000,000 francs, and that income tax had swelled from 915,000,000 to 1,334,000,000.

ASSEMBLED AT MIDNIGHT

The Chamber of Deputies re-assembled at midnight after the conclusion of the Finance Committee's examination of the Government's financial proposals.

A critical situation is reflected in the division of opinion amongst members of the Committee, which voted by 22 to 16 to report favourably on the proposals.

Of six abstentions from voting five were Communists and the other a Radical Socialist.

CHAMBER PACKED

The Chamber, was packed just after midnight for the debate on the Government's special powers Bill. M. Schmidt moving its adoption on behalf of the Finance Committee.

The Communists, after a midnight meeting, declared their continued opposition to the indirect taxation proposals and the Government's fall is believed to be inevitable. For even if M. Blum gets a majority, its slenderness will preclude his retention of office on such an important issue.—Reuter.

Paris, June 15.

The Chamber of Deputies, by 358 to 230 votes, over-rode the proposal to postpone the debate on financial decrees, marking the Prime Minister, M. Leon Blum's first victory in the financial reform fight.

However, Communists later indicated they might refrain from voting confidence in the Government.

M. V. Auriol, Finance Minister, told the Press it was imperative to restore order from the present financial chaos. They must end speculation with the franc, he said. He denied the Government was contemplating special taxes on gasoline, and sugar, but indicated he was studying the short-term market, and may issue short-term bonds.—United Press.

MAY LOSE OFFICE

Paris, June 15.

It is generally believed that the Communist group will abstain from voting on the Government's Financial Bill unless the Government changes its attitude.

The abstention of the Communists will probably lead to the Government's resignation, as the Communists are still opposed to indirect taxation, but are prepared to offer collaboration in government on a wider basis which would strictly apply to the Popular Front programme.—Reuter.

You'll find this such a useful frock says SUSAN GAY, smart too with its squared shoulders and twin pockets, and

it's very simple to make

YOU are wanting a new frock? Something for everyday wear, something that will be bright and cheerful, that will not look too summery on cold May days and yet will not look too wintry if there's a sudden burst of sunshine?

The artist has drawn a frock which is very trim and neat and a grand style for office wear (if short sleeves are frowned on in your office then you can make it with long sleeves). But it's smart, too, with beautifully square shoulders and a couple of pockets—the 1937 season hall-mark. And you can see from the dissected frock drawn here that it's quite a simple design to make for yourself.

Let's run through the rever-and-collar version shown in the large drawing, step by step.

THE BODICE FIRST

START with the bodice. Make the three figure-fitting tucks at each side of the front waist and the dart at each side that helps throw the bust into relief.

Tack the pockets in position over the tucks, being careful to get the two straight sides at right-angles, with the corner clear and sharp. Then stitch.

Face the right and left front of bodice with matching fabric, then attach the collar. You will find that everything fits in beautifully if you have been careful to mark in all the notches when you cut out your material.

Make three buttonholes down the front, at the spots marked in the pattern.

NOW for the sleeves. There are five graduated darts at the arm-hole top to give the squared effect. Stitch and press these. Then stitch the inverted pleat at the edge of the sleeve that gives the smart, fitted line. Stitch the sleeve seams and bind the lower edges with a bias facing.

Tack the sleeves into position in the armholes, again matching the notches you have marked. Then stitch. Now make a little stitched muslin shoulder pad (the pattern will tell you how and it's very easy) and fix this over the shoulder seam and half-way down each side of the armhole. And that is the secret of nicely squared shoulders. So simple when you know how.

You've finished the bodice, so start on the skirt. Tack and stitch the inverted box pleats at the front and back, then stitch the two side seams. Attach the skirt to the bodice, bind the under-arm opening, turn up the hem. Make a fabric belt, but you can also buy a leather or suede one in a different colour and get a gay handkerchief to match and so introduce a little variety at practically no cost.

FABRICS AND COLOURS

SILK or linen or pique are good fabrics for this frock this month. (Later in the autumn it would look good in a light weight woollen). Choose a new colour—say young-leaf green with a primrose spotted hankie, or mustard yellow with verdigris green belt and gankie, or Marlborough blue with mustard yellow etceteras.

If you want to vary the colour of your accessories I suggest you have wooden buttons covered with the dress fabric. They are very accommodating to change-of-colour schemes.

It May Be Hot, But You Can Look Cool And Fresh

By Marion Morton

TO look cool is half way towards feeling cool, and a girl who appears fresh and cool on a sweltering day is certainly a public benefactor—and, what is more, she obtains all the admiration and rewards to which such a good deed entitles her.

We all know the difficulty of looking as fresh as the proverbial daisy when the temperature registers ninety or more in the shade, but such an achievement is possible for any woman, though most of us, I am afraid, give up the struggle and simply sit and complain about the heat, looking hot and bedraggled the while.

Keeping cool is, at all times, largely a matter of temperament. If you plan your day carefully, and start for every appointment five minutes before you need, instead of two minutes later than you should, you will get through your day with calmness and serenity.

No ruffled temper, clammy hands, untidy hair and crumpled clothes will be your lot.

Your morning tuit should be in ly upwards and are brushed off the tepid (not cold) water, with plenty of forehead and temples look, as well as soap suds; massage with a rough hand

A Refreshing Powder.

A refreshing dusting powder, which also deodorises, is obviously the one to choose. It will keep you dainty during the hottest day.

Your face may need a liquid cleanser in place of a cream one if your skin is inclined to be slightly greasy. The very greasy skin requires a cleansing lotion with astringent qualities. A liquid powder base also helps to keep your skin look cool and greaseless.

Hair should be well thinned and cut fairly short, so that shampoos and "sets" are easily manipulated.

Do You Know How to Walk?

IT needs a bus strike to show us how little we walk, and how out of practice we are.

Here are some rules for walking, and if you follow them you will feel fitter and look better than you have done for years. Proper walking is one of the best aids to health.

First, see to your clothes. No restricted, lung-compressing garments; no heavy flapping coats or tight skirts. Shoes are, of course, of paramount importance. Look out for old low-heeled shoes, wide at the toes. Try not to wear the same pair of shoes two days running.

CHANGE your stockings or socks every day at least. Wool is far better for walking than silk or cotton, but although men can adopt this cure for tired feet, wool for most women would bring on a bad attack of inferiority complex. So take an extra pair of silk stockings out with you and change in the middle of the day.

If your feet are extra sensitive will see that there is more grace in bathe them in warm water every her long free steps than in shy ammonia. Shake a little talc powder you will take an inch off your hips on them after well drying and before the end of the bus strike.

NINE women out of ten walk wrongly, which is in itself exhausting. The feet must be parallel, not out-turned, so that the weight is thrown on to the side of the foot where the bones are put to support it. Knees should not be bent, but the legs swung from the hips pendulum-like.

If you swing your legs properly your heels will touch the ground first. Then you will gradually call into play heel, ball and toe muscles in harmonious smoothness, without jar.

Once the legs are going fine, think of the rest of your body. Hips should not waggle. Keep them firm and still with the "tail" well forward. Throw your chest out and up, and your shoulders back. Keep your chin up and look straight ahead, not down on the ground. Swing the arms regularly and breathe deeply.

If you watch a native woman carrying her wares on her head you will see that there is more grace in her long free steps than in any of our own. Step out ladies, and on them after well drying and before the end of the bus strike.

Children And Fresh Fruit.

Fresh fruit is good for children. But it requires careful supervision, as little ones are prone to eat it regardless of whether it is over-ripe, unripe or even damaged, in which conditions it can be highly dangerous, causing acute stomach trouble, diarrhoea, cholera, worms.

If, by chance, your child has eaten fruit of a doubtful nature, the safest plan is to administer promptly a dose of Baby's Own Tablets. The mild yet sure laxative action of the tablets cleanses the stomach and bowels and averts harmful consequences.

As a general health corrective for infants, and children too, Baby's Own Tablets are unsurpassed. They quickly relieve constipation, indigestion, colic, 'wind', check diarrhoea, expel worms, allay colds and croup. And during the trying time of teething they bring almost instant relief from pain, thus inducing sound, restful sleep in a perfectly natural way. Of all Chemists.

GAOL FOR MINED LINER'S MEN WHO DISOBEYED

Hole In Side Filled With Concrete

Nine men of the engine-room staff of the Union Castle liner Llandover Castle, who refused to obey orders after the ship had been mined off Spain last February, were each sentenced to six weeks' hard labour at Thames Court this month.

Passing sentence, the magistrate (Mr. John Harris) said: "It is a very serious offence and used to be called mutiny. I am going to assume in their favour that theirs was an honest belief. It makes a considerable difference."

A number of women relatives of the men who were in court broke down and cried when sentence was passed.

There were three summonses against each man.

The first was that being seamen, lawfully engaged on board the British steamship Llandover Castle, they did wilfully disobey the lawful commands of the chief engineer at Port Vendres; secondly, for continuing with other members of the crew to disobey the commands, and, thirdly, for continuing with other members of the crew to impede the progress of the voyage.

29 MEN INVOLVED
Mr. Harvie Watt, M.P., who prosecuted in similar cases last week, said that 29 men altogether were involved in the proceedings. Some had already been dealt with by other courts, and others had yet to be dealt with.

Mr. Watt said the ship was able to continue the voyage under her own steam to the nearest port—Port Vendres, France.

The passengers were transferred to another ship, and temporary repairs were carried out to the Llandover Castle.

Later a deputation from some of the engine-room staff told the master that they would not take the vessel to sea unless a bonus of £5 each was paid. They also asked for a guarantee to be paid off at Marseilles or Genoa.

"WOULD NOT GO TO SEA"
On April 24 a further deputation from the engine room ratings demanded to be paid off. They declared that in the circumstances would they take the ship to sea.

Mr. Harvie Watt said that the master told the men that a certificate of seaworthiness had been issued by Lloyd's for the vessel to proceed to Genoa.

Eventually each of the men now summoned, who were firemen, greasers and trimmers, was told individually by the chief engineer to proceed with his duties, and each refused.

The men were discharged and sent home, substitutes being obtained.

FESTIVAL DAY OF FAMOUS CATHEDRAL

SERVICE OF INTEREST TO WHOLE EMPIRE

By A Correspondent.

The Friends of Canterbury Cathedral opened their annual festival this year with a Service of Arts and Crafts in the cathedral itself on June 12. The celebrations end a week later, on June 19, the actual Festival Day, with a service that will be of interest to the whole Empire.

A wall-stone will be formally presented to the Cathedral, and beside it will be placed a list of ninety-two cathedrals in all parts of the British Empire in which similar stones from Canterbury have been placed during the past few years.

The Church of England overseas is now world-wide, with dioceses in every continent, and it can fairly claim that the description which Pope Urban II, applied to Archbishop Anselm—"the Patriarch, the Apostolicus or Pope of a second world"—is literally true of his successors to-day, eight hundred years afterwards.

THE MOTHER CHURCH

Christ Church, Canterbury, remains the Mother Church of its vast organisation. The oldest cathedral in England, its walls are of stone and bronze and marble of a thousand years of history, and under the guidance of the Dean and Chapter it is the privilege of the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral to ensure that this great treasure-house of the nation is kept in the splendour and beauty proper to its fame.

This association of Friends, was founded ten years ago by Dr. Bell, now Bishop of Chichester, to bind together all who loved Canterbury Cathedral and desired to take some part, however small, in preserving it for posterity. Since then several similar societies have been formed in other cathedral cities, with similar objects, but the pioneer association in Canterbury retains its

TOMBS TO BE REPAIRED

The paintings of these three heroic Archbishops, who are all buried in the Cathedral, are to be restored by Dr. E. W. Tristram—the large representation of St. Thomas is, in fact, already on view. Curiously enough, the Cathedral appears to have no memorial to two other Archbishops, who also lost their lives—the unfortunate Cranmer and the unhappy Laud. But the fine tombs of the great medieval prelates—Courtney, who persecuted the Lollards and rebuked Richard II.; Archbishop Peckham, and others, have been restored, and the magnificent monument to Henry IV.—the only King of England buried in the Cathedral—will be repaired by the time that the Coronation visitors begin to arrive.

Finally, there remain the modern memorials. Here are the flags of H.M.S. Kent and H.M.S. Canterbury, which came through the battles of the Falkland Islands and Jutland. Over against these, its vivid blue

60 YEARS A NEWS-VENDOR

OLD HARRY, of the Old Kent Road, is celebrating his diamond jubilee as a news-vendor.

"I must be the oldest in London," he said, "and I've never missed a day from my pitch except when I've gone to Tenterden, in Kent, where I was born in 1861."

Sixty years ago this month he began squatting on a box by the Old Kent Road railway bridge, and there he squats to-day from 5 a.m. to 7.30 p.m.

"Not many could do it so long and show up as bright as I do," he chuckled.

A fine, big jolly fellow, he has never been able to stand without crutches. He hurt his knee as a baby, and the surgeons of 74 years ago removed his knee cap.

NEVER HAD A WAGE

Harry's first job was boot-blackening, which he later combined with news selling.

Blackening boots was a "real job" before the invention of cheap, easy and brilliant shoe polish.

"Maiden from the big 'carrage-and-pair houses' on the main road and children from the side-streets used to bring mountains of family foot-wear to Harry to do at 2d. the pair."

Throughout the 60 years he has never had a wage.

"I've lived from day to day," he said, "and if there was no meat, me and my girl were happy and content with a bit of bread and cheese."

almost dazzling even in the winter sunning, are the ensigns of the Royal Air Force, presented only a few months ago.

These are the symbols of the England of to-day; away in a far corner is the sacred spot where stood the altar of the first church in Canterbury, centuries before Britain became England. There Christian men worshipped in the time of Constantine, a hundred years before the Roman legions from London and Lincoln and the North marched through the streets of Canterbury on their recall home by the dying Empire.

Nothing now remains of this but a memory, but from the site of that first church in Kent to the chair of St. Augustine, where the Archbishops of Canterbury of to-day welcome the bishops of the whole Church of England overseas in conference assembled, the great Cathedral commemorates almost every aspect of our history. And it is the beneficent work of the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral to maintain its memorials and its fabric intact for ourselves, our kinsmen, and for posterity.

TO-MORROW at the QUEEN'S

OUR GUIDE TO THE CINEMAS

"After The Thin Man" (Kings Theatre, to-day).—This is the sort of film you want to see time and again. There is too much cleverness and entertainment in it to assimilate fully at one time, and the longer it is kept on the better Hongkong will like it. Apart from the scintillating work of William Powell, Myrna Loy, et al, this picture assuredly places Director W. S. Van Dyke on the same plane as René Clair as a maker of superb comedy-thriller films.

"Dracula's Daughter" (Queen's Theatre, to-day).—Blood—freezing, scalp-prickling picture which takes your breath as much as did the original film "Dracula." It is not an easy film to play as it encourages over-acting. It is to the credit of the entire cast, headed by Gloria Holden and Otto Kruger, that these pitfalls are meticulously avoided.

"California Straight Ahead" (Alhambra Theatre, to-day).—This picture presents the dramatic struggle of two rugged men who have fought their way up from the bottom to positions of eminence in their respective fields. Both love the same girl and meet at last as opposing leaders. Thrilling action and masterful photography.

"The Bride Walks Out" (Oriental Theatre, to-day).—Light-hearted frolicsome film of matrimonial misunderstandings. Barbara Stanwyck plays skillfully and is surrounded by a fine cast which includes handsome Gene Raymond, debonair Robert Young, dry, wise-cracking Ned Sparks and delightful Helen Broderick.

"She Couldn't Take It" (Majestic Theatre, to-day).—Sinister George Raft, not quite so sinister, but a little more smiling, in one of his brighter efforts. Joan Bennett, wilful, spoilt heiress adds sparkle and comedy to a film rich in unusual situations and bright dialogue. You will also like Walter Connolly because Mr. Connolly is always likeable.

"Midnight" (Star Theatre, to-day).—Somewhat grim but fascinating depiction of conflicting emotions. O. P. Heggie, well remembered for a suggestion of fine character studies on the screen, plays the part of a man who, as foreman of a jury, helps to convict a woman and send her to the electric chair, only to discover later that his own daughter has confessed to the crime.

"California Syrup of Figs"
NATURE'S OWN LAXATIVE

"Why, the poor little thing is constipated. No wonder she's fretful. That is the chief thing a mother has to guard against, Mrs. Grant."

"Kiddies don't understand; they're so absorbed in their games, and often neglect Nature's call. Then they get bilious, lose their appetite and become irritable."

"Show me your tongue, Winnie. Yes, it is coated a sure sign she's out of sorts. All she needs is 'California Syrup of Figs,' and she'll be as happy as a lark in the morning."

"You'll find it keeps the bowels regular, purifies the system and saves stomach upsets and biliousness."

"If children are to thrive and grow strong and keen witted, they must eat well and digest what they eat. There's no better way than the regular weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs.' All children love it."

"If I were you, I would send for a bottle now and give Winnie a dose at once."

"Be sure you insist on 'California Syrup of Figs.' Mrs. Grant, I am surprised that some mothers are ready to experiment with cheap and drastic preparations. It's such a pity they don't realize that 'California Syrup of Figs.' is a perfectly safe children's laxative. I know myself how carefully and scientifically it is prepared."

CORRESPONDENCE

Peak Tramways Co., Ltd.

To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—In the report published in your paper of the proceedings at the annual meeting of the above Company the following remark "A profit about the present figure of $42,000 is expected to continue."

What the Chairman actually said in referring to the future prospects of the Company was "Provided this state of affairs continues and there is no appreciable rise in running costs, the Company should still be able to show a profit, somewhat above the present figure." The present figure in this case being the profit for the year under review, viz., $28,000—not $42,000—which latter figure included balance of profit from the previous year.

We shall be glad if you will publish this letter to correct any misunderstanding your original report may have occasioned.

NAVAL PATROL OFF SPAIN THE FOUR POWERS' AGREEMENT

London, June 15.
The British Government has now transmitted to the two parties in Spain the communication agreed upon at the week-end by the Foreign Secretary and the French, German and Italian Ambassadors. The text is as follows:
"First, that the two parties should be asked to give a specific assurance they will respect foreign warships on the high seas and elsewhere and will take steps to see that their naval and air forces give effect to this assurance."
"Secondly, that in order to avoid accidental attacks on or damage to foreign warships participating in the patrol when lying in the ports of either party, the two parties should be asked to come to an agreement with the four Powers upon the list of Spanish ports to be made available for use as bases for their patrol ships, and upon the definition of safety zones which should be established in those ports."
"Thirdly, that the two parties should be informed of any infraction of the aforesaid assurances, or any attack upon foreign warships responsible for the naval patrol will be regarded by the four Powers participating in control as a matter of common concern, and that the four Powers, irrespective of any immediate measures of self-defence considered necessary by the forces of the Power actually attacked, will immediately seek an agreement among themselves concerning the steps to be taken in common, taking into consideration the views which the Government concerned is naturally entitled to express as to further appropriate measures." — British Wireless.

MOTOR MISHAP NOT SO SERIOUS AS REPORTED

With regard to the motor accident in which a naval officer was involved, reported in our issue of yesterday, we now learn that the car was driven by Lieutenant Commander (not Lieutenant) H. G. Bowerman, and that the mishap happened on Sunday, not Monday, as stated.
The Chinese girl who was knocked down, and who was stated in a police report to have been seriously injured, was discharged from Kowloon Hospital the day following the accident. The mishap, therefore, was obviously not so serious as was at first reported.

TWO NAMES NOT ON SHIP'S LIST B. & S. COMPANY FINED

A fine of $20 was imposed on Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, Co. Ltd., when they were summoned before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning for failing to supply a correct list of passengers to the Police within the prescribed 48 hours. The passengers referred to were those who arrived on the s.s. Fatshan from Canton on May 31. Mr. H. D. White, appearing for the company, pleaded guilty.
Acting Sub-Inspector Edwards stated that on May 31 the Police were informed by two Japanese females that they had arrived in the Colony from Canton on the s.s. Fatshan. Their names were not included in the passenger list sent by the company.

TWO YEARS FOR ROBBERY

ACCUSED ALLEGES SWINDLE

Sentence of two years' hard labour was passed by Sir Althol MacGregor, Chief Justice, at the Criminal Sessions this morning on Cheung Yul-ming, who admitted a charge of robbing, with violence, a woman named Chau Chi-hing of a gold finger ring, a pair of jade ear-rings and a jade bangle at Cheung Chau on May 7. Before sentence was passed on him, accused said the woman had swindled him by promising to go with him to Canton to start some business there.
Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, said accused had been in Cheung Chau for a number of years and was the owner of a passenger boat which plied between that port and Macao.
In passing sentence, His Lordship reminded accused that he could not take the law into his own hands.

FOREIGN SHIPPING COMPETITION

Although it is almost impossible, due to the cryptic nature of
the official communiques on the
subject, to ascertain what progress has been made by the Imperial Conference on the question of maintenance of British shipping in the face of foreign subsidised competition, some comfort can be found in the fact that the matter is considered to be one of common concern to the whole Empire. It is recorded
that certain forms and methods
of foreign discrimination are seriously prejudicing British shipping, if they do not actually threaten its entire elimination.
Accordingly, instances of this character, it is urged, should be brought to the notice of all Empire Governments for the purpose of considering the best
means of meeting the situation.
The Conference itself does not appear to have had in hand the
question of increased foreign competition in Far Eastern
waters, although high praise is recorded of the work of the Imperial Shipping Committee in this connection. Presumably more will be heard of this matter
in the near future. One of the knottiest problems encountered
by the Conference committee
has been the competition between United States, Australian and
New Zealand ships on the Pacific, concerning which no finality has
yet been reached. Meantime,
the Governments concerned
therein, as well as the United Kingdom, has the question in hand. According to one message, the Imperial Conference
delegates approved of a subsidy to British shippers engaged
on the Pacific route, but somewhat unexpected opposition to
the ratification of any such agreement appears to have been encountered from Mr. Mackenzie
King, the Canadian Premier,
who, anxious for the conclusion
of an Anglo-American trade pact,
fears that such a move might be interpreted as being aimed
against the United States. But,
surely, if United States vessels
are being subsidised and are thereby enabled to cut in on British interests, there is no
valid reason why subsidy should
not be answered by subsidy.
Here in the Far East, British shipping is being badly hit both
by subsidies and by discrimination. The latter issue is one of special importance, and, if fair
treatment cannot be secured,
there would seem to be no other alternative but to retaliate along
the same lines where it is found
that British vessels are suffer-

LIFE IN BILBAO TO-DAY

By Philip Jordan

Bilbao. It's not easy to write this. The almost constant whirr of air raid sirens takes your mind off things, and makes coherent thought difficult.

Probably this will be finished some time this evening; it was begun long before seven in the morning, for the first siren of the day has just gone, and it's going to be difficult to go to sleep again.

Not that they've bombed that part of the town in which I've lived since last September, but there's no reason why they shouldn't. And anyway, the walls of my room, and particularly of my bathroom, already shower me with plaster whenever a heavy lorry passes down
the narrow street outside.

If a bomb fell anywhere in the neighbourhood—or if a banana fell on the roof—the hotel would almost certainly collapse. But there isn't another one.

You don't get used to air raids, either. The sirens have only to go once to give the average man the "willies."

WHEN they go twice, in short, breathless whistles, it means that the enemy is right overhead, and that if you are not in one of the "refugios" it's just too bad for you. When the two blasts go the police drive everyone off the streets into shelters as malodorous as they are inadequate.

If you don't want to go, and persist in being silly, they shoot over your head. Then you take refuge too.

Lots of people in the refuges hiss you if you talk while there's an air raid on. They do this because they really think that the aviators might be able to hear you, and that your voice is an open invitation to them to come and bomb.

But there are other times of the day—times when "normali-dad" has been restored. That means that the German bombers have gone home to Vitoria.

In those hours the city functions normally—or as normally as any beleaguered city can be expected to function in conditions such as the Basques have to endure at this hour of their greatest peril.

Their situation is more hazardous at this moment than has been that of any city except Madrid on that black day early in November when the rebel forces were stamping their feet on the threshold.

BUT, none the less, the food situation here is a great deal better than it is in Madrid. There is plenty of fish.
We have grilled salmon and strawberries for lunch most days—and until you have eaten grilled salmon and strawberries seven days a week for several weeks you can't imagine how tedious they become.

ing from a policy of virtual exclusion from foreign ports. All these matters are doubtless receiving close attention in official quarters, and in due course the present veil of secrecy may be lifted. It will then be possible to judge whether the measures decided upon are likely to prove of any real value.

Sometimes there is no bread. That makes life very difficult to endure. There is never any coffee; and those who are lucky enough to have a friend in Bayonne who will send them some by the daily air service, are the envy of the rest.

It doesn't last long, though.
You can't go through life drinking coffee with the startling eyes of about fifty people popping in your direction. You have to hand it out.

The shops are all open, but they are getting short of supplies. There isn't a linen handkerchief in the town.

Neither love nor money can procure you a shirt in anything except the most abominable tartans—the kind of thing in which members of the P.O.U.M. or the F.A.I. swaggered about in the streets of Barcelona before they were put in their places.

If you want to buy a wrist watch—as I did yesterday—you have to accompany the shopkeeper to the bank where he stored all his goods in the pathetic belief that the rebels, should they ever get here, would respect what lies in the vaults of those who are backing them. It seemed a pity to disillusion him.

(There have been five air raids since this article was begun: the four sirens that mean "normalidad" have just finished their seemingly interminable whirr.)

Mirth Among Motorists

A MOTORIST hurried into a shop and said to the girl behind the counter, "I want something funny and grotesque to go on the front of my car."

The girl retreated to the back of the shop.

"Father," she called, "you're wanted."

A policeman, sternly approaching a pretty girl who had just passed the red light, inquired, "Look here, miss, have you read the Highway Code?"

"Why, no," beamed the pretty girl. "Is it good?"

An Irish motorist was a witness in a legal case. The Judge thundered, "And now, sir, tell the Court what you were doing in the interim."

"Sure I never went there at all," retorted the Irishman indignantly.
"I stayed in my car all the time."

A motorist was giving a young lady lessons in driving.

"The hand lever," he explained,
"brakes the rear wheels only, and
the floor pedal brakes all four.
Is that clear?"

"Yes," replied the young lady doubtfully, "but I'd rather not have any of them broken."

Two cars had collided during the holiday rush. A frowning policeman approached and said to one of the drivers, "What's your name?"

"Mick O'Brien."
"Where do you come from?"
"Cork."
"Lay it there, man," said the policeman cordially. "Me own name's O'Brien, and I come from Cork. Hold on a minute till I charge this other fellow with furious driving."

A Scotsman was in China on business. One day he stopped at an hotel for lunch, leaving a coolie in charge of his car outside. An hour later he came out and found that his car had disappeared.

"Where's my car?" he asked the coolie.

"Me no know," replied the coolie. "Me can't tell. Me press button and it went like hell!"

In the course of a judicial inquiry into the responsibility for a collision between two motors, a witness was asked if he had actually seen the accident.

"Yes," he replied. "I saw the affair from start to finish."

"That being so," said the counsel, "can you tell the Court just what you think was the cause of the accident?"

"Well," replied the witness, "I can't go so far as that, but it appeared to me that both cars were chasing the same pedestrian."
Margaret Hillman.

FOR its size, Bilbao must have more sympathisers with the ex-cinemas than any other town in general Franco. The people Europe. There is hardly a star here seem to feel rather sorry of the first magnitude whom you for them; as they might for de-cannot see here this week. Greta monted children, for they see to Garbo in a film that must have it that they have the best of been called "As You Desire Me" everything. If they want to go is the biggest draw. to France the Government takes every possible step to facilitate their evacuation.

"The Thin Man" is a bit of a flop: it may be too flippant for these extremely serious-minded people, who look like Highlanders. "Gold Diggers of Broadway," with a simplicity broadly characteristic of this country, is being presented at the Olympia as "Vampires of Broadway." They like to get to the heart of a problem here.

On the streets outside the station and outside the "re-fugios" a roaring trade is done all day in one of the most delicious fishes-of-the-world: fresh sardines. In our hotel they seem to think them rather beneath the notice of the rebel sympathisers who live there, so we only have them in an extremity.

SINCE the beginning of the revolution only 427 people have been executed here. Of these 199 were shot in a bunch by a group of what are called "incontrolados" who went on to what was then the prison ship and shot them as reprisal for a particularly brutal air raid.

The Basque Government are very ashamed that it should have happened, and it is not considered polite to discuss the matter—although no doubt everyone knows that all 199 of the victims deserved all they got.

IT seems odd to see people going to church and to see priests going about the street and still receiving the respect that in other parts of Spain they used to demand as a right. It seems odd, after a stay in Madrid and in the south, to see the streets lighted up all night, for all the world as though it was peace.

(There they go again—those sirens!)

There was an air raid in the middle of the night last week.
The sound of the engine woke me up, but it didn't wake up the electrician until a bomb had been dropped. Then the lights in the streets went out, but they soon came out again.

Bilbao is determined to live as normally as it can. It can't be a very normal life.

When the day's work is over men and women give up their spare time to trudge out the hills with picks and shovel, and there they work half the night to improve the famous "iron ring" with which Bilbao will defend itself to the end.

Bilbao knows, everyone here knows that this city is the key to the Spanish war.
If it falls—well, democracy in Europe must be prepared for a blow from which it will take a great many years to recover.
That's the long and the short of it.

JUNK ROBBER GIVEN THREE YEARS' PRISON

SESSIONS SENTENCE ON FISHERMAN

Charged with robbery by two or more on a junk at Cheung Chau on April 27, Chan Leung-hing, 29, fisherman, pleaded not guilty at Criminal Sessions this morning when the trial was opened before Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell and the following jury: Messrs. W. Egge (Foreman), Tam Sing-foh, H. Luer, G. Souza, H. E. B. Nochi, W. J. Priest, Young Tsun-shin.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, said it was alleged that on the evening of April 27, Lo Kau, a fisherman who had been dismissed from the junk on which the robbery occurred, visited the junk at Cheung Chau Harbour on the pretext of looking for a single. He spoke to Cheung Lan, wife of the master, and her aunt and the former disclosed that other occupants of the junk were ashore. Lo Kau departed but shortly afterwards Cheung Lan was surprised to find a man had boarded the junk, carrying a revolver and a torch. She raised an alarm and was chased over the junk, eventually seeking refuge on the foremast from where she continued to shout for help.

Another man came from below deck and the two went off in a small boat. The police were informed and a box was found to have been ransacked. Money, jewels and clothes having been taken.

Accused's hut was searched on information received and a piece of cloth was found there which was identified by the concubine of the master of the junk as belonging to her.

VIOLENCE ALLEGED

At the Police Court, continued Mr. Abbott, five men had been charged. Accused had made a statement to the police when charged to the effect that he and others earned 30 cents each by rowing Ah Kau to the junk. In the Police Court, however, he denied the statement and said that violence had been used on him by the police to force an admission from him.

Corroborative evidence was given by Cheung Lan who, in reply to His Lordship, said she did not expect the robbers and was surprised when they came.

Chung Yuen-nam, the concubine, said she left the junk about 7 p.m. on the night of the robbery and did not return until 2 a.m. when she found her cabin in disorder. She identified the piece of cloth produced in Court as her property.

In answer to His Lordship, witness said she was in good terms with the No. 1 wife, Cheung Lan.

Sergeant Yip Chik testified that late on the night of the robbery he went on information to a match in Tung Wan, where he found accused sleeping on a bed. The piece of cloth was found tucked between the wall and the bed.

Sergeant J. Cordaux deposed to having accompanied the previous witness to the match.

As far as witness knew there was no basis for accused's complaints that he had been assaulted. Other responsible officers were present when he was charged.

MADE VOLUNTARILY

The interpreter said prisoner made his statement voluntarily.

Witnesses were tendered by the Crown and accused asked two of them, Cheung Kwong-cheuk and Chan Cheuk, fish stall workers, whether they had told the District Officer the names of five men involved in the robbery and had not mentioned accused's name. Witnesses agreed that this was so.

Accused said he did not wish to cull any of the men previously charged as he did not know them.

His Lordship summed up and said that if the jury thought accused was waiting in his boat to take off the robbers, then he was guilty. In his statement that he had rowed some men out to a junk, he had not said that he knew there was to be a robbery.

The jury retired and shortly returned a verdict of guilty.

It was stated that accused had previously been convicted of theft and breach of a Deportation Order.

Sentence of three years' hard labour was imposed.

ANOTHER CASE

Remarking that people like accused were a menace to the public, the Police Judge, Mr. J. J. Hayden, at the Criminal Sessions this morning, passed sentence of two years' hard labour and 20 strokes of the cane on Chan Hong, a busy 35-year-old countryman, who was charged with robbing Li Ming, 65, with violence.

Accused admitted robbery but denied striking his victim.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, asked for a heavy penalty, remarking that such cases of robbery with violence and bag-snatching had been on the increase.

Accused was alleged in the Lower Court proceedings to have robbed the old man in a scuffling line between Percival and Tung Lung Streets about 2 a.m. on May 18. He attacked complainant, threw pepper into his face and flung him to the ground. Accused was subsequently arrested by a Chinese constable on the stairs of 21 Tung Lung Street.

SILVER TROPHY STOLEN

A burglar entered 115 Boundary Street, Kowloon between 3 p.m. and 3.30 p.m. yesterday afternoon and stole a silver cup bearing the words: "1921 Swimming Inter-Club Diving Race G. A. W. Hall. Presented by the Hongkong Telegraph."

The thief apparently gained access to the house through an open window.

NOT WANTED IN HONGKONG

JOBLESS RUSSIAN FROM CANTON

A fine of $10, with the alternative of fifteen days' imprisonment, and an expulsion order was imposed on Vladimir Ivanovitch Schultz, a 21-year-old Russian unemployed man, when he was charged before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy this morning with entering the Colony without a valid passport on June 14.

Detective-Sergeant F. E. Russell, said defendant arrived in Hongkong from Canton on June 14 and gave himself up to the police the following day. He had no passport and no money. According to defendant's story, he came here to seek employment, as he wanted to earn some money to get back to Shanghai. Defendant had been in Canton for only five days.

The police officer said there were many unemployed Russians in Canton, and the Hongkong authorities could not encourage them to come here.

crumbling. Therefore separation would not greatly matter.—Reuter.

GENEVA REACTION

Geneva, June 15. It is recalled here that Britain has already mooted the separation for reform of the League. Nevertheless, the reaffirmation of support for this principle in the Imperial Conference report has attracted great interest. Although it is felt the proposals must be much more far-reaching with regard to the modification of the Covenant if Germany is to be brought back or the United States brought in.—Reuter.

but were agreed that the several Governments of which they are representatives are bound to adopt such measures of defence as they might deem essential for the fulfilment of their international obligations.

The representatives also had under consideration the possibility of reviving confidence and increasing the stability of economic and financial conditions in the world—a process which they considered essential to the prosperity of individual countries as well as to international peace. They declared themselves ready to co-operate with other nations in examining current difficulties, including trade barriers and other obstacles to the increase of international trade, and the improvement of the general standard of living.—British Wireless.

The impact of the finishing blow to the head. Neusel sat up at the count of four and appeared to be resting. But he was out. He rose unsteadily after ten had been counted.

It is understood Neusel had cartilage trouble with his right leg. Farr now has excellent prospects of a fight with Schmeling for a world-title elimination contest.

If he can beat Max, another ex-world champion and the conqueror of Detroit's Joe Louis, he stands a splendid chance of fighting a world championship bout with the winner of the Louis-Braddock fight in Chicago, June 22. And a victory over Schmeling would make Farr a favourite in a battle with either of the chief American contenders.—Reuter.

Old Man Gets Three Years

For Possession Of Heroin

"To plead guilty or not guilty is immaterial to me, because I am so old and cannot find a living," said Chan Tim, aged 68, at the Criminal Sessions this morning when he was charged with possession of 61,240 heroin pills and half an ounce of crude heroin on the first floor of 72 Cheungshawan Road on May 19. The Chief Justice, Sir Atholl Macgregor, took that statement as a plea of not guilty, but when the jury was about to be empanelled, accused said: "I want to plead guilty."

"It is too heavy a sentence," remarked prisoner when His Lordship passed sentence of three years' hard labour.

CONGRESS PARTY STILL ADAMANT

WON'T WORK UNDER NEW INDIA ACT

Calcutta, June 15. Jawaharlal Nehru, in a speech today, dealing with the Indian political situation, reiterated that Congress was not going to withdraw its declaration that it would not work under the Government of India Act. He added that only the All-India Congress Committee could change the terms laid down regarding the acceptance of office, though it was true that without changing the conditions, certain interpretations could be put upon them by the Congress Working Committee.—Reuter.

WIRELESS CASES ADJOURNED

Several wireless summons cases were adjourned by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning. N. M. Wong, No. 21 Village Road, was charged with failing to notify a change of address. Her representative appeared and stated that she was in Manila and would not be back for about one month. The case was accordingly remanded for one month.

Chan She-lam, living at No. 10 Fung Fat Terrace, did not appear in answer to a charge of failing to pay the required licence fee and together with Chan Wai-sung, No. 22 Fung Fat Terrace, who was charged similarly, remanded for one week.

COINS MAY BE CONFISCATED

Five thousand copper coins found aboard the naval oil tanker Perseus are now the subject of investigation by the local naval authorities.

There is nothing wrong with the coins and reports that they are spurious are incorrect.

But there is a prohibition against the export of copper and silver currency from China, and the naval authorities are now deliberating as to whether the coins should be confiscated.

They belong to a Chinese member of the crew.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

SWAN, CULBERTSON & FRITZ LATEST REPORTS

New York, June 15. S. C. & F. Dow Jones Summary of yesterday's markets:—Pressure has been relaxed in anticipation of an early favourable break in the ranks of labour. Steels led the advance, showing substantial gains. Farm implements strengthened. Coppers gained, ranging to 1 point. The advance throughout the list ranged above 2 points, with some individual issues above 3. Trading was moderate. Mail orders and automatic sales were higher. Bonds were irregularly lower. Curb stocks were higher, but the market was quiet.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal morning comment:—It is indicated that grain traffic is likely for some time to sustain a slight movement on the railroads. The operating revenues for May of 88 railroads are 83% over those for May of last year. Retail prices are higher. It is indicated that oil profits for the second quarter will be 40 to 50 per cent higher than for those of a second quarter of last year. The weakness of the stock market is attributed to lack of industrial vigour as well as to labour unrest.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The extent of the recovery was about in line with expectations, with a late rally aided by further short-covering and an unconfirmed rumour of an Administration spokesman will warn labour leaders that they must keep better control over unruly elements in their ranks. Should such a stand be taken by the Administration, it would enjoy a broad recovery, but it seems rather doubtful that such developments will be had. Failing this, and no improvement other-wise in the labour picture, it appears unlikely that the rally will carry much further without meeting fresh resistance. According to our further strength to lighter accounts to some extent. Business failures for the week amounted to 161. Bank deposits for the week totalled $15,500,000,000.

Cotton: Favourable factors, covering by shorts and weevil reports from the Mississippi. The market appears to be technically strong, but needs some stimulating development. Wheat: Hedging is increasing, but is insufficient to outweigh the increasing concern regarding the Saskatchewan drought, which is making the South-West are delaying the harvest there. Germany is reported to be buying about purchases.

Corn: Chicago advises that support of September position is expected at the present discounts. Contract stocks are light. Rubber: There was some short-covering and evidence of outside speculative interest and dealers buying. It is estimated that Malaysian June exports amounted to 48,000 tons. Sugar: The market is very steady. There was some further liquidation, but Cuban buying continues.

BRAKES NOT EFFICIENT

OWNER AND DRIVER FOUND

Mrs. Soradbury, of the Britannia Aerated Water Manufacturing Company, was fined $20 by Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for failing to have an efficient braking system on one of her trucks. The driver, Lai Ling, was fined $5 on the same count. Traffic Sergeant J. Serim said that on May 28 he had tested the truck's brakes, and found them to be in bad working order. At 20 miles an hour, the vehicle pulled up in 54 feet when the footbrake was used, and in 59 feet when the handbrake was applied. To be in good working order, the brakes should have stopped the truck within about 35 feet.

Described as a professional carrier, Leung Fuk-hong, charged with the possession of dutiable wine, was fined $40, or one month, when he appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning. Inspector W. Mair stated that defendant was arrested at 10 a.m. yesterday carrying two gallons of wine in a sealed tin which fitted snugly into a rattan basket.

"I was looking for a friend and the Inspector asked me to go for a car ride," was the plea of Chin Pak-mui, 25, residing at No. 23, Wing Wo Street, when she was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning with soliciting for prostitution. Inspector Madgewick said that was a fact. She was so insistent that she was asked to take a ride and was taken to the Central Police Station. The case was adjourned, bail being allowed at $75.

RECREIO WIN FIVE SETS AGAINST THE I. R. C.

Promising Start To League Tennis Programme FOUR TEAMS WIN AS EXPECTED

After being thwarted for two successive weeks by rain, the "A" Division teams in the tennis league were able to play their matches of the season yesterday. Results were as expected, though the University's defeat of South China was somewhat more decisive than anticipated.

Rain prevented the I.R.C. v. Recreio match from being completed, but Recreio succeeded in winning five sets before the stoppage. Every set was hotly contested, three of them going to twelve games and two to ten games. Against H. D. Rumlajn and A. H. Madar, the Recreio pair, Barretto and Hemedios had to break through service twice in order to win after being in arrears. Recreio however, gave evidence of being a nicely-balanced side.

When Lee Wal-long left on a football tour yesterday morning things did not look at all bright for the C.R.C. against United Services Recreation Club. The Chinese had to bring in two former "B" Division pairs to make up the team. But they played creditably and only Goldman and Sullivan presented any opposition.

K.C.C. won at the Cricket Club, dropping but two sets. University did very well to overcome South China A.A. by a similar score. Detailed results follow:

U.S.R.C. v. C.R.C.

United Services Recreation Club lost to Chinese Recreation Club three sets to six in the "A" division of the tennis league yesterday.

Scores: J. Goldman and A. L. Sullivan (U.S.R.C.) beat Wong Shui-wing and Luk Ding-cheung 6-4, 6-2, 6-2; H. D. Rumlajn and A. H. Madar (C.R.C.) beat Lee Wal-long and Tai Ping-fang 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

U.S.R.C. v. K.C.C. Kowloon Cricket Club beat H.K.C.C. seven to two. E. C. Fincher and G. Bodker (K.C.C.) beat H. Owen-Hughes and G. W. Sevell 6-3, 6-2; F. V. Harrison and J. F. Leys 6-3, 6-2; R. K. Valentine and A. C. I. Bowker 6-1.

A. E. P. Guest and A. Crawford (K.C.C.) beat Owen-Hughes and Sevell 6-2; Harrison and Leys 6-3; Valentine and Bowker 6-3.

U.S.R.C. v. SOUTH CHINA University beat South China seven to two. P. C. Lee and H. N. Lee (University) beat K. N. Chau and C. T. Yip 7-5, 6-2; K. S. Lui and H. Ho 6-3; lost to S. N. Wong and L. H. Ho 2-6.

S. Wong and Y. N. Tan beat Chau and Yip 6-1; beat Lui and Ho 7-5; beat Wong and Ho 6-2.

C. C. Ma and Y. C. Lou draw with Chau and Yip 6-6; drew with Lui and Ho 6-6; beat Wong and Ho 6-4.

Result Can Be Ignored

(By Frank Foxon)

With no desire at all to detract from the merit of Miss Freda James's victory over Miss Alice Marble in the Surrey lawn tennis championships at Surbiton, I think the result can be ignored from the point of view of appraising Miss Marble's ability.

Hours of rain had left the court "dead" and very slippery, and the player of superior class had no chance of asserting her superiority. A muddy court is a great leveler.

From the start Miss Marble was in trouble. She slipped and floundered and there can be no doubt that, on the day, Miss James well deserved her victory by 6-4, 6-3.

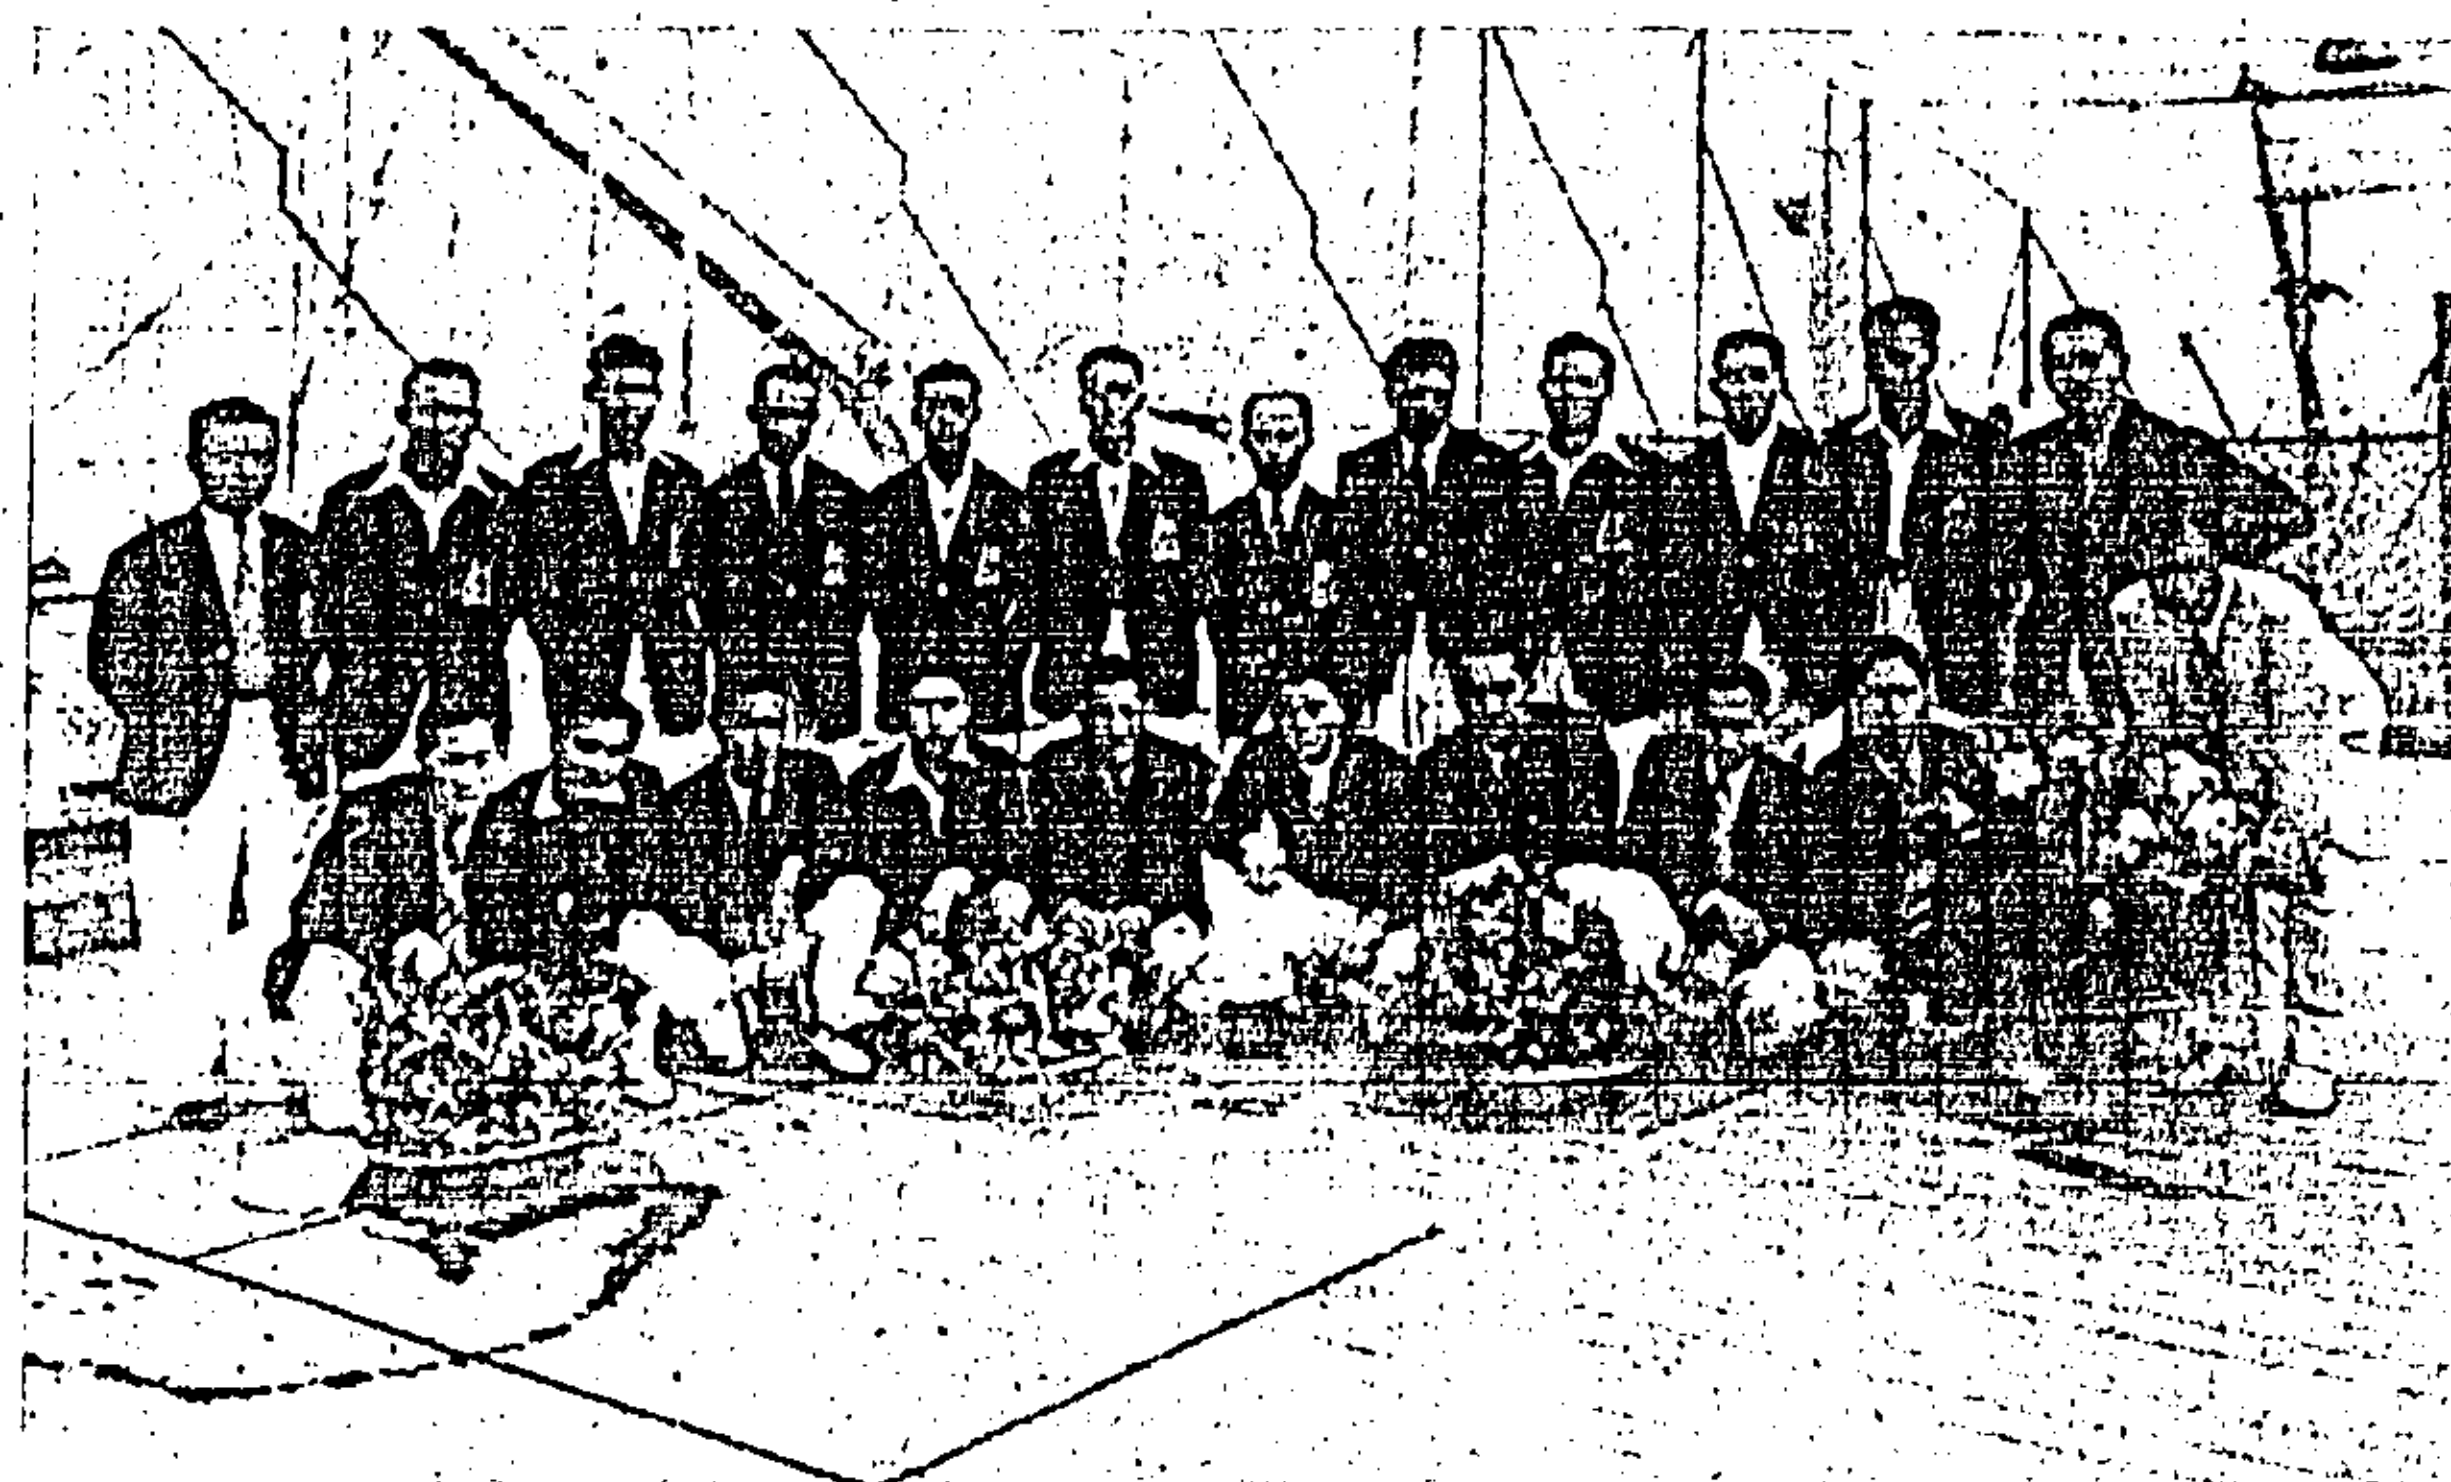

The Nottingham girl reeled off the first four games in a row and then Miss Marble rallied in fine style to square at four-all. During this period she volleyed very well, putting the ball away incisively. Miss James then took the next two games for the set; the last of Miss Marble's service.

In the second set Miss James quickly clinched the issue and she certainly enhanced her reputation.

The men's singles final was won by R. K. Tinkler, who beat P. Sherwood at 6-7, 6-3 after a close struggle in which both players strove hard to surmount the conditions. Tinkler just deserved to win.

In the men's doubles final D. Cook and E. Filby beat H. Cooper and H. G. N. Lee 7-5, 2-6, 8-6. This was the best match of the day, Filby being specially good.

The finals of the women's doubles and the mixed doubles were not played.

LEAVE FOR FOOTBALL TOUR.—This group picture was taken on the deck of the M. M. Felix Roussel and shows the South China Athletic Association football squad before they sailed for Indo-China, Malaya and Java, in which countries they will play several football matches. The squad includes the whole of the first eleven and several of the "B" team. (Photo by Ming Yuen).

FOOTBALL TOUR

Strong South China A.A. Team Embark BOUND FOR JAVA

A heavy programme of approximately 30 matches has been prepared for the South China A.A. footballers who left Hongkong yesterday morning by the French liner Felix Roussel to commence their tour of Indo-China, Siam, Malaya and Java.

The team consists of 20 players, with Mr. Lum Chung-ho as manager and Mr. Chau Yun-nin as his assistant. Lee Wal-long, who led the Chinese footballers to the Berlin Olympic Games last August, is captain of the team.

The players, besides Lee Wal-long, are Wong Wah-gay and Tam Kwankon (goal-keepers), Li Tin-sang, Lau Mau, Mak So and Leung In-chun (full-backs), Wong Mee-shun, Leung Wing-chiu, Lee Kwok-wai, Lim Tok-po and Lau Hing-choi (half-backs), and Fung King-cheung, Tso Kwai-shing, Yeung Shui-yick, Lai Shiu-wing, Tay Quei-liang, Lee Shek-yau, Ho Ka-keung and Chan Tak-fai (forwards).

All are members of either the South China "A" or the South China "B" teams, and the squad is regarded as the strongest Chinese team ever to have been sent down to Java from Hongkong. They will be away for just over two months, and will be back about the middle of August.

The team will play four matches in Saigon and four more in Bangkok, apart from a charity engagement at the latter port. Thence they will proceed to Penang, Medan, Kuala Lumpur and Java. Many of their matches are for charity.

A large gathering of friends, relatives, and officials of the South China Athletic Association saw the players off yesterday. Among those present were Dr. S. To Wong, representative of the South China A.A. on the Council of the Hongkong Football Association.

Ex-H.K. Players In Tientsin Interport Tennis Team

Gordon Lum, former Chinese Davis Cup player, who was recently transferred to Tientsin, has agreed to take an official Interport tennis team to Shanghai in August next.

He will be captain of the team which includes Omar Rumlajn, one-time doubles champion of Hongkong, A. A. Rumlajn, who used to be known in the Colony as a promising cricketer in the Junior League, Harada, long one of Tientsin's leading players and Tony Liang.

It is surprising to find that the name of C. A. L. Rumlajn, former Hongkong champion, is not included, but this is probably due to business reasons.

Shanghai is due to send an Interport team to Hongkong this year, but so far nothing is known of the northern port's intentions. Shanghai should have come here last year, but refrained because the Association felt it could not send its best team.

RECORD "TOTE" TAKINGS AT ASCOT

London, June 15. The Totalisator takings at Ascot today amounted to no less than £27,250, which is a record for the first day at this historic and fashionable race meeting.

An amended list of probable starters and jockeys for the Hunt Cup was announced today.

Perry rides Commander Third, Sam Wragg is on Jocus Pocus, Rickaby rides Midstream, Foster mounts Flying Thoughts, Sharpe has been given Pilskin, Sprague rides Bold Encounter.

Horses which have been withdrawn are Tempest, Hypothesis, Sun-track, Royal Salute, Pikebarn, Mannlicher and Inchkeith.—Reuter.

BELGIAN WINS FINAL SPRINT

(By Stanley Baron)

Wembley's six-days cycling race to nowhere ended with three teams tying, each having ridden 1,910.1 miles.

This is some 800 miles below record and 28 miles below the distance covered in a similar event last year. The final sprint was won by Albert Buyse, a Belgian, who was easily the star of the week and made a record for the race by riding one mile unpaced in one minute, 55 seconds.

HE WON 125

Out of nearly £600 put up in special prize money, Buyse won £125. His partner, Piet van Kempen, won £60; and Merckens, the German, £70. Only one Englishman, Cozens, finished out of five who started. Grant, who was troubled throughout the week by a shoulder injury received early on, retired on the last day.

Final positions: 1. Van Kempen-Buyse, 1,280 points; 2. Diot-Ignat, 704; 3. Walthour-Crossley, 302; one lap behind, fourth, Feden brothers, 443.

At the end of the race Sir Harold Bowden presented the special prize of £50 he had offered for the best performance on a Raleigh machine to Van Kempen and Buyse. The first, second and third teams in the race all rode Raleighs.

Arsenal Bid £10,000 For Norwegian Policeman

There is a point-duty policeman in Oslo, for whom Arsenal have offered £10,000, but this 23-year-old inside-right prefers the humdrum job of directing the traffic in his native capital to being an English star player.

His name says Reuter, is Roldar Kvammen, and in the opinion of both Mr. George Allison and Mr. S. F. Rous, he was the best player on the field in the England-Norway match last month.

Had Kvammen accepted, the difficulty of obtaining a Ministry of Labour permit for him to come to England would have confronted Mr. Allison.

In any case, Arsenal's offer places Kvammen as one of the world's best players. According to available records only four English players have been transferred at £10,000 or more. Arsenal recently offered larger sums than this for Bryn Jones, of Wolverhampton, and Tommy Walker, of Heart of Midlothian.

The Two Referee Plan To Go

(By Charles Buchan)

For the first time in English football history, there will be co-operation between the F.A. and the League next season in the control of Cup and League games.

The secretary of the League has written to the F.A. for its list of referees specially selected from recommendations by the county F.A.s, and the list is now in the hands of the League.

This co-operation practically means the death-knell of the two-referee plan; when it comes up at the F.A. annual meeting it will probably be talked out and nothing more heard of it.

But more important is the fact that this is also a big step for improving the standard of control. I know there is a practical scheme ready to be brought into force.

Briefly the aim is to have as linesmen only competent officials, who when they are not running the line, will be gaining valuable experience by refereeing in the London Combination, Central League and other competitions of equal calibre.

DERBYSHIRE BEATS SUSSEX EXCELLENT BATTING BY WORTHINGTON WARWICKSHIRE WIN IN AN EXCITING FINISH

London, June 15.

Sussex, who have been sweeping all before them in the county cricket championship, were sharply checked to-day by Derbyshire, the champions. Derbyshire beat Sussex by 281 runs.

In both innings Derbyshire made the Sussex attack look very innocuous. Worthington being in particularly happy mood, scoring 50 in his first knock and 122 not out in the second. Derbyshire's first innings realised 342 and they were able to declare at 311 for 3 in the second innings thanks to the contributions of 103 by Alderman and 133 by Worthington.

Sussex never looked capable of avoiding defeat. They were sent back in the first attempt for 243, despite a brilliant innings of 102 by John Langridge, and in the second innings they collapsed and were out for 129.

Although Hill of Hampshire bowled so effectively that he took 13 Warwickshire wickets for 100 in the course of two innings, Warwick won an exciting match by 21 runs. Paine (6 for 50) and Hollies (6 for 30) hit back for Warwickshire and turned the game in their favour.

After Surrey's start on Saturday against Glamorgan their ultimate victory by an innings and 155 runs came as no surprise. Gover bowled splendidly in Glamorgan's first innings and secured 6 wickets for 51 runs. The Welshmen, 383 behind, had to follow-on, and although Smart scored a fine 120 not out, they were all out for 220 in the second innings.

The results and individual performances as compiled by Reuter follow.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Lancashire (388 for 7 dec. and 145/8 dec.) beat Somerset (250 and 131/3) in first innings. Surrey (348/7 dec.) beat Glamorgan (165 and 228) by an innings and 155 runs. Derbyshire (342 and 311/3 dec.) beat Sussex 243 and 129 by 281 runs. Warwickshire (214 and 144) beat Hampshire (200 and 137) by 21 runs.

BOWLING

Devoting columns of description to the football match between Finland and England, the Helsingfors Press recently accorded the highest praise to the exhibition of stylish, artistic, sparkling, and sporting play of the F.A. team, and expressed the earnest hope that the match will be the forerunner of many similar meetings between nations bound in the closest friendship and mutual esteem, states Reuter.

The Englishman's wizardry with the ball is described as the finest display ever seen there and of the great educational value to the home footballers. Special mention is made of Miles, Hapgood, Willingham, Steele, and Johnson.

IDEA FOR INSURANCE OF PUGILISTS

Likely To Be Salvation Of Boxers

London. One of the things the National Union Boxers has been striving to devise for a year or two is a scheme for the insurance of boxers.

It is one of the bugbears of the game that a cut eye or a damaged hand can put a fighter out of action for several months, and though physically fit in all other respects he is deprived of a chance of earning his living.

To the leading lights in the big money an enforced rest now and then is not serious, but to the smug fry two months of inactivity can sometimes mean complete poverty.

It is therefore good to learn that the N.U.B. has collaborated with a firm of insurance brokers, and the outcome is the formation of a body known as the National Boxers' Insurance Association.

All boxers in membership with the N.U.B. are being circularised, and special attractive rates of insurance will be offered.

Professional footballers have their own insurance scheme, backed by the Football League, and that boxers are to be similarly served is a big step forward for which the N.U.B. are to be complimented.

JACK LONDON'S GREAT FIGHTING SPIRIT

Plucky Display Against Buddy Baer

London, May 25. In a thrilling ten rounds fight Buddy Baer, the American heavy-weight, and brother of Max, out-pointed Jack London, of West Hartlepool, at Swansea last night.

Baer, who weighed 17st. 2lb. and had an advantage of a foot in height, was the stronger puncher, but London gave a magnificent display of gameness. His refusal to accept defeat earned him a warm ovation at the end.

The Englishman was twice sent to the boards. In the first round he took a count of eight, and in the second he went down for six, the song saving him on each occasion. London, however, recovered and went after his huge opponent, making

Local Titles At Stake Friday

With the leading contestants reporting themselves trained to the minute and eager for their scraps, everything points to a good evening's sport at the Po Hing Theatre on Friday when two Colony boxing championships bouts will be staged.

"Young" Aramin, holder of the bantamweight title, says he has been training very earnestly for his match with Fusilier Fisher, local Army champion, and he is hoping to stop the soldier. Fisher is confident, predicting a win for himself.

"Bud" Whelan and Fusilier Owens who are meeting for the Hongkong featherweight title, are both in the pink of condition. Whelan, having already beaten Fisher in Army championships bouts, feels he can and will repeat the trick on Friday, but Owens believes he will have a slight edge on his opponent by the time they clamber into the ring.

Here is the programme for Friday night which starts at 8 o'clock.

Flyweights (three rounds):—Reggie Ewart v. "Little Rio". Four Rounds:—Denies Manders v. S. A. Lazar. Six rounds:—"Iron" Bux, Jr. v. "Little" Bertie.

Bantamweight (four rounds):—"Wild" Benny v. "Bud" Goldin. Lightweight (six rounds):—"Battling" Rio v. "Bill" Bashem.

Bantamweight (12 rounds):—"Young" Aramin (holder) v. Fus. Fisher.

Featherweight (15 rounds):—"Bud" Whelan v. Fus. Owens.

In the sixth round Baer went all out for a finishing punch. He rushed London to the ropes and rammed home hard rights and lefts to the body. But the Northerner covered up well, and towards the end of the round made a spirited rally. In the last round, however, London had obviously tired and Baer did all the scoring.

(By a Special Correspondent)

Whether cricket matches which last only three days are preferable to matches which last longer, or matches which are played to a finish, is a subject which has often been discussed in the past, and is now being discussed again. Most of us are familiar with the arguments for either arrangement.

The process of beating your adversary within a given time, or of avoiding being beaten by him, offers opportunities for the strategy of captains, and for timely during or and file. How much better, advocates of the three-day match tell us, are these brisk encounters than the dreary fortnight's affair, which drags along with one side 500 or 600 runs ahead, and all the interest of competition entirely crushed out.

The reply to this is that such a comparison is all very well, but if the object of a game be, as it is supposed to be, to ascertain whether one party plays that game better than another, there is something equally tedious in contemplating a series of cricket matches of which many, owing to an inadequate allowance of time, do nothing whatever to assist that enquiry—the story is merely one of wasted ability and futile effort.

Perhaps, after all, there is no general principle involved, and the matter is really one of conditions and circumstances. Our own season's programme, our cricket, with its multitude of engagements, obliges us to play two matches a week from the beginning of May to the end of August, for the sufficient reason that we could not get through it unless we did. We accept drawn games as an inevitable feature of our domestic cricket, and console ourselves by thinking that they are due quite as much to our uncertain climate as to a time limit. But outside our ordinary programme, our cricket authorities have already shown that they are not wedded to any cast-iron system of three-day matches, and that they are prepared to make exceptions when they consider it desirable. The Test matches against Australia, round which, it need hardly be said, the discussion centres, have four days allotted to each, and the last match of the rubber if necessary, played out with no time limit at all. If these innovations may be regarded as the thin end of the wedge, then, in view of the Australian tour in England in 1938, we do well to consider whether further steps should be taken in order to obtain more definite results to the Tests than we have been able hitherto to obtain. If four days are not long enough to finish a Test match, shall we devote five or six days to each? Or is it better to disregard the drawn games and let the present arrangements stand?

ALTERED CIRCUMSTANCES Australian tours in this country have altered very much in character since the days when they first sent their cricketers over to try conclusions with ours. This is not only because the standard of our cricket has improved, for it has been high enough for many years to challenge us with success, but because their campaign is not what it used to be. In the last century our visitors, in addition to their matches with England, were constantly meeting sides representative of the North or South, or Players or Gentlemen, against whom they had to exert all their skill if they wanted to hold their own. Nowadays, with the first-class counties intent upon the County Championship, and naturally unwilling to spare their best men for anything but Test matches, there is great difficulty in collecting strong elevens for additional fixtures of the kind mentioned. The M.C.C. can sometimes put into the field a good side, and at Scarborough, in the beginning of September, there is usually a worthy opposition. But with these exceptions a modern Australian team in the intervals between the Tests never plays what can be called a match at all, assuming that word to convey some impression of rivalry. They travel up and down, resting some of their men, and giving practice to others, and give exhibitions of their skill against adversaries who have about as much chance against them as a village team would have against a county side. Since the War the Australians have only lost five out of 42 matches in England, three of them Test matches, and two against scratch teams. Gloucestershire distinguished themselves by playing a tie with the 1930 Australians, but, disregarding the 1912 results when they were not at full strength, we find that no county has beaten them since Surrey won by five runs in 1909, or nearly thirty years ago.

ENTICING PLAYERS The objection most often heard against giving more time to cricket matches is that the extension produces cautious and dull batting, and slows up the game generally. Statistics of the pace of run-getting in Test matches in Australia as compared with that in Test matches played in England bear out this theory to some extent. The figures are given for what they are worth, and they may not be worth very much, for the rate of scoring depends upon so many and such varied conditions. The length of the over, the presence of a left-hand batsman, the fall of wickets, all these things and many others mean loss of time, and consequent loss of opportunity. Runs, of course, come much quicker when there is a long partnership than when new men are coming in every minutes, and it is equally obvious that when the outfield is heavy, the singles that are cut off before they become fours make all the difference.

Roughly speaking, the normal rate of progress in first-class cricket is from forty-five to sixty runs an hour: this is the range between the lively and the sedate. Matches between England and Australia, for all their importance, conform pretty well to these figures. The average pace of scoring in the 1930 Tests works out at fifty-three runs an hour, and in the 1934 Tests at fifty runs an hour. In both these rubbers the Australians scored considerably faster than we did, owing no doubt, to the activities of Bradman, who upsets a good many records and calculations.

There is one point which can be urged in favour of giving more days to Test matches or playing them to a finish. The more chance there is of getting a result, the less chance there is of one side or the other deliberately playing for a draw. In the time when Tests only lasted three days, if you were in the position of being one up when you began the fifth match, all you had to do was to sit on the aplice, as they say, and never mind about the runs. The sole idea was not to be beaten, and, though you had to last out for four days instead of three, still on a good Oval wicket that feat is not impossible. Drawn matches are unsatisfactory at the best, but the worst are those that are drawn before you begin to play them.

GERMAN OLYMPIC CREW AFTER THE GRAND

Although foreign competitors have until the beginning of June to enter for Henley Regatta, their plans have in most cases already been made. It is regarded as certain for instance that the Vikings crew from Berlin will compete for the Grand Challenge Cup. This is the crew which represented Germany in the Olympic Games and took third place in the final. Though the Vikings are in no way world beaters, the standard of British rowing is rather low at present, and there seems to be a distinct possibility that the Grand may go to the Continent for yet another year.

At the moment it seems unlikely that Germany will send a four for the Stewards Cup, though, remembering their fine form in the Olympic Games, it is surprising that they do not consider it worth while to enter.

It had been generally assumed that Von Opel of the Ruseelsheim Club would represent Germany in the Diamond Sculls, but after his rather inglorious efforts at Ostend there may be a change of plan. It is considered more likely now that the German representative will be Willi Keldel of Schweinfurt. He was the bow man of the double sculling pair which was beaten by Berford and Southwood. He is a good sculler, but is not always seen at his best in a close finish.

It is reported that Tabor Academy will come from America to defend the Thames Cup. They were lengthwise faster than any of our crews in that event last year, and if they are anywhere near as good this time they must stand a fine chance of winning again.

CRITIC OF WOMEN ATHLETES

BRITISH GIRLS' REPLY

London. By his criticism of athletics for women, Dr. J. F. Williams, of Columbia University, U.S.A., has incurred the wrath of British women athletes for girls.

"For the past three years our best women athletes have been subjected to medical examination," said Mrs. M. A. Cornell, secretary of the Women's Athletic Association, "and doctors say that recreative athletics for girls give no cause for alarm."

"I have had many hundreds of letters asking about the suitability of high or long jumping and other activities mentioned by Doctor Williams, and have no reason to believe that any one sport is more harmful than another."

Doctors will not go so far as to say that international athletics are harmless. Unfortunately it has been impossible to eliminate certain types of "super-women" from world events, and these women set a false standard for the normal girls."

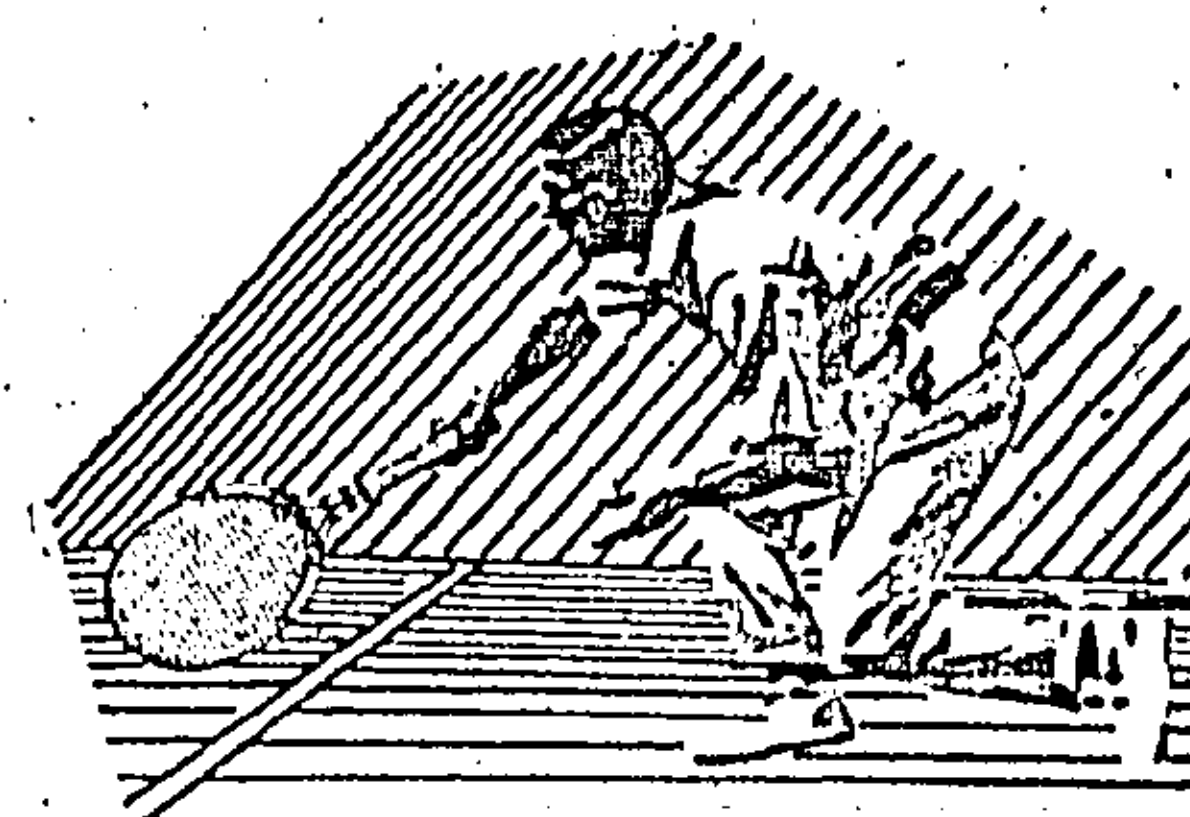

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed Feeling You Could Push a Bus Over

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks dumb. Bile, fatty drinks, palatable laxatives and harsh purgatives are make-shifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes the famous, sure acting Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Hamman's remedy, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's on the red package.

ELIZABETH

THE name number of King George VI. works out to the number 9. This fits the ruler of England, for 9 is the number of the planet Mars, and this planet is the ruling planet of England. Number 9 has for its occult symbol "The Hermit," indicating rulership, power, and success; protection, honours; fortunate journeys. The King's birth number works out to be 4, symbolised as "The Emperor," or "The Door of the East," these symbols in themselves pointing to kingship and the Empire's Eastern possessions. The number 4 is classed as being neither fortunate nor unfortunate. One side gives the realisation of hopes, accomplishment, endurance, and protection; the other side gives sudden changes; warns against the unknown.

These numbers of name and birth show the King as having a cheerful disposition, sincere and loyal, with a desire for peace and a dislike of discord. His mind is alert and observant, and he has a decisive way of expressing himself. A love of sport and outdoor affairs is indicated. He has the ability to weigh up people and the happy knack of being able to see both sides of a thing.

QUEEN Elizabeth has for her name number 7, with its symbol "The Chariot of Osiris." It is a fortunate number, indicating fame and honour, popularity and public favour; many changes; successful travel and voyages. A happy marriage; children.

The birth number works out to 4. This with the name number 7 makes 11, symbolised as "The Clenched Hand." Its fortunate side gives energy and decision, courage; success in bold enterprises; the overcoming of obstacles. The unfortunate side indicates trials and many difficulties to contend against.

These numbers of the Queen's name and birth date denote one ambitious and persevering, with pride and dignity, and much natural independence. The Queen will have faith in herself, and be ardent and enthusiastic, many of her actions coming largely from impulse and emotion. There is a naturally kind, sympathetic, and affectionate side, and ability to adapt herself to people and circumstances. Some artistic or musical ability is indicated. The mind is original, and has organising and executive ability. A strong love of home and children.

YOUNG men, stop, look, listen! Before summer leaves you pleasantly incoherent and sends you altarward with guileless steps, view your married future through the practical eyes of a non-partisan.

The woman of your aspirations, however marvellous, is not unique. She slips inevitably into one of five classifications. We will pin the butterflies to the wall. Take your choice, but take it with your eyes open.

How to tie a Stock

The diagrams below are self-explanatory

"A" STANDS for athletic. This girl plays every game from badminton to billiards, polo to poker. Life has no qualms for her. She reduces it to the simple rules of sportsmanship, and there you are—husband and wife, a team against the world.

Everything you do, you do together; crossword puzzles, golf, washing the dishes. She takes turns driving the car. She shares your life—from razor blades to political views.

She abhors red fingernails, ruffles, little dogs. She wears tweeds in town. She walks in the rain. She doesn't mind snakes. She is proud of her ability to lift a trunk, change a tyre, dress in five minutes.

She likes to "rough it." She always accompanies you on your holiday and maintains an obvious silence when she catches more fish than you do.

At a party she has a frank, scrubbed look. She addresses people with a crisp friendliness, and adores to give "straight-from-the-shoulder" advice.

The sum up: You assume the personality of a Siamese twin. People envy your compatibility; they are completely stunned when you run away with the frivolous wife of a next-door neighbour.

deplores the trivialities that chain souls to the material. She grows restless, she grows tearful. You are apt to lose this damsel to the first long-haired who wanders your way.

"C" STANDS for clubs, charities, children. This little girl will win you a "place" in your set. You'll live in the right street, see the right people, join the right clubs. You'll produce first a boy, then a girl.

Your social life will fit a pattern—accepting, returning, flowers for the sick, teas for mother's friends. At proper intervals your wife's photograph will appear in the papers.

She is a tireless charity worker. The telephone will reverberate to heated discussions whether the ballroom should be hung in salad-green or stop-light red; breathless ponderings on the merits of Chicken à la King as compared with Lobster Newburg.

You are the recipient of her day's tribulations, her low opinion of her fellow workers. You are the buttress for the inevitable Big Scene which punctuates each drive—oaths and tears for Mrs. Smith, who has snatched away the leading part in the pantagruel (for the crippled and the blind) and "Don't you dare ever to speak to Mr. Smith again, either!"

"D" STANDS for darling. You match this wife of femininity from the clutches of dozens of hungry admirers. You are proud but frightened to think you have won this most desirable, alluring creature.

You live in a breakable dream of white rugs, mirror-topped tables, pastel water-colours. You learn that cosmetics and French gowns bound a world just as important as yours. Your bride eats practically nothing at all. She can't understand how any one can devour a big breakfast. She takes only orange juice, but she takes it at twelve-thirty, half an hour before she's headed restaurant-way for luncheon.

She dedicates her afternoons to fittings, facials, movies, cocktail parties. She comes home exhausted. She does a negligible, chaotic in colour, sheer in weight. You find her reclining on a pink-sheeted bed, telephone in hand, planning your evening.

She is helpless when it comes to the rougher side of life. She needs you to make the decision she invariably discards. Thunderstorms, cats, cooks leave her prostrate.

Beneath her long, masearated lashes, her eyes play an indelicate "come-on" game. When the challenge is followed by the ring of the telephone, a sly box of flowers, you object.

"But, darling, can I help it?" she asks in innocence. "You ought to be glad to have the kind of wife men look at. Now, of course, if you'd married Jane..."

"E" STANDS for energetic. Welcome the working girl. She loves you very much, but you can hardly expect marriage to interfere with her career. To you alone she is "Mrs." To the rest of the world she is still Miss Jones of the Staff.

She is smart, efficient, well-informed. She knows all the professional gossip, the "inside" dope, the current quips, the new dishes at the Gloucesters.

What Is Personality?

THERE are few problems connected with human character which are more fascinating than the analysis of personality. What is this mysterious and much-valued quality?

Someone once said that personality was the result of feeling that you can do things better than anyone else. As a matter of fact, this is quite a prevalent idea, but to me it seems a complete fallacy. I know people who are crammed with conceit yet have not a shred of personality; on the other hand, some of the humblest people can give them many points on the trait. No, personality is not as obvious as that.

If I were asked for one thing which, more than any other, creates personality, I should put forward what I call a sort of quality of "don't care-hugeness." In appearance, this looks like nonchalance; what it actually is, is independence of what we call "public opinion." To explain it further, we know that there are people who absolutely hang on the approval, or attention, or opinion of others; and there are people who, although giving right-of-way to others, appear, to a certain extent, indifferent to their reactions to themselves.

It is the latter type who possess personality. People instinctively accord them respect. Personality means absence of self-consciousness too. People who feel uneasy and always aware and uncomfortable of the fact that someone is watching and either appraising or criticising never carry that quality. Don't be Fussy.

Two great enemies of personality are fussiness and officiousness. Nothing so detracts from dignity, without which, again, personality cannot exist, as useless movements or unnecessary speech. Fidgeting with a handkerchief, fussing over people, or trying to be "helpful" when it is not called for, are all proceedings which make one look insignificant rather than impressive.

Some people associate personality with size, assuming that it runs in proportion in inches. This is also a fallacy. Some outside humans may be perfect nonentities, while the smallest of the species may be positively dynamic. If there is anything physical which helps personality, size is not that thing; appearance, in the shape or grooming, is much more of a help. But the most powerful aid comes from the character.

Alertness, in the form of a ready wit and ability to meet awkward situations, is indispensable from personality. No one who is caught napping or made to look foolish can be said to be forceful. Firstly, it upsets one's own poise and makes one feel and behave in an ineffective way, and, secondly, it destroys other people's respect for one, so that the last thing they will then see is personality.

Be a Good Conversationalist

I do not necessarily mean that one must be a past-master in the art of repartee, though that may assist, but one should be alert enough always to see the point of a joke or a "leg-pull," to be able to answer arguments and questions with a certain amount of speed, and to be quick enough to be able to bring tact into play when one is asked questions which cannot conveniently be answered, or when one is being "pumped," or told something confidential.

The ability to carry off awkward situations successfully and with dignity is a very important ingredient of personality. To give an example, if a visitor arrives at an extremely difficult moment, the forceful character will keep her head and act in the most suitable manner, whereas the lesser character will become painfully flustered, look foolish, and most certainly do the wrong thing. Alertness, poise, and independence of character are the things which mostly go to make up personality.

STRIKE CRISIS SERIOUS

Roosevelt Shows His Sympathies Further Motor Plants Closed

Washington, June 15. The growing seriousness of the steel strike was indicated at today's Press conference at the White House, during which President Roosevelt said that if the Republic Steel Company was willing to make a verbal collective bargaining contract, it should be willing to put it in writing.

The President declined to say whether federal intervention is contemplated, but he declared that all were hopeful that the dispute was going to be straightened out.

The day's developments include the closing of the Fisher Body plant at Cleveland, employing 6,500 men, and the same concern's plant at Buffalo, which has set 700 men idle. These stoppages have tied up the Chevrolet assembly line, throwing another 800 in idleness.—Reuter.

SEEKS SUPPORT OF LAW

Washington, June 15. The Republic Steel Corporation today asked for a writ of mandamus in the Federal District Court here directing Postmaster-General Farley to order the delivery of food supplies mailed to the workers in the strike-besieged plants of the company. Mr. Farley was ordered to appear on June 22 and show why the writ should not be granted.—United Press.

The company previously urged the Government to force the mail vans through the picket lines, without success.

POSITION UNCHANGED

Columbus, June 15. There was a four-hour parley here today between Republic Steel and Youngstown representatives, who stated "Our position is unchanged." at a press conference after the meeting. Bethlehem Steel was not represented.—United Press.

READY FOR EMERGENCIES

Johnstown, June 15. The Governor of Michigan has dispatched an additional 100 state police, bringing the total to 200, to this strike-ridden town. The Mayor announced that he has 3,000 American Legionnaires ready to fight if necessary. He has already sworn in more than 250 vigilantes and armed them with pistols and clubs to protect homes and property against strikers' violence.—United Press.

Dog-Owners Fined

Batch Of Cases In Court

Several dog-owners were summoned before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy this morning with allegations that their animals wander abroad with muzzles or leads and keeping them without licenses.

Mrs. Leigh-Garner, of No. 12 Hillcrest, was fined $10 on admitting a charge of allowing her dog in Stubbs Road near the Upper Peak Tram Station without a muzzle on May 27 at 3 p.m.

B. Schreiber, of No. 32 The Peak, was similarly summoned for allowing her dog abroad in Stubbs Road on May 26. Mrs. Schreiber appeared for defendant, and said it was not Stubbs Road but Lugard Road. The dog had been injected against rabies.

An Indian police constable, in evidence, said he saw the dog in Stubbs Road near the Peak Tram Station, and after he had caught hold of it, a "boy" came up and said the animal belonged to his master.

A fine of $10 was imposed. J. K. Keen, of No. 400 The Peak, was fined $5 for allowing his dog to be abroad without a muzzle in Barker Road on May 27. Defendant pleaded guilty by letter.

Acting Sub-Inspector F. J. Clarke, who prosecuted, said the animal ran out of the house and someone ran after it, but an Indian constable saw the dog first.

ON BEACHES

Wong Shek-to, of Tylam Villas, was summoned on two separate counts of allowing his dog and bitch to be in Tylam Beach without muzzle or lead on May 26 and keeping a dog without a license. He admitted the charges and was fined a total of $15.

H. S. Yung, of No. 47c Robinson Road, first floor, was fined $2 on a summons of keeping a dog without a license, but denied another charge of allowing his dog to wander unmuzzled or on a lead at Repulse Bay Beach on June 4. Defendant contended his dog was on a lead. The animal, he said, had only been bought two weeks ago from Major Hodge.

Heard of the case was fixed for 11 a.m. on Saturday, June 19.

Mr. C. Y. Kwan, who appeared on behalf of Mrs. S. L. Ho, of No. 8 Seymour Road, pleaded not guilty to a summons of keeping a dog which was dangerous and not under proper control at 9.20 p.m. on May 7. The complainant was Cheung Hung-tai, postman No. 41.

This case was adjourned until noon on Monday, June 21, for hearing. A fine of $10 was imposed on Tsui Shi-cheung, of No. 5 Village Road, ground floor, for allowing his white chow dog to be abroad in Shing Wo Road without a muzzle on May 31.

Dojima Maru Inquiry

Witness Tells Of Rescues

The Coroner's inquiry into the Dojima Maru disaster was resumed this afternoon before Mr. W. Schaffeld and a jury of whom Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy is foreman.

Tang Foo, engineer of a motor-boat, stated in evidence that he was mooring his boat when the disaster occurred. Hearing the explosion, he ordered his seamen to take lifebelts to the scene and rowed round the pier in a dinghy. He then saw several Japanese struggling and shouting in the water, and rescued four of them, one at a time.

Witness added that he did not notice anything unusual prior to the explosion.

The inquiry is proceeding.

Britain Will Stress Importance Of European Pact

London, June 15. Baron von Neurath, German Foreign Minister, will visit London on June 23 as an official guest of the British Government.

It is stated that no negotiations are under contemplation, but it is hoped the visit will offer an opportunity for an exchange of views on matters of common interest to the two countries, and in particular the Spanish problem.

Talks between Baron von Neurath and Mr. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, will cover the question of a new Western Pact, but no important development is expected beyond the mutual clarification of the British and German points of view.

It is understood that no change has occurred in the outlook of the British Government, which continues to regard the conclusion of a Western Pact as the first step towards a general European settlement.

The problem of Spain will be one of the chief subjects to be discussed and it is hoped to learn the German view regarding the means of tightening up the control scheme and the possibility of evacuating foreign volunteers who are fighting in Spain.

ITALY KEPT INFORMED

Berlin, June 15. It is pointed out that Baron von Neurath's visit to London must not be regarded as a departure from the German and Italian line of policy and Rome is to be kept fully informed of the doings of the German Foreign Office, with which Italy is in full agreement. It is hoped that the visit will lead to further alleviation of the political situation.—Reuter.

RUSSIANS APPROVE PACIFIC PARLEYS

London, June 15.

It is understood that Russia has informally approved in principle the suggestion made by Mr. J. A. Lyons, Prime Minister of Australia, for a conference to consider a non-aggression pact among the Pacific nations.

No further Australian move is expected for the present and it is understood the next step rests with the British Government, which is expected to continue informal talks with the nations concerned with the hope of working out some concrete proposal for the conference.

This may take considerable time, but it is no secret that Mr. Lyons is determined to do everything in his power to advance his policy of "peace in the Pacific".—Reuter.

WOMAN BADLY INJURED

FALLS OFF VERANDAH INTO STREET

As the result of a fall from the verandah of the second floor of a house in Gough Street shortly after 2 p.m. today, Pak Fung, a married woman, suffered a probable fracture of the skull and was taken to the Government Civil Hospital in a serious condition.

According to a report made to the police, the woman was standing on a bed hanging out clothes when the bed broke and she was precipitated into the street below.

APPEAL TO FRANCO

London, June 15. A copy of the British President's appeal to Mr. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, to prevent the destruction of the centre of Bilbao before the civilians have been evacuated, has been sent to General Francisco Franco, insurgent Commander-in-Chief, with the expression of the British Government's hopes that the threat will not be put into execution.—Reuter.

CHICAGO IMPROVES POSITION

Senators Win In 15 Innings

New York, June 15. Chicago gained in the National League race to-day, while New York slipped. The Cubs won against Boston, five to four, on 11 hits to four. Harvick hit a home run for the winners.

Pittsburgh, meanwhile, was beating New York, seven to five. The Pirates hit 14 times to the Giants' ten, but their victory was marred by three errors. Ott homered for the Giants, Sauer for the Pirates.

Cincinnati defeated Brooklyn four to three, nine hits to four.

St. Louis piled up 13 runs on 14 hits against Philadelphia's meagre four on 11.

Ruffing of New York shut out Cleveland, allowing only four hits, while his mates hit seven to score three.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia, five to one. Boston defeated Chicago by the same score.

Washington, after fifteen innings, scored three runs in quick succession to beat Detroit, eight to five.—Reuter.

Two-year Term For Cashier

Insurance Company Defrauded

Pleading guilty to four charges of uttering forged documents and obtaining money by false pretences from the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ko Huk-ming, 20-year-old cashier, was sentenced to two years' hard labour by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Criminal Sessions this morning.

Accused admitted the following charges: (1) uttering a forged document purporting to be a certificate made by the Chief Officer of the s.s. Hupeh, knowing the same to be forged and with intent to defraud on April 19 last; (2) uttering a forged document purporting to be a certificate made by the Comptroller of the s.s. Hupeh on April 19 last; (3) obtaining $2,284.20 from the Union Insurance Society of Canton on April 20 last by falsely pretending that certain cargo, with which the Society were the insurers, had been lost; and (4) uttering a forged document purporting to be a letter written by the Tsang Tai Yuen firm on March 19 last.

Accused was also charged with (1) uttering a forged document purporting to be a receipt from the Tsang Tai Yuen firm to the New Zealand Insurance Co. for the sum of $2,208.22 on March 20; and (2) obtaining the sum of $2,208.22 from the New Zealand Insurance Co. on March 20 by falsely pretending that certain goods with which the Company were the insurers had been lost.

Accused denied the latter charges which were subsequently withdrawn by Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney-General, who said he would offer no evidence.

Asked if he had any excuse to give for committing the offences to which he had pleaded guilty, accused replied: "I should go to gaol, that's all."

"You are going," remarked His Lordship in passing sentence of two years' hard labour on each of the charges. The sentences were concurrent.

H.K. Weather Features

Showers Likely To Continue

The maximum temperature recorded yesterday, according to the Royal Observatory report, was 80, the same as on the previous day, with a minimum of 63 last night. At 10 a.m. to-day, the reading was 85, with humidity of 82. The barometer reading was 29.00.

Rainfall registered for the 24 hours ended at 10 a.m. to-day was 0.12-inch, bringing the year's total to 25.46 inches, against an average of 31 inches.

This morning's weather report reads: The depression over S. W. China has increased in intensity, and a trough of low pressure extends eastward to the Bonins. Another depression may be developing over the Sea of Japan. Local forecast: South winds, moderate; fair to showery.

DISCOVERED WITH WILD TREE WOOD

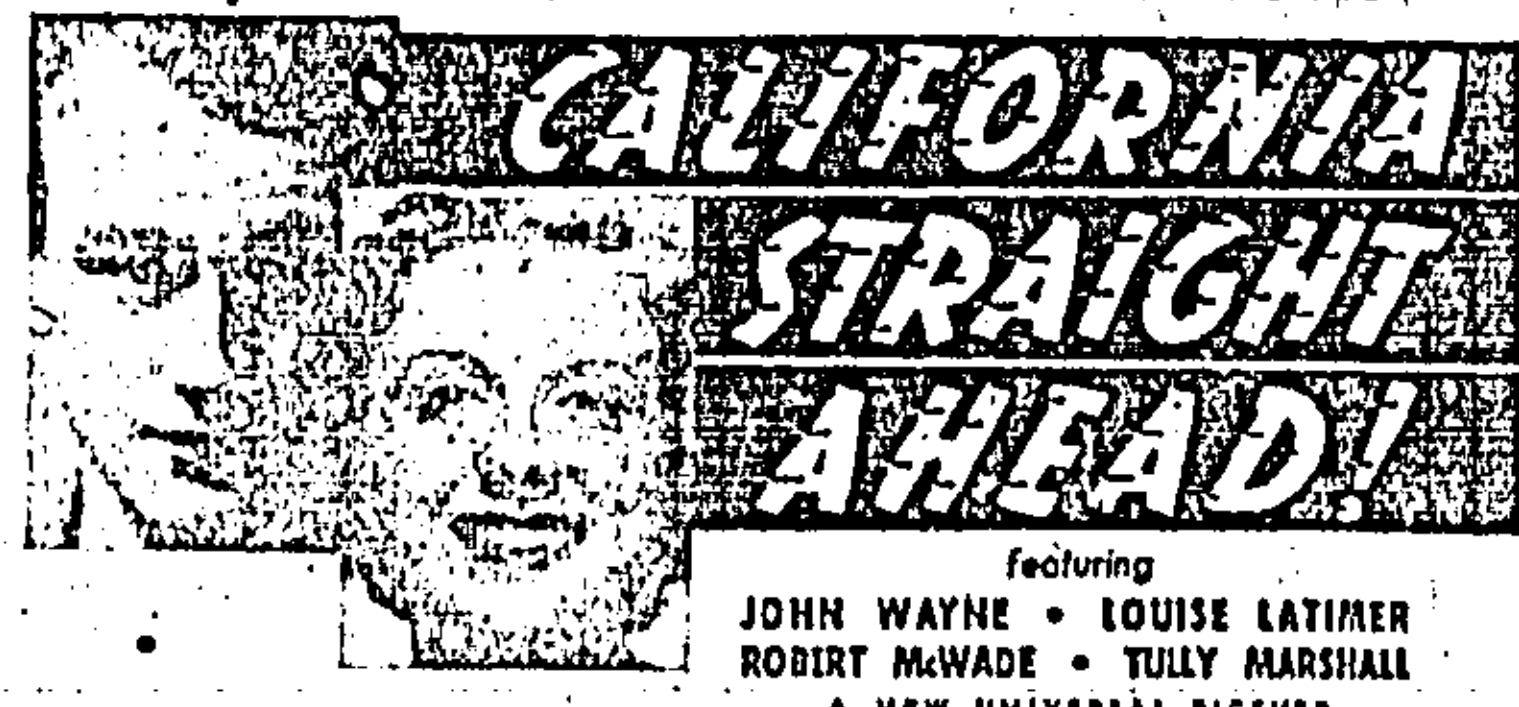

Heavy fines were imposed on two Chinese at the Central Magistracy this morning when they appeared before Mr. W. Schaffeld charged with the possession of wild tree wood on Mount Furibah, Government property. Pun Man, 38, unemployed, arrested at 11 p.m. yesterday with 70 catties, was fined $75 or six weeks' hard labour. Chung Wah, 30, unemployed, found in possession of 85 catties, was fined $100 or two months. Detective Sergeant Riddell prosecuted in each case.
